They Killed the Indian
Roads and Civilization
Doctor-Farmer Strike
Good Roads, Good Profits

—By Arthur Brisbane—

HEARST RANCH, San Simeon, Cal., Aug. 17—California is building a new "coast road," running north and south, close to the edge of the Pacific. It parallels the splendid roads that already run from San Diego to the end of the state and on through Oregon and Washington, to Seattle, for a total length of more than 1500 miles.

Convicts are employed on the coast road, paid enough to help get a start when they leave prison, a better plan than leaving them locked up, to rage and mutiny. The money earned is kept for them, but if a prisoner runs away, as occasionally happens, that costs the other prisoners dear.

For each runaway prisoner captured a $200 reward is paid out of the earnings of all the prisoners. The men watch each other, and escapes are few.

Recently two escaped, including one Indian. The Indian got away a second time on his way back to the prison camp. He had said that he would kill the sheriff that first arrested him, and on his second escape started to fulfill his vow. Before he could procure any weapon he was shot dead, the authorities deciding that he was "too bad and dangerous an Indian."

There you have a text for young editorial writers, in schools of journalism. They might say:

Human life on this earth today is one big convict camp. We work because we are forced to. Our rulers murder each other on a gigantic scale and call it war.

Those road convicts, in their misery, are building a magnificent highway on which better men will travel, in freedom and happiness.

Our imperfect humanity is building, in pain, suffering and selfishness, a real civilization in which better men will live, happily, in freedom.

Cuba deals with a doctors' strike.

Ten thousand medical men, organized in a "National Medical Federation of Cuba," rebelling against low pay, have walked out of hospitals and sanitaria, also refusing to attend 3000 patients confined in institutions.

The imaginary young student of journalism might also write about that:

This shows the difference between body and soul. Some Latin countries, Mexico, Spain and others, have closed churches, reduced the number of officiating priests to the vanishing point, and there has been, thus far, no effective protest, although lack of medical attention only threatens the physical body, doomed to early death, whereas lack of religious attention threatens the safety of the immortal soul.

The explanation of the strange indifference is simple. If you neglect a sick body it hurts, immediately. A sick soul does not hurt, until later. But later, unless Dante and others are mistaken, it hurts, seriously.

Another strike starts in Iowa. Farmers, dissatisfied with prices, are holding back products from the markets, thinking the public will pay more liberally when it is hungry. In the Northwest, wheat growers say they will hold back wheat.

Prophecy is dangerous, BUT. At this moment important men, with much financial and other power, want President Hoover re-elected. They know that every cent added to the price of wheat means many votes for the Republican ticket. No genius is needed to understand that, or to make clear the fact that when the election is past the desire to hold up wheat will be less intense, no matter how the election goes.

The farmer that holds his wheat now, leaving the cash sales to Canada, Russia, etc., may be sorry in November.

If you want automobile visitors in your state, provide good roads. California has the finest roads in the world. The world knows it and brings its automobiles here. Last month 50,903 out-of-state automobiles entered California, which means more than 150,000 persons, allowing three passengers to a car. These travelers leave money here, buy gasoline and help pay the tax that builds fine roads.

The beautiful city of Pasadena, on the hillside east of Los Angeles, announces that all taxes will be cut 11 per cent. The thing has been done by revising city expenses.

That will interest other cities and annoy only those managed by men that find wealth and political power in tax expenditure.

More interesting is the fact that five cities in Kansas, four in another state, levy no taxes at all. Publicly owned light and power plants yield profits that make taxes unnecessary.

In Jacksonville, the entire tax budget amounts to only $350,000, less than $2 per inhabitant, as compared with nearly $100 per capita in one of our richest cities.

Chief Power Fights Fire, Dies

FOUND DEAD ON RETURN FROM BLAZE

Deputy Had Only Just Got Back to Duty After Four Months' Illness

Henry J. Power, acting chief of the Boston fire department, was found dead today in a chair beside his bed in his home, 58 Fairmount st., Dorchester, where he lived alone, except for a housekeeper.

The chief, only six hours earlier, had finished directing firemen at a big three-alarm fire in the McKinney Brothers stables in Brighton.

Chief Power had returned to duty only last Sunday after a four-month leave of absence because of heart trouble.

The housekeeper heard Chief Power enter the house shortly after 2 a. m. today and then heard him get up again shortly before 7 a. m. and enter the bathroom.

BOWED OVER IN CHAIR

More than an hour later, when she went to his room to call him, he failed to respond. She entered the room and found him bowed over in a chair beside the bed.

The housekeeper called Chief Power's brother-in-law, Joseph J. Collins, who lives upstairs, and Collins summoned a doctor. The doctor said, however, that the veteran fire-fighter probably had succumbed while on his way back to bed.

The veteran fire-fighter had been assistant chief of the department since July, 1930, although his incumbency in that post remained a subject of controversy between the civil service commission and fire department officials, from that date until April, 1931, when he was finally approved.

ILL FOUR MONTHS.

This controversy was over the right of the fire department heads to promote Chief Power without asking for a civil service examination. While it was going on, Chief Power's pay was held up, but the chief continued to direct his men at fires.

Last April, the fire chief was forced to leave the fire college because of illness, and he subsequently took a four-month leave of absence.

INJURED MANY TIMES

Chief Power was born in Boston January 16, 1876, and was appointed to the fire department on January 12, 1900, steadily advancing from the ranks to lieutenant on July 21, 1911, captain on August 3, 1917, district chief December 6, 1922, deputy chief December 26, 1924, and assistant chief April 24, 1931.

When the Fire College was reorganized a year ago, he was placed in charge.

During his long career, Chief Power was injured many times while fighting fires, due to his insistence on going into the buildings and working shoulder to shoulder with the privates.

YOUTH IN COMA FOR 18 DAYS

A 19-year-old New Bedford youth, unconscious for the 18th day, has been a puzzle to doctors at Massachusetts General Hospital for nearly two week of that time, it was learned today.

The youth, Stephen Nicewicz, also known as Nesbit, was admitted there 12 days ago after doctors at New Bedford Hospital tried for six days to restore him to consciousness.

The doctors say he is suffering from a strange malady of the brain and has remained oblivious to his surroundings since he was stricken suddenly in his home, 18 Abbot st., New Bedford.

10-MILES-UP RECORD SET BY PICCARD

BULLETIN

Venice, Italy, Aug. 18 (AP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard's stratosphere balloon was sighted this afternoon over the plains midway between Venice and Triest. This indicated that he might land in Jugoslavia instead of Italy.

London, Aug. 18 (INS)—Apparently benefited by a change in the wind, Prof. Auguste Piccard wirelessed at 1:30 p. m. today (8:30 a. m. E. D. T.) that he was continuing in the direction of Trentino and Venice, Italy, after spending several hours in the stratosphere at an altitude of more than 10 miles, according to a Central News dispatch from Zurich.

Prof. Piccard had previously advised of his intention to land shortly, fearing he would be blown into the Adriatic Sea.

Prof. Piccard's message said that the temperature at 16,500 meters was "terrifically cold."

At the time the message was sent Prof. Piccard and his assistant, Max Cosyns, were near Lake Garda, about 50 miles from Milan, Italy.

Dubendorf, Switzerland, Aug. 18 (AP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard, the conqueror of the stratosphere, established a new world's altitude record today by rising 16,500 meters (more than 10 miles) above the earth in the aluminum air-tight ball attached to his stratosphere balloon.

He took off from the airdrome here at 5:06 o'clock this morning (11:06 p. m. Wednesday E. S. T.) after weeks of waiting for suitable weather. At noon today his headquarters in Zurich received a radio message saying he had smashed his previous altitude mark.

A crowd estimated at 40,000 persons jammed the airdrome as the balloon rose, at first slowly, and then with increasing rapidity.

The professor's last words were addressed to his children. "Au revoir, mes enfants!" (Till we meet again, my children!) he called out.

Mollison Hops for U. S. on Two-Way Flight

Portmarnock Airdrome, Near Dublin, Aug. 18 (INS)—Capt. James A. Mollison, noted Scottish flier, took off from here for Newfoundland at 11:35 a. m., today (6:35 a. m. E. D. T.) on the first lap of a projected round trip flight to the United States.

Mollison flew alone in his British Puss Moth plane, christened "Heart's Content," the name of a stretch of the Newfoundland coast which he expected to be the first land sighted on the other side of the ocean.

He planned to refuel quickly in Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, fly to New York, rest briefly, and return to Croydon airdrome, London, completing the entire journey within three days.

BRIDE APPEARS HAPPY

British airmen joined in calling the double crossing of the ocean Mollison outlined for himself the most hazardous transatlantic flight yet attempted.

Miss Amy Johnson, Mollison's bride of a few weeks, a noted long distance flyer herself, kissed the aviator goodbye as he got into his ship. She appeared happy, showing none of the anxiety she had indicated previously when she had insisted upon going with him.

A light rain which had been falling during the early morning ended and the weather cleared up, while transatlantic reports were favorable.

Light westerly winds to mid-Atlantic were forecast, with light easterly winds from there on. Their velocities were given as not more than 13 miles an hour.

BIG LOAD OF FUEL

All of the ship's comforts were sacrificed to make way for the 155 gallons of gasoline he carried, extra tanks being installed wherever possible. There was no upholstery.

Coffee and barley sugar were all Mollison took for food and drink. He was guided by the illuminated dial of his super-compass and a radio, with which he hoped to keep in touch with liners on the great circle route.

BANK TRIAL BREAKS INTO UPROAR

Attorneys and Director Lovering Have Sharp Verbal Clash Over Loan to Contractor

The Medford Trust Co. hearing was thrown into an uproar today with an open break among defendant directors of the closed bank.

Master Charles W. Blood, hearing Bank Commissioner Guy's suit seeking to fasten individual responsibility upon President Edwin T. McKnight, Mrs. McKnight and 22 directors, rapped in vain order amid shouting and objection as counsel for one defendant director sought to fasten blame for a bad loan made by the bank upon another director.

Lewis Lovering, one of the defendants, had resumed the stand and Joseph O'Connell, counsel for William J. Daley, another director, opened fire on him with a rigid cross-examination regarding more than $400,000 in loans to Frank Tragia, Leominster contractor.

WOULDN'T LEND $100

A Leominster banker, a surprise witness, had just previously testified he wouldn't lend Tragia $100 unless he put up more than that in collateral.

Lovering said he estimated second-hand brick and girders which were part of Tragia's collateral for a $125,000 loan to build a Leominster theater, were worth about $25,000. He said he though brick was selling about $40 or $44 a thousand in 1928.

'Why, what are you talking about?" O'Connell demanded.

"Just a minute, you're not in

Roosevelt Refuses to Drop Walker Charges

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18 (INS)—Demand that the charges filed by Samuel Seabury against Mayor James J. Walker be dismissed was made today by the mayor's counsel, John J. Curtin, at the removal hearing before Governor Roosevelt.

Curtin, in previous argument, had contended some of Seabury's charges "do not have the legal validity even of back fence whispers."

Mayor Walker seemed a bit tired after his five-day ordeal in the witness chair. He wore a gray suit, dark gray shirt and blue tie.

TO GET RECORDS

Seabury offered to produce all the testimony records before the Hofstadter committee relating to the mayor. Seabury offered to do this "to save time" as it was planned to subpoena Chairman Samuel Hofstadter for the records. Seabury's offer was accepted.

Attorney Curtin then launched into a formal demand for dismissal of the removal charges against Mayor Walker.

"I move that Your Excellency dismiss charge number one upon the ground that it is not a proper charge," said Curtin. "It is general in terms and is not supported by evidence."

Charge No. 1 of Seabury's 15 charges was to the effect that the mayor failed properly to execute his oficial duties; that his explana-

STOCK MARKET LEADERS RALLY

New York, Aug. 18—The stock market met support on a quiet sag in early trading today, and recovered in rather spiritless fashion. Trading was quiet. Changes were narrow.

A loss of 2½ points in Case was converted into a net advance of about a point in the second hour. Losses of about a point in American Telephone and Allied Chemical were turned into gains of about as much.

Utilities generally strengthened, with Public Service of N. J. and Consolidated Gas advancing more than a point.

FIRE DESTROYS LINDY BOAT

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 18 (AP)—Edward O. Brex, captain and owner of the fishing boat Hilda Marie, which burned and sank 12 miles off shore yesterday, believes the craft is the one described by John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk boat builder, in connection with his story of contacts with the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

"It did not surprise me any, because every line of description Curtis used fitted the Hilda Marie, although her name was never brought out," said Capt. Brex. "He knew what he was talking about, because he had rebuilt the ship in his own yards in Norfolk.

"He even used the first names of members of my crew in his story, because he had been on the boat and knew the men."

900 Threaten Trouble In Everett; $7 Tax Boost Looms; Cambridge Cuts 500 Off List

BULLETIN

A complete, detailed report on the criminal records, if any, of every person on the Boston welfare list was ordered today. Police ordered 20,000 forms from the city printing plant. These will be distributed to the various divisions. An officer from each station will be assigned to get the information at the State Probation Department.

A Boston woman, owning a three-family house and store, all rented, who told police she collected aid from the city so she could pay her taxes, was one of the many more flagrant cases of welfare fraud uncovered today.

Further investigation showed that actually she was using $5 of the $7 she collected from the city each week to pay off a mortgage on her property.

Police found her 20-year-old son in bed and learned that her husband was at the beach, "sunbathing" and that he occasionally worked having recently made $35 in three days.

PROSECUTION NEXT WEEK

Other outstanding developments in the welfare situation in which frauds were first exposed by the Boston Evening American, were:

BOSTON—Authoritative reports that certain city councillors will be named when the police commissioner reports to Mayor Curley. Prosecution of the first batch of fraudulent cases will begin early next week, officials announce.

EVERETT—More than 900 aid recipients, threatening trouble because their demands for increased allowances and discharge of teh public welfare director were rejected, call at city hall for their checks. Leaders calm them, but a mass protest is expected at tonight's common council meeting. Tax rate jump of more than $7 predicted.

CAMBRIDGE—Police Inspector Joseph P. Breen makes two more arrests, in addition to a man and wife already charged with larceny. Nearly 500 cases dropped from welfare rolls because fraudulent or unworhty.

ELY AND WALSH NAMED PARTY CAMPAIGN SPEAKERS

TUNNEY TAKES N. E. STUMP FOR ROOSEVELT

Governor to Open Spellbinding in Maine in September; 7 Senators on List

By SEYMOUR BERKSON

New York, Aug. 18 (US)—With Al Smith the only Democratic chieftain missing from the ranks, an official roster of the Roosevelt-Garner campaign orators has been announced by the national committee.

It came almost simultaneously with a statement by Chairman Farley of the national committee that it will assume the $400,000 deficit left by the 1928 presidential campaign of Smith.

Farley's declaration followed a conference with John J. Raskob, his predecessor, who managed Smith's campaign. Farley branded as false published reports that the present committee might repudiate the $400,000 deficit.

SENATORS TO SPEAK

In addition to Roosevelt and Garner, the campaign speakers listed at national committee headquarters by Robert Jackson, chairman of the speakers' bureau, include seven senators, three governors, and tentatively, two former Democratic presidential nominees.

Jackson announced that former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio and John W. Davis of New York, Democratic presidential nominees in 1920 and 1924, respectively, are expected to make speeches but that their schedule will be restricted by Cox's ill health and Davis' business affairs.

Those who are to come in for heavy work in the campaign opening immediately after Labor Day include:

RITCHIE LISTED

Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey and former Governor Harry F. Byrd of Virginia; Senators Lewis of Illinois, Wheeler and Walsh of Montana, Walsh of Massachusetts, Wagner and Copeland of New York and Costigan of Colorado.

The Wilson administration will be represented by Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the late President, and possibly by Newton D. Baker.

Women scheduled to play an important part in the speaking campaign include Mrs. Nellie Ross, former governor of Wyoming; Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, representative from Florida, and daughter of William Jennings Bryan, and Miss Frances Perkins of New York.

TUNNEY SPEAKS IN N. E.

Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, will make a number of speeches in the East, principally in New England.

The first campaign oratory is expected to resound in Maine, where Senators Walsh, Copeland, Wagner and Governor Ely go into action before the State election, September 12.

Whether Speaker Garner's visit to former Governor Smith will have any effect on Smith's attitude in the campaign is a subject of speculation.

Thus far, while issuing a guarded statement that he will "support the party," a statement that omitted mention of either Roovevelt or Garner, Smith has refused since his defeat at Chicago to say whether he will take an active part.

WON'T DISMISS WALKER CASE

CITES $100,000 VETO

Curtin then moved to dismiss charge No. 2. In that charge Seabury alleged the mayor accepted $26,000 in securities from J. A. Sisto & Co., brokers alleged to have been interested in taxicab securities and sponsored taxicab legislation.

"That charge is without evidence," declared Curtin. "There is no suggestion in any of the testimony that Sisto was desirous of getting a limitation of the number of taxicabs. He never discussed that with the mayor.'

He pointed out that a time came when Mayor Walker could have done something for the taxi interests but, on the contrary, "he vetoed a bill which took away at least $1,000,000 a year from the Parmalee company."

Governor Roosevelt did not immediately rule on the plea for dismissing this charge. He said he would wait until Curtin went through the rest of the charges.

"SNOOPERS" SCORED

"I move to strike that word out," he demanded.

Power plans, a sure barometer for the industrial activity of any section, have shown a definite increase in New England business during the past few months, according to Frank D. Comerford, president of the New England Power Association.

"The increase has been noticeable each day for the past week and, on two occasions, primary sales have exceeded 5,000,000 kilowatt hours a day, a figure which has not been reached since early in April," Comerford said.

M'KNIGHT TRIAL IN AN UPROAR

the Dorchester lower court," he told O'Connell.

There was further bickering and O'Connell demanded to know if Lovering had done the right thing by directors and depositors of the bank in regard to an aditional $30,000 loan Tragia got for the theater.

REFUSES TO TAKE BLAME

"He's arguing and making a stump speech," Lucey objected.

"When the iron hurts, they squeal pretty quick," said O'Connel. "You did not do the right things and you know it. Isn't that right?" he asked Lovering.

"No," said Lovering.

"Aren't you to blame for allowing Tragia to change his plans?"

"No, the directors knew."

"When?"

"In season," said Lovering quietly.

BUSHNELL SMILES

"When? When? When? When? When?" demanded O'Connell pounding a desk while pencils and papers leaped.

"I don't know?" said Lovering.

There were objections and shouting. Robert T. Bushnell, counsel for the bank commissioner, sat quietly smiling, wiping his glasses.

"You said a while ago the directors did not know until the application for the additional $30,000 was received?" asked O'Connell, waving his finger under Lovering's nose.

"You can't scare me by waving your fist under my nose," said the witness.

NEEDED MORE MONEY

Q.—And you did not give the information to the board of directors? A.—I think I did.

Q.—After the application for the $30,000? A.—I don't know.

Q.—It was the center of discussion after it came in? A.—I think so.

Q.—Will you try to remember what you told the board of directors about the need for more money before the application came in? A.—If I told them anything it was that Tragia was going to ask for more money. I don't know that I did before the application.

Lovering said both McKnight and Tragia told him that Paramount or Famous Players were going to buy the theater after it was completed. He saw no correspondence with regard to such purchase and took McKnight's word for it, he admitted.

ANSWER STRICKEN OUT

He was asked by Bushnell if he knew the 1927 credit standing of Tragia.

His quick answer which was followed immediately by a chorus of protest from the attorneys for the defense was ordered stricken from the record and defense counsel were permitted to ask questions to determine whether Middlemas tood qualified to pas on Tragia's credit standing.

A. A. Gillette asked him if he knew Tragia's credit standing as far as the bank was concerned and he answered:

"If Tragia asked for a $100 loan he'd have to put up more than that in security before I'd give him the money."

GANGMAN SAVED BY ROUNDUP OF MURDER TRUST

14 Seized in Police Raid Believed to Have Been Plotting Death to a Racketeer

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—A Manhattan racketeer was reported to have gone into carefully guarded seclusion today as police prepared their case against what they believed to be a far-flung murder syndicate.

After arresting 14 men and charging them with homicide in the ice-pick slaying of John Bazzano of Pittsburgh, detectives announced that the unnamed racketeer, one of New York's leading rum barons, was to have been next "on the spot."

In fact, detectives said, there was to have been a party last night in a swank Manhattan hotel in celebration of Bazzano's murder. Racketeers from several eastern cities were to be present to do homage to Bazzano's killers, police said, and the subject of "rubbing out" the New Yorker was to be broached.

SPOILED THE PARTY

The arrest of the 14, said police, spoiled plans for the party.

Details of the police story of how Bazzano was lured to death came out today, along with a stout declaration of innocence issued by the 14 prisoners through their attorney, Samuel Leibowitz.

"This is the most wholesale homicide arraignment in the history of this country," the attorney said, "and it will also be the most wholesale discharge of defendants in the history of criminal procedure."

A passerby stumbled over Bazzano's body, tied in a sack, on a Brooklyn street, August 8. Police decided the murder was probably done by friends of the Volpe brothers of Pittsburgh—James, Arthur and John—who were killed in Bazzano's coffee shop in Pittsburgh in July.

STABBED BY WHOLE GANG

Bazzano, the police believe, was lured to Brooklyn on the pretext of a business deal, wined and dined, then garroted and stabbed. Twenty-two stab wounds in his body were explained on the ground that it is a gangster rule to compel all persons present at a killing to inflict at least one wound on the victim, to the end that all would be guilty and none would squeal.

Four of the men held are from Pittsburgh and others are from Brooklyn, Buffalo, Trenton and Niagara Falls. Among them was Robert Anastascio of Brooklyn, who once served 14 months in the death house of Sing Sing prison for a murder in Brooklyn, got out on appeal and was released after a second trial.

Police said the killers of Bazzano were to have been rewarded at last night's fete by payment of $5000 each and offered "increased rates" for killing the New York racketeer.

HELD IN $10,000 AT LOWELL

Lowell, Aug. 18—Barely recovered from a self-inflicted slash in his throat, William J. McClintock, 32, of Washingtonville, N. Y., was held in bonds of $10,000 today for a hearing Sept. 17 on charges that he attempted to kill his wife and mother-in-law.

Mrs. Sadie Assaly McClintock, 26, who had been making her home here with her mother, is still on the danger list at St. John's Hospital, suffering from acid burns.

Police charged that McClintock hurled acid at her during a visit from his New York home July 15, that he made to end an estrangement with his wife.

After the alleged assault upon his wife, McClintock was alleged to have beaten his mother-in-law and then slashed his own throat. He was taken from St. John's Hospital for today's arraignment.

Webster L. Draper Dies at Falmouth

Falmouth, Aug. 18—Webster L. Draper, 58, one of the best known hotel men in the East and proprietor of Terrace Gables at Falmouth Heights for the last 25 years, died suddenly last night at his home at Falmouth Heights. He was stricken with a heart attack.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Carrier (Schrieder) Draper; four brothers, Harry Draper of Canton, Dr. Alexis L. Draper of Dorchester, Albert of Falmouth Heights and Frederick of Holliston, and a sister, Mrs. Marguerite Henry of Huntington Park, Cal.

DEATH HOUSE NOTE BARES SLAYING

Falmouth Man Named in 1930 Parker Killing by Fernandez, Recently Executed

Hyannis, Aug. 18—A death house note, written by Sylvester Fernandez before his electrocution last week for the murder of John Alves of Mashpee, has reopened the two-year-old mystery murder of Clarence Parker, Dartmouth chain store manager.

Officials carefully guarded the contents of the note, but information that it named a Falmouth man and told where the Parker murder gun was thrown was learned today.

The note was turned over to Dist. Atty. William C. Crossley of Bristol County, and State Detective Ernest C. Bradford was assigned to check the value of its contents.

SLAIN SEPT. 7, 1930

Bradford worked with State Detective Joseph Ferrari on the case in the days following September 7, 1930, when Parker was found slain in the yard of his home.

The man named by Fernandez is understood to have been accused by Fernandez also of the Alves murder.

At the time of the Parker killing, police advanced a theory that he forfeited his life for his activity against a ring of chain store thieves.

He had just parked his automobile in the yard of his home when an assailant sprang from behind some bushes and fired two shots.

The murderer seized a bundle that contained a leg of lamb and made his escape through a field.

MRS. PARKER'S STORY

Parker's wife, who was preparing a midnight lunch for her husband told police she heard her husband ejaculate:

"So it's you, you—"

Then the shots were fired and she rushed into the yard to find her husband dead. The murderer disappeared before she could get a good glimpse of him.

The leg of lamb was later found in the field. It led police to a theory that the murderer also thought that Parker had the Saturday receipts of his Falmouth store.

Crossley and Detective Bradford were equally non-committal on the new developments today.

BOY, 11, SAVES GIRL'S LIFE

The life of 6-year-old Frances McPherson of 39 Leighton st. was saved last night by the quick action of 11-year-old George Russell of 4 Leighton terrace who rushed with a blanket to the piazza of the McPherson home when he saw the little girl climb through the window with her clothes in flames.

Young George wrapped the blanket around her and stamped out the fire. She was then taken to the Lynn Hospital by Arthur Rand of Leighton st., where it was found that she had sustained third degree burns.

Her mother had gone to a show and her father was looking for work when the accident happened. Little Frances attempted to light a candle, and set her clothes on fire. In a panic she tried to get through a window to the piazza. Her efforts were seen by young Russell, who came to her rescue.

B.&M. BORROWS $10,000,000

Washington, Aug. 18—The Interstate Commerce Commission approved the application of the Boston and Maine Railroad for a two year loan of $10,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The security will be $2,000,000 of its general mortgage five per cent bonds, $10,000,000 of its general mortgage six per cent bonds and $5,500,000 of additional six per cent general mortgage bonds as yet not issued.

Tague Brands G. O. P. Charges as False

Chairman Peter F. Tague of the Boston Election Commission last night denied charges of the Republican State committee members that Mayor Curley was appointing "Curley" Republicans to positions as election officers.

As a matter of fact Tague stated, Boston has not appointed a single election officer in any ward of the city so far this year.

Disbarred Attorney Held in Check Case

Edward J. Morrison, 45, a disbarred attorney and now an investigator, was arrested at the Hotel Garrison, Garrison st., Back Bay, on a charge of passing worthless checks.

It is alleged that, last January, Morrison gave worthless checks for $200 to Gaetano Ciarello, proprietor of the Eden Cafe at 106 Huntington ave., Back Bay.

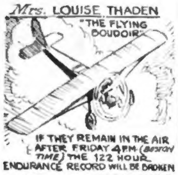
Women Fliers Have Only One Day to Go to Set Record

Mrs. LOUISE THADEN



"THE FLYING BOUDOIR"
IF THEY REMAIN IN THE AIR AFTER FRIDAY 4 P.M. (BOSTON TIME) THE 122 HOUR ENDURANCE RECORD WILL BE BROKEN

Mrs. FRANCES MARSALIS

Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden and Mrs. Frances Harrell Marsalis are piloting the Flying Boudoir above Valley Stream, L. FOG IS CHIEF FOE OF 2 SKIMMING N. Y. CLOUDS

Lonely Sky Circle Gets Them Weary and They Drop Many Notes to Their Husbands

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Aug. 18 (INS)—Two young women now have been in the air three days and four nights, Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise McPhentridge Thaden, are still cruising steadily above Curtiss Field, counting the hours to 6 p. m. tomorrow, when they hope to break the women's world endurance record of 172 hours.

This endurance flying is as monotonous as tree sitting, but not half so simple.

"Their chief trouble at present is not being able to sleep," Mr. Marsalis, pilot husband of one of the fliers, said today. "We're sending them up some hot malted milk in a minute to see if that'll fix it."

WANT HUMAN CONTACT

The fliers are pretty bored, too. Occasionally they dive out of the clouds and drop a note in a weighted container to the field, usually asking for something, but really to establish human contact. They are very lonely up there, flying above blinding clouds all day and through empty moonlight all night.

Their requests have been varied. Clean clothes, handkerchiefs, their mail, skin freshener and wrist watches—all been asked for and taken up by the refuelling plane. Louise lost her watch out of the window and Frances broke hers maneuvering the dinner pail from the feeding plane.

Mr. Marsalis had to go to Chicago this morning on his own flying job.

FOG WORST FOE

"I'm not really worried about them," he said, "only apprehensive about the weather. They've been extremely lucky so far, but it won't last. Fog is their worst enemy."

Mr. Thaden, who is an aeronautical engineer, is in Baltimore, minding his own business and the baby. He plans to come up to Curtiss Field at the week-end, and talk to his wife from the radio plane. Both husbands have too much faith in their wives as pilots to be overmuch worried.

The girls, who complain frequently of the need of baths, took alcohol baths today and made themselves up afresh.

SEES WAR DEBT REVISION SOON

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—With the presidential election out of the way the United States will join with Europe in some plan for revision of war debts and reparations, Arthur Reynolds, president of the Continental Bank & Trust Co., of Chicago, predicted today upon his return from Europe.

He expressed the opinion that such a move would sufficiently increase the value of foreign bonds held in this country to offset the payments which this country would waive, and in addition prove a great stimulus to business.

"I think now it is safe to say we will see a decided change for the better within a year, possibly sooner," he said of the business outlook.

The recent rise in securities, he believes, was due partly to signs of business improvement.

FARMS STRIKE SPREADS IN 3 STATES

Battle for Higher Prices Extends Into Nebraska From Iowa and So. Dakota

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 18 (AP)—The "battle of the highway," resulting from strikes by farmers for higher prices, was being fought on three fronts today—Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota.

Extending their blockade of Iowa and South Dakota highways into Dakota county, Nebraska, picketing farmers, asserting determination to withhold produce from the market until prices go higher, hemmed in Sioux City, on all sides, and the situation seemed serious enough to Sheriff Hugh Slocum at Stevens, S. D., to ask the state sheriff for aid.

Slocum decided to appeal after about 100 farmers, picketing a highway at Stevens, forced him and his deputies to stop escorting a fleet of five trucks to Sioux City.

SHERIFF FIRES SHOT

The sheriff fired a shot in the air and the farmers took away his weapon. It was the first shot fired anywhere in the area affected by the strikes, one of which is being waged by mild producers, and the other by farmers who have declared a 30-day holiday on selling all kinds of agricultural products.

The decision of Nebraska farmers to join Iowa and South Dakota producers in the blockade of the highways, was announced last night by J. F. Kriege of Dakota City, who said that pickets had been given orders to stop all trucks en route to market.

Sheriff Ralph Rippey of Plymouth county increased his deputies by 20 men as authorities of neighboring counties in all three states consolidated their forces to break the blockade.

ONE BARRICADE SMASHED

The most serious clash of the campaign in Iowa occurred late yesterday on the Correctionville road. Three livestock trucks with a number of the county's special deputies clinging to them rushed the blockade. A six-ton truck smashed through logs and other objects barring the way while the two lighter vehicles swung aside and went directly through the crowd of picketing farmers.

All of the latter leaped into the clear, however, and started in pursuit, but were outdistanced.

LANCASTER TO BE DEPORTED

Washington, Aug. 18 (US)—A warrant for the deportation of Capt. William Lancaster, acquitted on a charge of murdering Haden Clarke in Miami, Fla., has been issued by immigration authorities, it was announced at the Labor Department today.

A warrant had previously been issued for the deportation of Mrs. Keith-Miller, his former sweetheart.

Lancaster is accused of smuggling five aliens into the country. Mrs. Keith-Miller's deportation was ordered on her own admission that she is suffering from an ailment which bars immigrants.

TRAMP GIRL ON ROAD AGAIN

Keene, N. H., Aug. 18—"Dorothy Adams," hobo girl, who was detained in Boston, is tramping her way between here and Brattleboro, Vt., today, after spending a night in the police station here.

The girl, who said she is on her way West, applied for a night's lodging at the station, and was given quarters in the women's detention room. She thanked the police for their hospitality and left in the morning.

Yankee Rail Engineer Is Feted by Bulgarian King

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Augustus Phillips, a locomotive engineer, is back from Bulgaria still a bit dazed by the reception he said King Boris gave him.

No sooner had Phillips arrived in his native Bulgaria for a visit, he said, than the King, whose hobby also is locomotives, sent a carriage and a military escort around to bring him to the summer palace at Varna.

"You know, railroading is my hobby," Phillips quoted the King as having said. "We never have a new engine over here but I pull the throttle and start the train going. There is a lot I want to ask you!"

For hours they talked about narrow gauges and standard gauges and automatic stokers.

"Did they decorate you?" Phillips was asked.

"Yes," said the engineer. "He gave me and Mrs. Phillips passes over the entire railway system of Bulgaria, the best decoration I know of."

In return, Phillips said he gave the king some photographs of famous locomotives. Phillips' home is in Falls City, Neb.

27 TEACHERS TO SUE FOR JOBS

New Bedford, Aug. 18—Twenty-seven married school teachers, ousted from their jobs as an econmic measure, today indicated that they would seek court rulings toward reinstatement.

Many of them already have engaged counsel and will fight removal on the grounds that the ouster prevents some from becoming eligible for pensions.

No teachers were hired to replace them. Since their removal, teachers of special courses have been assigned to regular work and many of the special courses have been abandoned.

MAN IS HELD FOR RELIEF FRAUD

Michael Ontrey, 36, released from jail last December, has since been drawing funds from both welfare relief and soldiers' relief departments, officials charged today.

Ontrey was charged with larceny of $399.70 from the city. Police said he drew $3 a week from the welfare department on the first floor of City Hall and $6 a week from the soldiers' relief office on the second floor.

Released from jail after serving part of a year's sentence for bigamy, he started to draw relief the following month, they said.

City officials revealed that he used the name of his first wife as "next of kin" in drawing the soldiers' aid and that of his second in the welfare office. The welfare payments started January 13 and the veteran payments a week later.

$399,275 FUND GIVEN JOBLESS

The committee appointed to allocate among private charitable organizations one-third of the United Boston Unemployment Relief Campaign funds made its second report today, showing distribution of $399,275 since the first report, at which time $362,955 had been distributed.

There remains for further distribution for the balance of the year, $100,000 in cash and pledges of $230,000. The committee will meet late in September to allocate among the most pressing unemployment cases what cash it then has on hand.

"It is quite obvious," the committee stated, "that the amount of money now available and in prospect will be wholly inadequate to meet the needs likely to arise before January 1, 1933."

NINE RESCUED IN LYNN FIRE

Nine persons, including several children and a 72-year-old woman, were rescued by police and firemen early today when fire broke out in the basement of a two-and-a-half story wooden dwelling at 266 Summer st., Lynn.

Patrolman John Loughlin, soloist in the Lynn police quartet, who saw the fire, turned in an alarm and then broke down a door in the building, arousing the occupants.

First he aroused Mrs. Sarah Rubman and her seven children, who were asleep on the second floor. Patrolman Loughlin carried three of the children to the street. He next carried out Mrs. Frank Hartford, 72, and then assisted her husband, their son William and their adopted son, Philip LeBlanc.

Student Pilot Makes Perfect Landing Atop Truck

Hadley Field, N. J., Aug. 18 (US)—Nathaniel Yuckman, learning to fly, accomplished a feat no expert would risk doing. He made a three-point landing on top of a truck rumbling along the highway.

He was astonished, but the truck driver, J. Doglanovich, was even more so. The plane sank down, slowly crushing the truck's cab, which knocked the driver down from his seat to the running board, from which he rolled off unhurt.

The truck went on down the road. Yuckman also uninjured, standing in the plane waving excitedly to the stunned pilots on the field. A quick-witted pedestrian jumped on the running board and stopped the car.

SHOUSE HEADS CAMPAIGN FOR REPEAL

By ROBERT BARRY

Washington, Aug. 18 (US)—Jouett Shouse, who took a disheartened and disorganized Democratic machine in 1929 and converted it into a militant, confident party, is going to devote those talents to organization for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Announcement was made of the selection of Shouse as president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Maj. Henry H. Curran, who has headed the organization for several years, will continue as vice-president.

Pierre S. duPont, chairman of the executive committee of the association, in announcing Shouse's appointment, declared a "somewhat different character of work confronts us."

NEW TYPE OF WORK

He explained that a new type of organization in the various states would be required to "draw together all of those who feel that the Eighteenth Amendment does not belong in the Constitution and that the only wise solution for the vexed liquor problems is to return control to the states without attempting restrictions, no matter how desirable their purpose, as to introduce new complications into the situation."

The decision by Shouse to devote his talents for intensive organization in the cause of repeal, means his withdrawal from active affairs of the Democratic national organization. He had disclosed he would not be a part of the organization, but expected to make some speeches in behalf of the Democratic ticket in the autumn.

NON-PARTISAN DRIVE

Shouse was opposed for the permanent chairmanship of the Democratic national convention by the Roosevelt forces and was defeated by Senator Walsh, of Montana. Subsequently, Shouse sent a "Dear Frank" telegram of felicitation and support to Governor Roosevelt.

Du Pont declared that Shouse would work with advocates of prohibition reform in both political parties "without reference to partisanship."

Shouse will maintain headquarters in Washington. His purpose will be to organize the highest type of citizens, men and women, in all states, not only to urge return of the liquor problem to the states, but to have them interested in ratification by the states. His effort will be to have the most prominent men and women represent their communities in the proposed state constitutional conventions to pass on the repeal amendment.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 18—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., who helped swing Southern States to President Hoover in 1928, today denounced the President's 1932 prohibition stand as "surrender to the speakeasies, bootleggers and nullifiers of the Constitution."

The bishop attacked the President for not demanding more men and money for enforcement and asserted that Mr. Hoover may lose the electorial votes of several states.

Democrats Set for Oratory

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

Grab yourself a load of the boy orators who are going to chatter high, wide and ambitious for Roosevelt.

Franklin has Garner, Cox, Davis, Ely, Ritchie, Byrd, Moore, Copeland, Wagner, Wheeler, Costigan and Lewis. In case of a tie he can toss in Tumulty, Newt Baker and Tunney.

Al and Jack Garner had a talk in New York this week and the subject wasn't how to wash sand out of spinach. Al likes his speeches too much to keep silent.

Al will talk because with him silence is the third degree. Start him off on a load of hay and he will still be orating when they pitchfork him into the barn.

PARTY IS SURE OF A VICTORY, SAYS GARNER

Washington, Aug. 18 (INS)—The Democratic vice-presidential candidate, John N. Garner, was flying to Texas today after an Eastern visit which convinced him that the Democratic party will sweep the nation in November.

So confident is Garner of the result that he would not make a single campaign speech of not pressed to do so by Gov. Roosevelt and Democratic leaders.

SEES BIG VICTORY

"If I had my way, I'd go out to Texas and stay there until after the election," he said.

Garner said the Democratic ticket would have a plurality of 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 votes if the election were held today.

Nevertheless, the vice-presidential candidate is expected to return for an Eastern speaking tour about the middle of September at the request of Democratic leaders. Asked when he would make his first speech, Garner said:

"We already have the election won—why talk about the campaign?"

The only thing that can defeat the Democrats, he said, is a "big mistake" during the campaign.

Garner said he was satisfied that his Eastern visit convinced "the Yankees" that he is not the wild radical he has been painted.

"We've had two Democrats in 70 years, Cleveland and Wilson, and the country did not go to the bow-wows. Responsible people who are put in power will take care, not only of the liberty of the people, but of their property as well."

ALDERMEN FACE ABOLITION OF SALARY

Slashes in salary of all Medford city employes and the probable abolition of salaries for aldermen, who are now drawing $300 per year, are probable as a result of a mass meeting attended by more than a thousand taxpayers at Medford High.

Contributions of 5 and 10 per cent of salaries from city employes will give the city some $115,000, of which about half is already paid to the city treasurer, Mayor John H. Burke stated today.

FIGHT TAX JUMP

Just what use will be made of this money is not known and depends on action to be taken by the board of aldermen.

A concerted movement to refuse to pay the $6.40 increase in rates this year is under consideration, according to the temporary chairman of the taxpayers' organization, Mrs. Evelyn M. Bracy of 22 Pilgrim rd. She said the legal aspect of refusal to pay the increase is being looked into.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE

If there is a legal loophole in the tax, Mrs. Bracy has been assured of support from scores of large taxpayers.

Arrangements are going forward for an organization meeting of taxpayers next Monday night at Medford high hall, when city officials will probably be requested to refrain from attending so that organization may be completed and plans made for submission of recommendations to the city government without interference from officials who will be called upon to pass upon the recommendations when they reach that body.

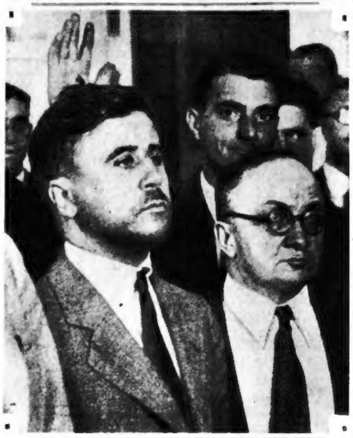
"MONEY MAKERS" JAILED



BORIS DOBRYNSKI AREADY SZPKOWSKI

These two gentlemen, Boris Dobrynski, self styled Russian count of the old regime, and Aready Szpkowski, who says he is a professor of chemistry, made $50 dollar bills so neatly with their special machine that Valentine P. Greer, New York restaurant owner, said that he got together as much as $25,000 in bills of large denomination at one time, so that the "machine" could duplicate them, thereby doubling his wealth. Greer kept still until he met the men on the street. Then to jail they went. (International News Photos.)

DECISION SOON ON SPECIAL SESSION

Governor Ely expects to make public next week his decision as to whether or not a special session of the Legislature shall be called to enact legislation for the benefit of cities and towns that are confronted with financial difficulties.

The governor believes that before federal aid is obtained for municipalities through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation legislation must be passed by the Massachusetts General Court.

The subject was brought up in connection with the request of the Clinton Selectmen for financial assistance. The matter was turned over by the governor to Director Theodore N. Waddell of the State division of accounts.

Director Waddell reported to the governor, but the latter did not make the report public and had no comment to make. It is understood that the State authorities believe that the situation is a local one.

The governor said that from a perusal of the statute creating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and defining its scope he is of the opinion that if a loan were to be asked for the town of Clinton it would first be necessary to have the Legislature enact enabling legislation.

HORSES SAVED IN STABLE FIRE

Spontaneous combustion in new hay was given as the cause of the 3-alarm blaze which swept the McKinney Brothers stables, in Mark st., Brighton, at midnight.

Fifteen horses were led to safety by a fireman off duty the watchman at the stables and several youths. Two of the mounts were rescued in the Metropolitan Driving club fire earlier this week.

The fire was seen by James Collins, of Ladder Company 24, who was off duty at the time. He sounded the alarm and then entered the stable. He found Edward Woods, the watchman, and with the aid of William Brogie, of Ransome rd., John Marino, of Waldo ter., Walter Andrews of Fulita st., William Young of Shepard st. and John Sullivan of Winthrop st., all of Brighton, led the horses to safety.

When apparatus arrived, Deputy Chief Cornelius O'Brien ordered the second alarm skipped and the third sounded. A crowd of 10,000 were attracted. Damage was estimated at $15,000.

7 Bolivians Die in Paraguay Battle

Asuncion, Paraguay, Aug. 18 (US) —Six Bolivian soldiers and an officer were killed and a Paraguayan soldier was wounded in a sharp clash at Caraya near Fort Boqueron in the disputed Chaco Boreal district, the Paraguayan high command has announced.

20,050-Pound Buoy for Place Off Coast

One of the largest navigation guides to be seen here for some time, a buoy of the lighted whistle type, formerly called combination gas and whistling buoy, arrived yesterday from Pulaski, Va., on board a flatcar which was shunted to Northern ave. The buoy will be transferred to one of the lighthouse tenders and transported to the Chelsea depot of the U. S. Lighthouse service to be held, until set down later somewhere along the New England coast. The buoy weighs 20,050 pounds.

Bedford, N. H., Aug. 18—Senator George H. Moses, Rep. William N. Rogers, the Rt. Rev. John T. Dallas, Episcopal bishop of New Hampshire, and the Rev. Thomas Chalmers of Boston were the principal speakers at a banquet, part of the centennial celebration of the founding of the Bedford Presbyterian Church.

COUNCILLORS IN DOLE FRAUDS; RIOTING IS FEARED

cases of faking, uncovered by private investigators for Mayor Hastings, are bared.

The Everett welfare situation, at an acute stage for several days, threatens to erupt into serious trouble at tonight's meeting of the Common Council to act on Mayor O'Neill's appropriation order for $150,000 additional for public aid.

This amount, while bringing the total of Everett city aid for the year to $750,000, will not permit any increase in the doles, it was announced. The doles were recently slashed.

The 945 recipients of aid are expected to attend in a body and to renew demands for discharge of David W. Dudley, public welfare director, whom the mayor defends as "doing all he can."

For two hours today a constantly renewed line of about 250 persons filed into the director's office to get the welfare checks. A threatening group formed outside but cooler heads cautioned against a disturbance and the men went home.

$7 TAX BOOST LOOMS

The Everett tax rate is due to be announced in about 10 days, and it was freely predicted today by officials that a jump o f$7 to $8 would not be surprising in view of the increased welfare appropriation.

Replying to charges of Warren Travers, one of the unemployed, that fully 20 per cent fraudulent cases existed in Everett, Director Dudley said there was little fraud. A few cases have been scratched off the list, he said.

POLITICAL WIRES PULLED

Demand by Councillor David M. Brackman of Roxbury that the methods of welfare "visitors," who are supposed to check the cases of all applicants, be investigated drew a return fire today from attaches of the welfare department who placed much of the blame squarely on the shoulders of some members of the council.

It was pointed out that applicants rejected by the welfare department had been ordered on the list after they had pulled political wires and that this meddling has not only interfered with the work of the visitors but has encouraged racketeering.

Politicians, anxious to curry favor in their respective districts, have at times displayed much temper in demanding that certain names be placed on the welfare list, without bothering to ascertain whether applicants are worthy or unworthy.

CURLE IS HOPEFUL

Mayor Curley made the following statement:

"The same abuses that characterize the dole in Great Britain have been uncovered here, and this was anticipated, since human nature has changed little with the passing of the centuries.

"I am hopeful that we have passed the peak of the depression and am quite confident that with the resumption of business the applications for aid will lesYsen.

"Welfare work in Boston has been entirely in the hands of the board of overseers of public welfare, which is composed of men and women who have been associated for a great many years with charitable organizations and who are familiar with social problems.

"As vacancies have occurred on the board, during the past year, I have filled the same with financial and legal experts, connected with other municipal departments, because of the increased financial and legal questions that are a natural outgrowth of the increased demand for aid due to the long period of industrial depression.

WHY POLICE ENLISTED

"The clerical and visitor force of the welfare department has been tripled during the past year, but with the increase in unemployment, the number of applicants became so great and the possibility of frauds so difficult to control through the clerical and visitor force that it was finally decided after many conferences between the overseers and myself that the aid of the police department be requested an effective checkup of all persons receiving aid be made so that no unworthy persons would be aided, and no worthy ones denied assistance."

Criticism that welfare visitors should have easily discovered whether addresses of applicants were fictitious was answered today by the claim that if adverse reports were submitted they would be ignored because of the interest taken by councilors in certain cases.

The police probe may result in a show-down on this phase of welfare activities which has been long looked upon as one of the most annoying and expensive evils.

At present 25,000 families are being aided, making an approximate total of 100,000 persons. The work of investigation is being done by 50 so-called house-to-house visitors.

How they could have overlooked some of the faked addresses given to the welfare department is puzzling police investigators. Applicants gave addresses which have been found to be vacant lots and business buildings.

Two women supposed to be the heads of large families gave addresses which turned out to be office buildings. Police investigators, supposing the women might be employed as janitors or caretakers, were unable to find any record of them.

BUY RADIOS WITH AID

A family in a thickly-settled tenement district was found to be enjoying a $250 radio which the father had bought on installments as soon as he got the first weekly allowance from the welfare department.

Others bought clothing and household furnishings on installments.

Since police started their investigations they report unusual activity in certain districts by welfare visitors who are also making special checkups.

FAKERS FRIGHTENED

Many of the fakers have become so fearful since police began work that they have requested that their names be removed from the welfare list. One patrolman reports that 12 persons told him they had decided not to accept further aid.

"Just a question of smoking out the phoney ones," said a police checker today. "When you give them a third degree they get panicky, if their claims are not on the level. Some of them admit they have jobs or other sources of income and quit on the spot. Others look you up next day.

"A boy just left who told me his dad told him to tell me the family didn't need aid any longer. This inquiry has got many of them on the grill.

Investigation of 1500 of the 20,000 cases has been completed by the police in the illegal aid inquiry. Officials are now awaiting the second allotment.

Deputy Supt. Goode, in charge of the inquiry, revealed last night that the bureau probing welfare frauds would be ready to act on the first fraudulent cases reported early next week.

POLICE PAY SALARIES

"The welfare department will have far less to pay next month. I'll wager the special police board and the officers assigned to the welfare investigation have already saved the city enough to pay all their salaries. Some of the cases are raw, but it makes you feel good to run against a worthy case. You'd be surprised if you knew some of those who are receiving city dole and who are sorely in need of it. That's the other side of the picture."

Capt. John McGrath of Station 14, Brighton, said he would recommend that certain families be given grocery orders instead of cash, because the money was being spent on liquor.

Results of investigating by Malden police at the request of Mayor Hastings, were made public by the mayor today. He declined to give names.

Patrolman John T. McCarthy made the investigation, the mayor stated, and he was accompanied by another patrolman in every case.

FAMILY GETS FREE RENT

One case made public by Mayor Hastings is that of a man, wife and five children getting $16 weekly in relief. The family was getting its rent free in return for the husband's collecting rent and looking after nine other houses for the owner of the property. The father is getting a pension from the Canadian army, owns an auto and had installed a telephone within a few days. The mayor says the welfare department declined to reduce the payments made to this family.

Another case is that of a woman and four daughters, the husband having deserted her. The family received $13 welfare relief weekly. Patrolman McCarthy reported the family absent on a vacation when he called twice. The mayor stated the welfare board had declined to cut the relief.

Another case was that of a family receiving $15 weekly. When the patrolman called at the address given, they found a vacant house, nor did any of the neighbors know anything about such a family.

It was found the family had moved away 14 months ago. Dr. J. W. Proctor, chairman of the welfare board, told the mayor the board knew of the change of address but neglected to change it on the welfare list.

The fourth case was that of a woman and four children, the husband having deserted her. The woman's father was living with her but paid only $2 a week for room and board. Malden paid $14 weekly and the welfare board declined to reduce the amount nor did it attempt to have the father of the woman, who is reported to hold a steady job at fair wages, pay more.

In a fifth case, an unemployed man was getting $7 per week. The man owned an auto, radio and piano, has eight children, five of whom are working steadily, one conducting a prosperous business of his own in Malden.

This case, the Mayor says, the welfare board agreed to drop.

In the sixth case, the man owns an auto and the family is spending the summer at a seashore resort.

A seventh family was receiving $7 cash and $7 in grocery orders, but the welfare books are said to have shown only the cash payment. The family owned an auto and a radio and the father had, on three occasions, traveled to and from Europe. There are six children in the family, some of them working, the oldest being 26, 24, 21 and 19.

When this case was called to the attention of the Welfare Department, Mayor Hastings said that the chairman declared the welfare books listed only the number of children and not their ages.

Police found an elderly man getting $3.25 per week aid, and living with a sister who was getting $6.75 per week. The man was also a pensioner from a rubber firm, getting $22.90 per month.

CAR FOR DOLE JOB

One of the most flagrant cases was that of a man who drove to work on a welfare job in an auto, which he claimed was owned by his mother. The family owned its own home, received $33 rental from property owned by them, maintained a flat in Malden where the man lived from Wednesday to Friday, and maintained another flat in Boston where he lived the rest of the week.

Mayor Hastings also cited the case of a man getting $18 a week working for the city while he received an additional $3 relief weekly.

Chairman Proctor asserts the Welfare Department has three investigators who are overwhelmed with work, handling some 300 old age cases, some 1500 welfare cases and also having to do clerical work.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Marshall, of Franklin st., Cambridge, were arrested last night and will be arraigned today charged with larceny. Police say they have received $1200 from the city for welfare in a two-year period. They claim Mrs. Marshall had a $1000 bank account and the couple own two houses.

Continuation of the Cambridge welfare probe has resulted in the dropping of 500 names from the welfare rolls in the last six weeks, with a dropping of aid expenditure from $25,000 to $14,000 weekly.

Seven fraud cases have been prosecuted and 10 others were dropped after the recipients made restitution.

Mayor Reaches for a Cigar---Draws on Memory Instead

All set for a nice long smoke with one of his high-powered straight eight Porto Rican cigars which arrived as a present yesterday, Mayor Curley reached his office in City Hall today—only to have recalled to him that he had given away all the cigars.

The smokes were sent Mayor Curley by F. Vall-Spinosa, of San Juan, Porto Rico, leader of the Porto Rican delegation to the Democratic National Convention, who surrendered his seat to Curley.

Every male visitor to Curley's office got one of the cigars as a present to try out, but Curley had forgotten that the entire box went in this fashion.

RICH MAN WILLS BULK TO PUBLIC

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP)—The public, from whom Walter E. Hering, millionaire, once sought advice on disposal of his wealth, is his principal beneficiary, reading of his brief will revealed today.

Hering, who died Saturday at the age of 75, was disclosed today by friends as the anonymous millionaire who advertised two years ago for suggestions as to a worthy social purpose to which he could leave his money.

Hering, who was president and founder of the Globe Ticket Company, provided in his will that any dividends from the company in excess of 10 per cent shall revert to the employes.

Annuities are provided for his widow and daughter and the balance of his estate goes into a trust fund to be devoted to the establishment and maintenance of a proposed convalescent home.

Pickpocket Trio Get Subway 'Transfer' From Detective

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Detective Frank J. Heinis stalked his man by elevated train today and got him—and three other alleged pickpockets.

Just as his train was leaving the 23d st. station an arm reached through the open window beside Heinis and grabbed for his watched, but missed it.

The detective got off at the next station and rode back, but nobody was in sight of the 23d st. platform. He continued to cruise back and forth on the trains, however, and at length his search was rewarded.

His prisoners described themselves as Anthony Rossi and Philip Wallace, both 17; Edward Gutowski, 16, and Edward Meaney, 15.

Sheriff to Use Plane in Hunt for Stills

Selma, Ala., Aug. 18 (AP)—The Dallas County sheriff's department is going to use an airplane to hunt stills.

O'Dell Garrison, commissioned for the work, will be armed with pistols and a rifle. His duties also will include transporting prisoners to safety when mob violence is threatened, the sheriff said.

Doctor's Bag Stolen

A doctor's bag containing drugs and instruments valued at $100 was stolen last night from an auto parked in Harvard sq., Cambridge, Dr. Robert N. Ganz of Brown st., Cambridge, reported to police.

THOUSANDS IN FLOOD PERIL

Peiping, China, Aug. 18 (AP)—Thousands of Chinese in Shansi province were left homeless ten days ago when the greatest flood in fifty years rushed down a mountain bare of trees, leaving desolation in its wake.

Railways, highways and telegraph lines were washed away and delayed dispatches telling of the disaster until today.

At Tai Yuan-Fu, the provincial capital, 700 houses collapsed and 2000 were partly submerged. In one village where a theatrical performance was in progress in the temple, actors and audience were suddenly swept away by a torrent of water.

Five thousand soldiers are working feverishly to repair huge breaches in dykes built five centuries ago and guarded by an iron unicorn which the natives now bitterly revile for sleeping at its post.

So. End Man Sought in New Jersey Case

Boston police today were asked by the police of Elizabeth, N. J., to look for Robert Kuehlman, 32, West Newton st., South End. Kuehlman is wanted by the New Jersey police for felonious assault. Officials there stated that Kuehlman fractured a man's skull and the latter is dying. Kuehlman has a stab wound in the back and in the neck the New Jersey police say.

Dumbbell Students Steered Aright by Psycho Expert

Columbus, Aug. 18 (AP)—Not every student who flunks out of college is a dumbbell. Nor are they all lazy.

Some of the failures, Dr. Luella Pressey has found, merely need a tooth pulled to stage a scholastic reversal. Others need to learn to adjust themselves.

Dr. Pressey of the Ohio State University psychology department had suspected something like this for a long time. So she organized small classes for students who found staying in school a lot like sticking to a bucking broncho.

The ones who appeared to lack proper preparation were given a thorough brushing up on the subjects they were weak in.

Those whose health was not so good were hustled off to physicians.

And those who couldn't seem to make themselves feel at ease in campus life were helped to analyze their troubles and to conquer them.

Now Pressey reports, students who have been helped in this way are doing better work, fewer so helped are leaving school without graduating and all have gained a new courage and a better understanding of themselves.

In addition, she said, most showed a general improvement in personality, another valuable asset in later life.

AUTHOR DIES AS BABY IS BORN

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—A romance that started when a group of young intellectuals conducted "An Experiment in Human Behavior" under the direction of Jean Toomer, novelist and psychologist, has ended with the death of Margery Latimer Toomer.

Mrs. Toomer, short story writer and novelist, died Tuesday night following the birth of a daughter. The infant was reported in good health.

The romance started more than a year ago when Toomer conducted the experiment with a group of young people, of which Miss Latimer was one, who lived together while the psychologist noted their reactions.

Illinois Guard to Survey Strike Area

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 18 (AP)—Gov. Louis L. EX-FOLLIES GIRL FINED FOR ROW IN WRENTHAM

A drama of Lake Archer, Wrentham, featuring blonde Marjorie Whittington, former "Follies" beauty; her brother Lawrence, a cartoonist, and James Gillis of New York, ended its run today in Franklin court with fines for the Whittingtons.

Marjorie and Lawrence were both fined $25 on a charge of disturbing the peace in a Lake Archer camp, and they were found guilty also on a charge of drunkenness, but this charge was filed.

All defense testimony was given by Marjorie, with her brother's name not even mentioned between his plea and being fined. The case grew out of a row in the camp early last Saturday when Gillis was found stabbed with an icepick. The stab wounds were not serious.

ACCUSES POLICEMAN

"I was upstairs asleep," testified Marjorie, "and a scuffle downstairs awakened me. I ran down and saw chairs flying around and I screamed. Mr. Gillis was lying on a couch with blood around his mouth.

"Pretty soon some of the neighbors began to arrive, but I told them I could handle it. Then I went upstairs to the sleeping porch again because the beds in the bedroom had no matresses on them.

"After a while a policeman came in and came upstairs. I was in my negligee. He came over and pulled the negligee open. I said, 'Keep your hands off of me.'

QUIZZED BY TROOPER

"He started to take us to jail without giving Mr. Gillis proper medical attention, so I screamed for it. He was spitting blood. I also asked the policeman to give me a chance to dress but he said, 'I'll bring your clothes down to the jail.'"

State Trooper Simon Sullivan who prosecuted the case with Police Chief Perley Dexter of Wrentham, asked:

"Do you remember what your condition was when I saw you?"

"I don't know it," she answered, "because I was in a daze after being asleep, so I pleaded guilty of drunkenness."

Q.—Do you remember asking me if I knew who you were? A.—Yes, I do.

Q.—Do you remember telling me anything about losing my job if I went ahead with it? A.—Well, I meant that you wouldn't be fit for a job if you did not give Mr. Gillis medical attention."

CHARGES PERSECUTION

Atty. Bernard Backner of Franklin, counsel for the Wittingtons, charged police with arresting the girl and her brother "for police publicity," and declared police were persecuting them. Judge George James said, however:

"I think I can visualize the scene. It was nothing but a drunken brawl. There was enough noise to attract seven or eight people to the house."

Then he imposed the fines, and when blonde Marjorie paid hers, she had $3 left in her handbag.

"Are you glad the matter is ended?" she was asked outside the courthouse.

AUSTRALIA FOR A TARIFF CURB

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 18 (AP)—The fact that Australia has a large apple crop this year has intensified her demand at the imperial economic conference here for increased British preference on Dominion fresh fruits, to the possible disadvantage of United States exporters.

MAY RAISE RATES.

Apples constitute about the only fresh fruit shipped to Great Britain by American growers, and they now pay a 10 per cent ad valorem import duty. Empire apples have free entry, but the question has been raised whether the present tariff offsets the ocean freight from the Antipodes.

There was said to be a fair chance today that the British may agree to enhance the Australian advantage by making a minor upward revision of the Ad Valorem rates on foreign fruits which might mean that New England and Shenandoah Valley apples no longer could be offered to the British consumer at the current price without reducing the income to the producer.

DEMAND GROWING

American apple standards are pretty well known to British merchants, however, and the British public is well acquainted with the American varieties, which have developed a definite demand.

It is not the function of this conference to place a duty on United States apples as such, however. It can only recommend that Parliament raise the general tariff.

Mrs. McCormick in "Very Grave" State

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—The condition of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick took a sudden and severe turn for the worse during the night and is "very grave," her physicians said today.

Most of her family have been at her bedside, her divorced husband, Harold F. McCormick, her sister, Mrs. Alta Rockefeller Prentice, her son, Fowler, her daughter, Mrs. Elisha D. Hubbard, and she has been awaiting the arrival of her other daughter, Mrs. Max Oser.

EGAN'S DRIVER BARES SLAYING OF WIDOW

San Francisco, Aug. 18 (AP)—Thes tory of the slaying of an unsuspecting middle-aged widow, allegedly at the behest of Frank J. Egan, on trial for her murder, has been given a jury by Verne Doran.

Doran, former chauffeur for Egan, was the state's star witness against the former San Francisco public defender. The prosecution contends the motive was Egan's need of money and the fact that Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, the widow and Egan's friend and client, had made him the beneficiary of her insurance policies.

PLOTTED HIT-RUN DEATH

Doran testified that Egan had ordered him and Albert Tinnin, ex-convict and also on trial, to kill Mrs. Hughes by running over her with a motorcar in simulation of a hit-and-run accident. He said the murder was planned as the thre cat in a motot car in front of a cathedral.

Describing how he and Tinnin went to Mrs. Hughes' home last April 29 to carry out Egan's orders, Doran said:

"We looked around the basement, talked about the plants on the floor—and then I held her hands and Tinnin hit her. I moved the car out of the garage, then he signaled me, and I drove the car back in, then out again (over Mrs. Hughes' prostrate form).

LEFT BODY IN GUTTER

"After that I went upstairs to turn the lights out.

"When I came down, Tinnin said, 'Let's go.' But I tried to wash off the garage floor first."

The witness said he and Tinnin then put the body in the automobile, drove around the block several times and finaly tossed their burden out in a street gutter. Doran said they then drove to Tinnin's hotel room, drank a pint of whiskey, and met Egan, who the next day bought them new hats.

Vincent W. Hallinan, defense attorney, indicated he would seek to show that Doran, alone and unaided, killed Mrs. Hughes after he had robbed her of $50.

U. S. Trade Is Aided as Imports Decline

Washington, Aug. 18 (US) — A greater than seasonal decline in imports last month has given the United States a favorable balance of trade amounting to $28,000,000 the commerce department reported.

Exports totaled $107,000,000, a drop of $1,750,000 from June, while imports fell off $32,405,000 to total $79,000,000, the lowest figure in many years. The favorable balance for the seven months ended July 31 is $215,128,000.

PENT HOUSE FOR WEATHER

WEATHER MAN LONG WAY UP

The ingenious architect of the new Postoffice building is determined to use at least one of the three penthouses which grace the 17th floor of the building for somebody's benefit.

Not daunted by the fact that two of them have fallen to the humble lot of camouflaging the smokestacks and housing the elevator machinery, he conceived the excellent idea of putting the weather bureau into one of these airy nooks.

Therefore when the building is opened Uncle Sam's weather sleuths will dispense the latest atmospheric gossip from a rather lofty perch.

When chief weather scout, George Loveland, was asked how he liked the idea he seemed quite happy over the prospect of "a penthouse way up in the sky."

"It's a lot higher than any of us ever expected to get in this game," he said, "but living up there in the rarified atmosphere with no stairs to climb and weather indications whistling right in the window, we are going to be able to work a lot better."

Incubator Baby Is Expected to Live

She is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Leonard of Tufts st., Cambridge.

SIX RAIDS NET BEER AND RUM

Twenty-four federal agents, led by Field Agent Dennis T. Lordan, last night seized a large assortment of liquor in five places in Everett and one in Chelsea. They arrested two men, Salvatore Linerello and Emilio Muriere, and left summons for Anthony Marcella, Ambrose English, Rose McLellan, Romolo Signerilli and John Cascaccio. They will be arraigned before Commissioner Jenney today.

In Woodlawn ave., Chelsea, the agents say they found part of the place fitted up as a beer garden, while in the cellar was a large brewing plant. The seizure, they say, was 35 cases of beer and five gallons of alcohol.

The agents say that in Lewis st., Everett, they found 60 bottles of liquor and eight gallons in bulk.

A patent medicine store in Broadway, Everett, yielded alcohol, according to the agents.

The agents say they found beer and liquor in three other places in Everett.

PAIR SAVED AS BOAT UPSETS

Gloucester, Aug. 18—Prof. Clarence H. Haring of Harvard University, and his son, Philip, were safe at home today after their rescue from their overturned 16-foot sloop by a Coast Guard boat. The pair clung to their craft off Ipswich for three hours.

Haring, who has a summer home at Annisquam, told the coast guardsmen they were "about ready to give up." He was unable to explain how the craft upset in the smooth water.

Tom Mix Fights for Daughter's Custody

Los Angeles, Aug. 18 (US)—Custody of Thomasina Mix, 10, daughter of Tom Mix, film star, and his former wife, Mrs. Victoria Mix Alazabal, who married Manuel D. Alazabal, wealthy Argentinan, is to be again threshed out in court as the result of the filing of a petition by Mix asking the court to award him custody.

Who'll Lend an Auto to Boys for This Kindly Mission?

Has any of the readers of the Boston American a car that could be donated a week from Sunday to take a group of West End newsboys to visit a sick chum and serenade him with the harmonica music he loves?

The boy is Albert Pugliese, 14, of 20 Anderson st., West End, who supported a family of four by selling papers until he was horribly mangled in an elevator accident last April while at work.

He cheered patients at the City Hospital with his imitations of "Bing" Crosby and seemed to be getting better, but he's not so well now. He's now at the Canton Hospital and his chances are said to be slim.

A group of fellow newsboys, who helped him organize a harmonica band, want to give him a serenade, but have no means of transportation. If any kind-hearted reader wants to help the boys, will he or she please get in touch with Dominic Quagenti of 76 Poplar st., West End? Dominic says he'll be at home from 11 to 2 every day.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

THE DARK AND BLOODY GROUND

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth, noted painter of the American Indian... inspired by the fierce cruelty of the savages whose knives and tomahawks caused the story of the Pioneer West to be written in blood.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ...the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

Something 'll Drop. ↕ In Re Paavo Nurmi.
Cauliflower Market. The Braves of 1914.

Off on a Little Whirl Around Sport's Wheel

DOWN IN THE old whaling town of Tiverton, in Little Rhody, tonight, Primo Carnera, who was, or wasn't, depending on the eyesight, judgment, feelings of those who saw the contest, outpointed by Stanley Poreda in Jersey on Tuesday night, will crawl through the ropes for another passage de upholstered maulies. The decision that Poreda was awarded over Carnera started a Civil War among the New York and Jersey sports writers. Our old side kicks, Hype Igoe and Eddie Frayne, for instance, took opposing viewpoints. Hype chirped "O. K." Eddie bellowed "Rotten!" But none of the boys should get to squabbling over the decision in Tiverton tonight. Jack Gagnon is going to be in the opposite corner to the Ambling Alp. The big French Canadian from the Phil Buccola stable is one of the most knocked-out scrappers in captivity. He has a chin that would make Dresden china seem tougher than Harveyized armor plate. So if the Man Mountain don't fall on M'seu Jaques and squash the everlastin' daylights out of him for a knockout the populace will swoon and yell for the smelling salts. In his bout with Tuffy Griffith, y'know, Gagnon surprised by being on the shooting instead of receiving end and knocked Tuffy for a goal. But his chances against Carnera wouldn't bring 10 cents in the open market. But not without a Jersey decision. Joe Mangold, the referee who awarded the palm to Poreda over Carnera, has been suspended. Looks as if the Man Mountain was "given the works," as they say in the best sets.

WHICH ALL TOUCHES on and appertains to the fact that the state of the Cauliflower Market here in Boston is something orful. Can't quite figger it out. Boston raises more great fighters to the square acre than any spot on this terrestrial globe, yet never gets a peek at the home talent. When us Bostonians want to see Jack Sharkey, Ernie Schaaf, Lou Brouillard, Johnny Indrisano, Sammy Fuller and others of our local top-notchers in action, why we have to take the choo-choos to Gotham or some other way point. Is that right, Mawruss, we ask you? They're letting boxing die of the dry rot here in the home of the famous Sullivans, Langfords, Dixons, Walcotts, Glovers and Baldwins. But every cloud has a silver lining. Thank goodness Tiverton, and not Boston, gets the Carnera-Gagnon bout. When us Boston cauliflower addicts inhale our fisticuffs we want to imbibe a fight, not a murder. Now, M'seu Gagnon, pull another rabbit out of the bag and jolt the sports world like you did when you put the lights out on Griffith.

BUT MY! MY! And a couple of Ohdimis! How our little boy friend, Stanley Poreda, has grown since we saw him bu'st into Max Schmeling's camp when the Black Uhlan was training at En Joie Health Park, Endicott, which is up Binghamton way, for his first tete-a-tete with Sharkey! The kid, who a couple of years ago only was a hired shock absorber for the champion from the land of the Sauerkraut and Wurtsburger—Oi! Oi! Wurtsburger! Smack! Smack!—now is hanging hot on the flanks of the headliners. Stan got himself a decision over our own Ernie Schaaf and now has bagged a debated one over the giant Carnera. E'en Jack Sharkey himself can feel Poreda's hot breath on his neck and his claws ticklin' the seat of the Squire's equilibrium.

SAY, FOLKS, SUPPOSIN', just supposin' that Paavo Nurmi, the world's greatest distance runner, instead of being from little Finland was from our great and glorious U. S. A. And supposin', just supposin' Nurmi sported the silks of some powerful American club like the New York A. C., Boston A. A. or Chicago A. A. Do you think for one minute that if Nurmi was a Yank, or a Briton, or a Parlay-Voo that the august International Amateur Athletic Federation would be allowed to hold over his case for a meeting two years hence and practically force the great athlete to turn pro, whether he wants to or not? No one would blame the International Federation if on definite evidence it declared Nurmi a professional and barred him forever from amateur athletics. But to withhold definite decision on Nurmi's case and ask him to wait two years for another hearing is like casting him on a raft in the middle of the athletic ocean without bread or water. The action of the International Amateur Athletic Federation on the Nurmi case savors more of the Inquisition than it does of the deliberation of sportsmen. You can bet that if it was some American that was being give the raw deal the great athlete from little Finland has been given the International Amateur Athletic Federation either would be compelled at once to give a definite decision on the Nurmi case or the bars immediately let down for Nurmi to resume the position he long and gloriously held in amateur athletics.

IF ATHLETIC LEADERS of the type of the late Bill Prout or Jim Sullivan held the helm, you can wager that Nurmi, Finn or no Finn, would be given a square deal on American soil. Prout and Sullivan never evaded an issue. They faced things with clear eyes and face front. As long as Nurmi has credentials from the Finnish A. A. U. vouching for his amateur standing, he should be allowed to compete in America unless the A. A. U. can present evidence he has violated the amateur code. It is up to the Amateur Athletic Union to take the bull by the horns and declare definitely that as far as America is concerned Nurmi either is, or is not, an amateur.

YOU'LL HAVE TO come to Boston and go back to 1914 to find an equal of the drive made by Max Carey and his Brooklyn Dodgers. Outside of the Giants no team looked worse than did Brooklyn up until July 28. The Dodgers then struck their gait and the last three weeks have swept up through the league like a prairie fire. But baseball probably never again will equal the famous 1914 drive of the Braves. Hopeless tailenders on July 4, and so deep in the mire that it looked as if a derrick would be required to hoist them out of the muck, the Braves launched themselves into a fighting fury that would not be denied. The July 4th tailenders came with such a mad, insane, irresistible spurt that they won the National League pennant. Continuing their insane burst they humbled the mighty Athletics in four straight games in the World's Series.

TWO DIRECTLY OPPOSITE types, George Stallings, who lashed the Braves of 1914 to their glorious triumph, and Max Carey, who has pulled the Dodgers out of the depths. Stallings a swearing, cussing, roaring hard-boiled driver. Carey a quiet, soft-spoken, former divinity student. Both leaders got results in their own way.

JIM GAFFNEY, owner of the great pennant-winning Braves, builder and still owner of Braves Field, has crossed the home plate in the Biggest Game of All. Jim did much for baseball, much for Boston. A legion of friends mourn his passing.

Does Fighter Look Like Actors, or Are We Seeing Things?

ANDREWS BEST OF RED SOX HURLERS

By JOE CASHMAN

There was an extra paragraph to the message Ivy Paul Andrews sent his mother back home in Dora, Ala., after leading the Red Sox to a victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Ivy Paul, you know, wires his mother every time he chalks up a triumph.

"I won today—Love," is all he usually finds it necessary to say, but following his latest decision he could and did add, "I am now a winning pitcher, the only one on the club."

Yes, folks, when Ivy Paul turned back the Browns his season's record read seven victories and six defeats, making him the first Red Sox pitcher with a percentage of better than .500 at any time this season.

And, you must admit, a .540 pitcher with a .250 ball club really has something to write home about.

GIVES ONLY SIX HITS

The ex-Yankee flinger gave one of his finest performances against the Browns. He allowed more runs and didn't strike out as many as in his previous start, when he licked the A's, but he was every bit as effective.

Six widely separated singles were all he permitted and three of them might have been turned into outs. In fact, with perfect support he probably wouldn't have been scored upon.

He didn't have to worry any, however, about the enemy's three markers. Big Smead Jolley and equally large Dale Alexander took care of that handicap by manufacturing just twice as many tallies.

Gordon "Dusty" Rhodes, another Yankee castoff, will take the hill in the third and final game of the series with the Browns at the Fens this p. m.

So What?

—By JOE MOONEY—

So many people in Chicago failed to see the Olympics that the Braves and the Cubs staged a Marathon of their own at Wrigley Field.

McKechnie used Brown, Frankhouse and Pruett, and had Juan Zabala warming up under the stands when the end came.

The Cubs were allowed to win in the 19th when it was reported that Charlie Grimm was measuring Paavo Nurmi for a uniform.

When Fred Frankhouse replaced Brown in the seventh they thought he'd be back so soon nobody thought to wish him godspeed.

And when Fred finally reached the showers he was gone so long nobody could remember his name.

It was the eighth straight defeat for the Braves, but it looked like the eighth and ninth together.

The Braves got a man on second once, but he almost starved to death before the side was retired.

The winning run for the Cubs came just in time. Another half-hour on third and Woody English would have called for a wheel chair.

DETROIT CROWD CHEER KAY DON

Detroit, Aug. 18 (AP)—A crowd of cheering persons met Kaye Don, British speedboat pilot, who will oppose Gar Wood here next month in the Harmsworth Trophy races on Lake St. Clair, when he arrived in Detroit today. He was taken to the city hall for a formal welcome.

The first heat of the 1932 trophy race over the new Lake St. Clair course will be run on Saturday, Sept. 3.

GASTANAGA IS MOVIE STAR'S DOUBLE

By HYPE IGOE

New York, Aug. 18—Hiking up Broadway to the Garden to see Mr. Bill Carey about that Schmeling-Walker argument for the Christmas Fund, I ran into a mob that nearly smothered poor Little Hype. Right in front of Lindy's.

I was considering a two-block detour when over the tops of a thousand heads I see a handsome profile that stopped old Hypus in his tracks.

Was old Hypus seeing things? Valentino has been in his tomb seven years. It couldn't be.

The profile turned and again old Hype thought he was seeing things. Chevalier?

NOT CHEVALIER

Well, it couldn't be he, either. The Dream Boy of the movies is over in Paris catching monkeys and divorces. Even old Hypus knows that.

So what? So old Hypus crashes right through that mob and finds what? He finds another boy who lays 'em low—but not a movie star, yet. He might be at that, later. He's handsome enough.

You've seen doubles for ONE movie star. And for Hoover and Coolidge. But did you ever see a bloke who from different angles was a DEAD RINGER for TWO movie stars. I did today—Isidoro Gastanaga.

CLICKED QUICKLY

Isidoro Gastanaga struck like lightning. This pleasant mannered Spaniard leaped to fame with the roar and speed of a giant rocket when he belted Charley Retzlaff on the chin and soared to a seat among the fistic mighty.

Notwithstanding my great respect for the judgment of George Lawrence, long in search of a heavyweight worth while, I didn't

FRISCH NEXT GIANTS' BOSS, IS RUMOR

By RILEY GRANNON

New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago are hotbeds of gossip concerning some of the game's greatest stars.

In Philly, they insist that Al Simmons, George Earnshaw and Max Bishop are playing their final season with the Athletics.

FRISCH GOING TO GIANTS

New York doubts that Bill Terry will remain as manager of the Giants, and it also has an idea that the familiar face and figure of Freddy Lindstrom will be conspicuous by their absence at the Polo Grounds when the 1933 campaign rolls around.

St. Louis takes it for granted that Frankie Frisch will be traded to the Giants for Terry, and that the Fordham flash will be appointed pilot of the Gotham outfit.

The Mound City is convinced, too, that Sunny Jim Bottomley will be doing his first-sacking elsewhere when another race starts.

All over both circuits it is the consensus that Rogers Hornsby is through both as a major league player and manager.

SIMMONS' PAY $33,000

There will be few tears shed in Philadelphia if the trio of Mackmen, said to be on the auction block, are sold down the river. The fans and scribes in Quakertown don't think any of these young men have done as well by old Connie Mack as they might have this season and they have soured on the trio.

Mack shouldn't have any trouble

BRAVES DROP TO 6TH PLACE IN RACE

Special to the Boston American

Chicago, Aug. 18—The best the Boston Braves can do now against the Cubs, from whom they expected to take at least three out of four, is to split even and to do that the visitors must whip the league-leaders today and tomorrow.

Which shapes up as quite a task for a club that has dropped its last eight games in a row and has fallen from third place to sixth in a wild National League flag struggle.

Manager Bill McKechnie, always a fighter, isn't ready, however, to throw in the sponge just yet. He looks forward to Walter "Huck" Betts, his most successful hurler, breaking the Warriors' losing streak in the third game today.

If the ancient rookie can come through Bill believes his charges can stage a victory surge that will carry them right back into the thick of the pennant chase once more.

BRAVES FIGHT IN VAIN

No more courageous performance has been given on Wrigley Field this season than that which the Tribesmen displayed when they were whipped 3-2 in a 19-inning skirmish, the longest of the season.

The Braves came back to take the lead when Buck Jordan poled a homer, one of his four hits which also included a double and a brace of singles. But Bob Brown weakened and Fred Frankhouse took up the burden with the score tied again.

Fred hurled brilliant ball until the 19th when he tired and the Cubs, with a single, a hit batter, a sacrifice and a long fly, put the decision away to increase their lead and send the Braves tumbling into sixth place, four points behind the Cardinals.

TRIBE STILL CONFIDENT

It was the kind of a defeat which would break the hearts of most teams, but the Braves are still confident that they can wend their way back among the first three before the month is out. It's up to Huck Betts to start the march uphill today.

Chicago fans are terming Charlie Grimm a wonder-man today. And there are quite a few, too, who are putting in a kind word or two for Bill Veeck, who runs the club from the inner office.

And Charlie has certainly worked a small-sized miracle since Rogers Hornsby was sent back to the farm and Grimm was named the boss. The Cubs are looking like a sure thing in the N. L. and if they win today against Huck Betts they'll put an order in for the printer to get started on World Series tickets.

Four Swim Titles at Stake Next Week

Four New England A. A. U. swimming championships are to be decided in the title meet in the Nautical pool, Revere, one week from tonight.

The championship events are: New England senior 440-yard breaststroke, senior 880-yard freestyle and junior 220-yard freestyle for men, and New England senior 440-yard freestyle for women.

Gosh, How Swell This Gal Looked at Goshen -:- Where She Won $54,000 Stake

A record crowd of 18,000 watched the first heat of the famous Hambletonian stake, classic of America's harness racing. Here you see Marchioness leading the field at the first turn of the first heat. The fleet filly came on to win the heat, but an extra heat—four in all—was necessary before she established her superiority.

Here's the final—fourth—heat of the Hambletonian, with Marchioness coming into the stretch on top and Hollyrood Dennis, which had won the second heat in new record time—2:01¼—coming up for a driving finish. Marchioness, driven by Bill Caton, former driver for the Czar of Russia, lasted long enough to win.

MALONEY IS READY TO TRY RING COMEBACK

JIM TO HURL CHALLENGE AT PRIMO

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Jim Maloney, once the South Boston "fat boy," is going to give up wrestling, refereeing, law and being just a man about town to make a comeback in the ring, according to a source of information which is very dependable.

Maloney is expected to make it generally known tonight at the Mark Stadium, Tiverton, Rhode Island, where Primo Carnera, who seems to know nothing about unemployment with plenty of fights here and there, takes on Jack Gagnon of Brighton.

Maloney will be at ringside when Primo pushes his big feet through the ropes and hauls his huge body in after. Jim probably will challenge Primo after the bout. As a rule it is announced that the winner will be challenged.

JIM SET TO CHALLENGE

But it looks as though Primo will be the winner, and Maloney has made up his mind on picking Primo as his first opponent on his comeback.

Two of Jim's best fights were against Primo. He jumped right up to the top by whipping Carnera but was knocked right back again by Ernest Ernie Schaaf.

Rumors have been flitting around for some time that Maloney was anxious to get back into the ring. He was always a big drawing card and there is some gold in them fists of his.

SCHAAF MAY SEEK FRAY

Many other illustrious gentlemen of the padded mitten will be at the ringside tonight. It is understood that Jack Sharkey, Johnny Buckley and Ernie Schaaf will be handy just to see if Maloney does up and announce that he is open for more business.

More than likely Schaaf will respond with an offer. And it wouldn't be surprising for Sharkey to state his willingness to mix with Shamus. Fading though he might be, Maloney could still make those turnstiles ring with merry moneyed music if he ever stepped in with the champion.

Although Carnera was whipped by Stan Poreda a few editions back he is expected to kayo Gagnon tonight. Carnera is learning a lot in his many fights and picking up needed experience.

Linnehan to Meet Anderson Monday

George Linnehan has been secured by the Bay State Wrestling Association to meet Red Anderson of Australia in the feature bout next Monday night at Lincoln Park. They will wrestle to a finish, two falls out of three to win.

The semi-final, no time limit bout, and four preliminaries have also been arranged, in one of which Paul Thomas, who recently defeated Joe Wayland, will meet Al McKenney of Roxbury.

RUMOR FRISCH NEXT GIANTS LEADER

getting rid of these stars, if he has decided to do so, but it is a question whether the White Sox would or could pay the salaries of these players, especially Simmons. Al has one year to go on a contract that calls for $33,000 annually.

Still reports from the Windy City declare it is virtually certain that Simmons and Earnshaw will be wearing Pale Hose next season in an effort to restore American League prestige which is at a very low ebb out there.

Frisch has stoutly denied that he has ever been approached to manage the Giants. That's probably true as magnates rarely approach rival players on such matters, but it doesn't say that President Stoneham of the New Yorkers doesn't want him. Those close to the Cardinals' front office swear that negotiations are in progress to send the Fordham flash back to Gotham in exchange for Terry.

BOTTOMLEY MAY MOVE

The acquisition of the Giants' present pilot would leave Bottomley of little use to the Cards and that's why Sunny Jim is slated to go, though he has been assigned to no definite berth.

If the Cards can make some money by turning Frisch and Bottomley loose, the two young men will probably be sent on their way. Whenever Owner Sam Breadon can't take in enough money at the gate to show a profit for the season—and he hasn't this year—he starts trading.

Hornsby's friends were confident that he would have little trouble finding another berth when he was let out by the Cubs. They pictured the "Rajah" succeeding Bill Killefer as manager of the Browns, or Lou Fonseca as manager of the White Sox or possibly Bill Terry as manager of the Giants.

They're not so optimistic today. Both Fonseca and Killefer have been resigned and Frisch is regarded as certain to get the Giants berth if Terry doesn't stay.

They still insist, however, that Hornsby will catch on somewhere but neutral observers can see no spot for the "Rajah."

ENGLISH GIRLS IN CONDITION FOR BATTLE

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—America's stars, for all their mastery of stroke, might learn a valuable lesson from a pair of British girls competing in the women's national tournament at West Side Tennis Club.

Mrs. Elsie Goldsack Pittman and her teammate, Joan Ridley, had reached the quarter-finals today largely because of their theory that physical condition is half of a tennis battle.

They go in for condition in a big way, see to it that they are sound of wind and limb and let the pure mechanics of the game take care of themselves.

"It doesn't make a great deal of difference in a two-set match whether you are in top condition," said Miss Ridley, "but it will decide a three-setter almost every time.

SELDOM LOSES 3-SET MATCH

"We have been beaten plenty of times, but very seldom in a match that went three sets. American girls, as a rule, do not train for a long match, and are tired by the time the third set comes around."

As though to prove their point, both the foreign girls went out yesterday and won over the longer route, in each instance leaving their American opponents virtually exhausted.

Mrs. Pittman defeated Virginia Hillery of Philadelphia 6—1, 3—6, 6—1, and Miss Ridley repulsed Alice Marble, the San Francisco star, 3—6, 6—4, 6—3.

CASTANAGA IS A FINE MOVIE DOUBLE

think that Gastanaga could belt out Retzlaff. Lawrence vowed "Izzy" would.

When Charley popped the Spaniard on the chin with a left hook and followed it up with two crushing rights, blows that made Isidoro turn to the referee and make some sort of a protest, I said to myself, "Another false alarm. Hype."

QUEER ONE-TWO FOR K.O.

Two or three seconds later, I looked pop-eyed at Retzlaff stretched out on the floor.

Retzlaff, as game as you pleased, walked into annihilation. It came in the shape of a queer one-two, Gastanaga's right following his left with a strange loop that utterly destroyed the former.

Seldom have I seen a harder punch delivered in the ring. Dempsey, Fitzsimmons, McCoy, Jim Barry, Langford, Maher—well, they might have tied it for power. With his own lips, though with the aid of Solly King, his Jewish, Spanish-speaking co-manager, Lawrence told me that that it was his TWENTY-FOURTH ONE-ROUND KNOCKOUT! No such record exists.

UNEQUALLED RECORD

I defy the record books to show me where Fitz, Langford, Ketchel, Dempsey, McCoy, Herrera, McGovern, Barry, Maher or any of the GREAT hitters could even approach such a record. He has knocked out FORTY-FOUR men in FIFTY-FIVE STARTS. That in itself never has been equalled.

So, what have we? The hitting genius of all time. No false alarm. My word on that. He took half a dozen blows delivered by solid-hitting Retzlaff without changing expression except that little side remark to the referee.

I'd like to see him in there with a fellow like Schmeling, Poreda, Baer, Schaaf or Walke ow he might not come up to an against fellows like Walker, Schaaf or Schmeling, but if they THINK they can hit, I'd like to see them trade bombs with this geek. ANY man who can pulverize a chin like this Basque does, has a g ue to stop any man alive.

MEETS CANTABS WALTHAM NINE

Concord and Waltham, the teams that still have a chance of catching the league-leading Allston club in the Boston Twilight League, can boost themselves up in the race tonight.

Concord plays at Allston, while Waltham journeys to Cambridge. Allston will be a favorite to whip Concord.

Waltham will be the choice over the last-place Cambridge nine.

EX-LEADERS GET CHANCE

Off the perch in the City League for the first time in the second half race St. Catherine gets a chance to climb back again tonight against Roslindale at Barry Park, Charlestown.

Roslindale will send Jim Shea to the hill tonight in quest of a second straight victory over the former league leaders.

Madden gets an opportunity to stay up near the top of a fast moving circuit, meeting Neponset at Garvey playground, while Star of the Sea pays a visit to Faneuil field, Brighton, to play the Presentations.

CRISIS FOR HALL'S NINE

Hall's All-Stars of Somerville face the critical point in their fight for the flag in the Suburban Twilight League when they play the Andy Dillon Club of Cambridge tonight at Thorndike Field and the Hyde Shore nine tomorrow night.

The All-Stars are now nestled in third place and a pair of wins can put them in the thick of the hunt for the pennant. Manager Shorty Ridlon of the All-Stars will send Pete Feeley against the Dillons tonight and save Lefty Gillis, former International League hurler, for the big battle with the Hyde Shoemen

OLYMPIC STARS RENEW 5000 METER BATTLE

Chicago, Aug. 18 (INS)—The curtain goes up tonight on the epilogue to the 1932 Olympic games.

In the hollow of Chicago's vast Soldier Field some of the brightest stars of the international athletic firmament will shed their lustre.

Olympic champions and near-champions of 15 nations will match speed and muscle in the meet, officially labeled the International Post-Olympics.

Eager to witness re-enactment of the historic struggle at Los Angeles, middle western fans were flocking to the ticket offices by the hosts. At least 40,000 spectators were expected to squeeze through the Soldier Field turnstiles tonight.

5000-METER OUTSTANDING

Holding the limelight were two of the numerous events on the dazzling program—the 5000-meter run and the 400-meter relay.

The 5000-meter event will again bring into conflict Lauri Lehtinen, the Finnish Olympic champion, and Ralph Hill of Oregon. The question of superiority between these two rivals is expected to be definitely solved.

The question was left open at Los Angeles when Lehtinen defeated Hill by inches, giving rise to a dispute over the allegation that the Finn had blocked the American's path in the stretch.

In the women's department of the post-Olympics the spotlight is shared by Mildred ("Babe") Didrickson, the athletic committee of one from Texas, and Stella Walsh, Cleveland's contribution to Poland's Olympic glory.

BAUSCH TO PERFORM

The events carded include, besides the sprints and the distance runs, the high jump, broad jump, pole vault, hammer throw, javelin throw, discus throw and shotput.

Among the outstanding performers who will display their powers are Jan Kusocinski, Poland's 10,000-meter Olympic titleholder; Volmari Iso-Hollo, Finland; Jim Bausch, American decathlon champion; Dr. Otto Peltzer, German middle-distance star; Leo Sexton, American winner of the Olympic shotput, and Bill Miller, American pole vault champion.

HEAD OF NATS SEES NEED OF ECONOMY

By FRANK (BUCK) O'NEILL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18—"The sport of baseball is as popular as ever in the history of the country. The business of baseball, and it is big business, must go through the same common sense readjustments that all business has experienced in the past three years."

The speaker is Clark C. Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club in the American League.

In his athletic hey-day they called Griff "The Old Fox." There was no shrewder, more cunning pitcher in the land. He could do more with a slow curve at 40 than a rookie of 20 could do with all the stuff in the world.

GRIFF KEEN ANALYST

Silvered now under the touch of time, Griffith has gained in experience from the box office side of baseball. Your agent chatted with Griffith in his office down in Washington yesterday. In every vein of conversation Griff's keen analysis was interesting and sound.

"It is the duty of every one to put the game back on a strictly business basis," said Griffith. "We plunged along through the period of inflation doing things that we should not have done. Trapped, we find it difficult to readjust.

"Baseball did the proper thing in reducing the player limit of major league clubs from 25 to 23," continued Griffith.

"But the end is not with the reduction of playing forces. We must reduce our overhead another 25 per cent to restore the full economic stability of the game.

"We cannot cut indiscriminately," said Griffith. "But we must cut generally. It may easily and logically follow that certain ball players will receive increases in salary. Those will be the men who produce results.

"Any athlete, ball player, fighter or wrestler is entitled to pay based on what he draws through the gate. Take as the shining example Babe Ruth. Is there anyone in or out of baseball who will contend that the Babe is paid too much? Ruth fills the baseball parks of the country and I'm glad that the Yankees are paying him as they are."

We immediately asked Griff if he meant by that he was sad he wasn't paying Ruth those 75 G's per annum. But he dismissed the matter with a nod. He muttered something about always belittlin' and let it go at that.

HIT BY DEPRESSION

"We have felt the pinch of the times in baseball," Griff said, "but baseball is strong. It will come back to its position of four years ago and prior to that time if given the chance.

"We who are in baseball know that. We give all our time and energy to giving the fans a show. But beyond the show is the business of the show, and everything must return to a sound business foundation."

COCHET DUE IN BOSTON TODAY

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Henri Cochet, who considers himself still the world's greatest tennis player, despite his defeat by Ellsworth Vines, Jr., in Davis Cup play, arrived today on the liner Champlain to seek revenge for that defeat in the United States nationals September 3-10.

Accompanied by his youthful compatriot, Marcel Bernard, Cochet rushed direct to a Boston train from from the boat to go there and start practice for the national doubles at Brookline next week.

After that he will return to New York to practice fo rthe national singles at Forest Hills, where he hopes to lift Vines' title.

Golf Heartbreakers Near Boston

The 17th Hole at Plymouth

The Plymouth Country Club can, and does, point with pride to any of its new 10 holes, but according to Donald Vinton, the club professional, the 17th is the most testing par four on the course.

The 17th is unique in that it has only two traps, which are on opposite sides of the fairway, 125 yards out from the tee. The fairway is narrow for about 200 yards but then widens and the terrain is rolling with a somewhat general slope to the left.

TRAP
TEE
17TH HOLE PLYMOUTH C. C. 394 YARDS PAR 4

Although this hole is only 394 yards, and trapless after a good drive, it is most testing. There is a heavy premium on the drive, which can be played straight for the direction flag so as to land on the plateau or to the left in order to catch a left hand kick, which cuts down the distance of the second shot by many yards.

If a player gambles by placing his drive to the left and he does not connect with a good one, he is liable to discover that he is stymied by the tall tree which is just short of the point where the fairway doglegs.

After the drive, it is a mashie or a No. 3 iron to the green, according to the direction of the wind. However, under some conditions, it is a mid iron or a spoon shot to get home and at times the wind is of such velocity that it is two full woods to reach the green.

Between the plateau and the green there is a gully through which runs a brook and the second shot is all carry to a high terraced but very spacious green, the runup to which is sharp on all sides. At the right of the green there is an old cranberry bog, which catches sliced or pushed second shots and from which it is exceedingly difficult to play a recovery shot.

The new Plymouth Country Club course is one of the most severe in the state, as was proven last week, when A. W. Chisholm, Sandy Burr, was the only player who broke 80 during a four-day open tournament.

ACT ON NURMI TODAY

CHAS. GORMAN TAKES SIDES WITH FINN

By GEORGE UNDERWOOD

An official announcement by the registration committee of the New England Association of the Amateur Athletic Union as to what disposition it will make of Paavo Nurmi, the world's greatest distance runner, who seeks to measure strides against Juan Zabala, the Olympic Marathon winner, and other famous runners in the International Marathon at Rockingham, a week from Sunday, is likely to be made today.

On the best of authority it is learned that the committee met in a torrid session last night and wrangled far into the wee small hours. It is said Charles F. DAVE JONES MEETS ENGLISH COURT ACE

Newport, R. I., Aug. 18 (INS)—Two teammates of the United States Davis Cup forces clash today when H. Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Cal., meets John Van Ryn of Philadelphia in a quarter final round match for the Newport Casino Bowl at the 16th annual tournament.

Vines, holder of the national and Wimbledon singles crowns and the defending champion, was favored to win over Van Ryn, seeded sixth.

The tournament takes on an international Davis Cup aspect when Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., seeded second, clashes with Jiro Satoh, Japanese Davis cupper.

Other matches bring together Fred J. Perry, second highest ranking English ace and Dave Jones, unseeded Columbia University giant who has been [illegible] Mangin of Newark.

[illegible] Allison [illegible] the [illegible] Mangin, seeded [illegible] won in straight sets [illegible]. It was their fourth meeting and Allison has won only one.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

—By BILL GRIMES—

As usual, Wollaston drew almost a capacity crowd during the first day of its two day open tournament. As this is the final day of the Montclair entertainment starting times are at a premium.

Jesse P. Guilford, the Woodland Siege Gun, who is now hitting the ball as well as he was 10 years ago when he won the national amateur championship at St. Louis will play at Wollaston this afternoon with Art Ross and a couple of slashers.

The Wollaston Golf Club is offering an unusually fine array of prizes including two autographed Francis Ouimet books, which are special trophies.

It is rumored that Russ Todd, the famous slicer and equally famous hooker, was the master mind who selected the Wollaston prizes. Russ' experience in selecting gifts to his friends who have taken the big jump while he remained on the bridge was a wonderful asset [illegible] these trophies.

After some 3 years of vain endeavor A. Lance Flower [illegible] won his first competitive match yesterday in the first round of the Essex County Club four ball tournament, but in order to break his streak "The Duke" is said to have [illegible] heavily on his partner, Eddie Corcoran, that this morning the state handicappers "pupils" are barking [illegible] than usual.

According to Eugene "Skip" Wogan, the club pro [illegible] was made by C. B. [illegible] was the first ever [illegible] Essex [illegible].

From now through Saturday afternoon, Les Cottrel, the club professional will be putting on the "dog" so heavily for the edification of the visitors to the Bear Hill open, that from here it looks as though he would be obliged to "cuff" both his tailor and his laundry man for the next couple of weeks.

Now that their P. G. A. qualifying round and their pro-pro best ball championship is out of the way, the N. E. P. G. O. will hold an amateur-pro tournament next Monday at the Haverhill Country Club.

SOUTH SHORE GOLF DRAWS BIG FIELD

By BILL GRIMES

One of the largest fields of the season is expected during the South Shore Country Club open tournament, which starts tomorrow and continues through Sunday.

There is a strong possibility that the attendance figures for the three days will even eclipse those of the Marshfield and the Highland tourneys.

Originally, the South Shore open was listed as a two-day event but because of conflictions with Bear Hill and the Cape Cod championships, plus the fact that the committee appreciates the fact that many golfers find it impossible to play on week days, even Saturday, it was decided to extend this year's tournament through Sunday.

The South Shore golf committee also voted to allow players to re-enter the tournament as often as they desire to pay extra entry fees.

SOUTH SHORE POPULAR

From the first season it scheduled an open tournament, all South Shore events have been exceptionally well patronized. Located in West Hingham, the South Shore C. C. is only 14 miles from the center of Boston via the Southern Artery and the Nantasket state road to the right fork beyond the Weymouth Back river bridge, which ends right at the entrance to the club.

The South Shore course came in beautifully after the recent rains. It is now in the best condition it has ever enjoyed for its open tournaments and incidentally, it is one of the prettiest and most enjoyable 18 hole layouts in this section.

Realizing the value of the publicity the course will receive if a new record is established during the tournament the South Shore Country Club will avoid the somewhat general mistake of tricking up its layout.

McCABE WON WITH ACE

Frank McCabe, Norfolk, won the South Shore open last year by virtue of a hole in one. With Bunny Wilson in and his 75 posted, McCabe needed a birdie and a par to tie the club champion. Instead of getting a "bird" at the 17th the Norfolk player ironed his way from the tee to the cup for an "ace" and then played for a par five at the 18th, one of the finest finishing holes in New England. McCabe wound up with a one-stroke edge over Wilson.

John Mullin, who has since developed into a consistent gross prize winner, captured the first net in this division, as well as tieing with Wilson for second gross, and to Don Ritchie, Charles River, went the second net with 76—7—69.

Starting this morning Leslie Cottreel, genial professional, will extend the hand of welcome to all visiting players entering Bear Hill where a three-day open began today.

PLANES SUPPLY R. I. BOOTLEGS WITH RUM

By THE MASKED REPORTER

(Copyright, 1932, by Boston Evening American. All rights reserved.)

Providence, R. I., Aug. 18—It may be just a coincidence and then again you never can tell.

At any rate I have a little problem to put before you today. It concerns the deluxe transportation system of the New York rum syndicate which is gradually extending its control of the rum racket from Cape Cod into the tiny commonwealth of Rhode Island.

Masked Reporter

I mean the sytem by which airplanes land hundreds of cases of liquor daily in this state and in bordering Massachusetts cities and towns.

This little problem also concerns, albeit indirectly, the office of Commander Foote of the Massachusetts State Police, and Mr. Robert Speed, agent in charge of the Federal Dry Office of the Cape Cod area.

Both of these gentlemen, I must remind you, differed with me in matters I have written about in the past few days. Commander Foote published a statement in answer to some things I had to say about the transfer of the estimable Corp. Thompson from the state police barracks at Freetown to peaceful Petersham Barracks.

For several nights before his transfer Corp. Thompson was working himself into a position where he was likely to expose the "two-bits and sawbuck" system of police protection for rum-runners working through Fall River.

Commander Foote's reply was that the transfer was merely in line with the policy to transfer officers each year.

I have yet to learn from the commander, however, why the same policy does not extend to Barnstable Barracks, where Sergt. William Dempsey spent three years.

Possibly the commander can also enlighten me on the recent tranfer of Sergt. Joseph Frates from the Nantucket Barracks to far away Holden after he was in charge of the island post for three years.

If Mr. Speed will look back in recent newspaper files he will learn that an airplane pilot cracked up in his district. It was just about the time that Commander Foote transferred Sergeant Frates from Nantucket to Holden.

The reason the airplane came down so suddenly is that it was overloaded with liquor taken on at Nantucket for shipment to one of six places in the vicinity of Providence or Cape Cod.

GAVE CARGO AWAY

Summer residents rushed to the scene as the pilot extricated himself from the wreckage and to each the pilot presented one or two of the 25 cases of liquor in his cargo.

But he was only one of the pilots working from Nantucket to the mainland at $4 per case freightage, C. O. D. New York syndicate. Now let us see what the situation is in old Nantucket.

It happens that the territory of the Coast Guard base at Woods Hole is so assigned that Comdr. Roy Patch is not allowed to send his patrols into one of the four havens or "drops" used by rum-runners.

The three "drops" accessible to his patrols are covered as efficiently as the others in this area but, ah! that fourth. What a sanctuary for the rummies.

It is there that the sure-thing rum bosses land their greatest loads. And to make it doubly sure the bosses don't use waterways to the mainland. They hire airplanes at $4 per case.

There was one difficulty confronting the bosses, however. Sergt. Frates was known among the boys as a "100 per cent copper." He couldn't be reached.

But there came a day—three weeks ago—when the boys got rid of that difficulty. Sergt. Frates packed up, per order, and moved out to Holden.

QUERIES AND REPLIES

Archie, New Bedford*—*I am going out tonight to get a line on that. Much obliged.

S., New Bedford*—*Don't worry about the $200 per Assonet pay-off. I never turned copper on anyone in my life. You'll probably be leaving soon, anyway.

B. M., Fall River*—*I didn't hear any squawks from you today. What's the matter, did I come too close?

W., Providence*—*I hope to be able to do as much for you some time.

J. H. N., New Bedford*—*Why don't you go down and interview the new agent at the Custom House? Do you suppose he'll join the laughing chorus with Hart or have they stopped that?

Silvy, Providence*—*Have patience, old boy. That story is still on the fire and when it breaks it will be a sell-out.

Ed Wynn Heads for Boston Sept. 3

By N. F. T.

Add to the long list of theatrical celebrities, radio stars and movie personalities visiting Boston this year, the name of Ed Wynn, due in our midst September 3. He has been here before—ever so many times, but never as a "radio headliner appearing in person." Ed is featured in his own new show "The Laugh Parade."

• • •

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

For years they have been calling him the "Perfect Fool" in footlight circles. Such is of course a complimentary reference to his clowning antics. Just so soon as he recognized the value of radio as a medium of spreading personal prestige in any line of endeavor, this "perfect fool" proceeded to get in on it in a hurry. Since doing so, the name Ed Wynn is known in places today where it would have been of little or no consequence two years ago. He's a wise old owl," that's what.

• • •

As set forth right here in your far sighted "colyum" not very many days back, Mr. Wynn will continue broadcasting from New York even while his stage production goes on nightly in Boston. Meaning nightly except Tuesday, when he hops back into Gotham to be "Chief" again for NBC network listeners from coast to coast.

• • •

Radio broadcasts have often been held up and even called off because of footlight performances making it impossible for certain stars to appear. This time, however, we find the order of things reversed with a show closing down while the star takes to the air. Thus and so, our world do move.

A scientist named William Beebe may find out when he goes at least a half mile below the Atlantic Ocean surface to talk into a "mike" one day next month. It means submerging himself in a diving bell off Nonsuch Island, Bermuda . . . More details another day . . . Jay C. Flippen, who insists on announcing "this is the Columbia broadcasting System" instead of letting the staff voice on duty do it, was once selected to star in place of the late Bert Williams, at the suggestion of Williams himself, when "Broadway Brevities" went out on the road shortly before Bert sang "Slippery Elm" for the last time . . . A rather far fetched idea is being tried out next Tuesday night, as WJZ of New York airs a drama "Tide Goes Mad" based on situations of 2932; one hundred years hence . . . Never mind, it's at least different as programs go and even sounds as though it might make worth while earcupping.

Ruth Chilton answers another call from WEEI tomorrow afternoon, planning to sing a selected group of vocal favorites, with Del Castillo accompanying, between 5 and 5.15 . . . Ruthie never lets her fan mail go unanswered for even a day . . . Write her and see . . . Reports indicate Mickey Alpert is going great guns in Montreal . . . Gil Hamlin is getting results aplenty with his "Community Singing Clubs" idea being aired (WBZ) Tuesday nights. Such groups are being formed in towns and cities all over New England at his instigation . . . Joe Rines will have his orchestral half-hour cut in half (WBZ) Saturday night at 10.30, the station hooking into New York for those colored jazzbos, The Three Keys.

It Isn't the Heat, It's the Humidity

A humidity reading 13 above normal was the secret of today's sticky feeling, but the rain that failed to arrive last night when the wind shifted may come tonight to break the humid spell.

The day started off at 9 a. m. with a temperature reading of 74, or two degrees above the mark at the same hour yesterday. The highest temperatuer recorded for this date was 94 degrees, set up in 1884. The forecast reads: Partly cloudy, probably with showers tonight; Friday fair and colder; moderate west to northwest winds.

Von Papen to Force Test Vote on Aug. 30

Berlin, Aug. 19 (AP)—Chancellor Franz Von Papen, bitterly opposed by Adolf Hitler's National Socialist party, will take his cabinet before the new Reichstag on Aug. 30 to test the strength of the opposition.

Announcement today that the Reichstag would be convened Aug. 30 put at rest persistent reports the Von Papen government intended to avoid the possibility of a no-confidence vote.

WAR BREWING IN MACEDONIA

Williamstown, Aug. 18 (INS)—Conditions exactly like those which precipitated the World War are now developing in Macedonia, it was stated today at the Institute of Politics.

Failure of the League of Nations to take action in this situation is due to the presence of powerful enemies of Macedonia "within the League itself," according to John H. Bakeless of New York University and former editor of the "Forum," who stated that, under such conditions, "there is no possible hope for peace in Europe."

"The blame for the present situation rests squarely upon the Jugoslav government," Bakeless said.

BAD OLD EUROPE CAN'T UNDERSTAND US AMERICANS

By GILBERT SELDES

GILBERT SELDES

I have encountered, in the past few weeks, two separate ways of misunderstanding America which seem to me worthy of notice. The starting point for both was President Hoover's proposal for a one-third reduction in armaments—a proposal which came to so little that I feel hesitant about mentioning it lest I seem to be living in the dark ages before the campaign started. I am, in fact, in no position to judge the local effect of Mr. Hoover's suggestion for I was in Paris the day it was made public, and it was in Paris that I noted the first, and by far the more unfriendly, of the two attitudes. The whole press was contemptuous, the nearest approach to cordiality being one headline which said that Mr. Hoover's action was received with mixed emotions. The most interesting comment was also contained in a headline. "After the American entr'acte, serious business is resumed at Lausanne."

Anyone who has experienced an intermission in a French theater knows how much of a sneer is contained in that word "entr'acte," and anyone who has watched Europe going back to her bad old ways knows what "serious business" is meant. The hostility is definite and the misunderstanding of American motives is complete. But before going into that, let me cite the other form of misunderstanding which is based on active friendliness toward us. In A. E. Orage's New English Weekly, the editor positively mocks British opinion for not understanding Mr. Hoover; he shows how natural it is for Americans to insist that there can be no scaling down of war debts so long as we think that the money we surrender will be used for armament. And then he says that America does not care to finance Europe so long as Europe's purpose is to arm against America.

Englishman Does Our Thinking for Us

Mr. Orage has a clear mind; Mr. Orage has seen Europe at work and hasn't always liked it. Mr. Orage may be right in thinking that Europe as a unit must, sometime in the future, defeat America. Yet Mr. Orage is, I am sure, wrong in assuming that we want Europe to disarm because we are afraid that Europe will make war on us. We aren't nearly sophisticated enough to arrive at that conclusion; we aren't wise enough. With all due respect, we aren't Europeanized enough to have thought that out for ourselves. We are, let us say, so stupid that not one out of a hundred thousand among us has ever thought of the whole of Europe combining to make military and naval war against us. We have just thought far enough to be painfully aware of an economic war, not believing, after all these years, that economic warfare may lead to actual war.

Neither the French nor the British can for a moment believe that we want disarmament because we dislike war. The French resent our ideas because they do not propose to accept dictation from anyone, especially to whom they owe money. The British accept our ideas as far as they do accept them because they fall in with the British political scheme and the temporary economic needs of their country. It does not occur to them that we may have no hidden objective; that we actually think it would be a good thing for the whole world to spend less on tanks and bombers and submarines. Omit for the moment all thought of our diplomats and imagine yourself asking fifty million Americans why they would like the world to disarm. I think that our supremacy in a pacific world or our safety in a half-armed world would be the last answers you would get. The first answers would be pure idealism. I am not sure that that idealism is intelligent. It may be downright foolish; but it is not hypocritical.

U. S. Strong in Hypocrisy

Mr. Orage is a profound nationalist, by intellectual conviction. The French are nationalists by tradition and habit, which are more important. The French know what the "serious business" of international conferences really is. They know that you must throw a sop to pacifists by declaring that no civilians shall be killed more than once in a war and all soldiers shall be killed by the correct weapons. They know that economic conferences must not discuss fundamental economic problems and that all the principal powers must return from conferences with something which looks good on paper. They know that the Soviet proposal to disarm by the simple process of disarming and the American proposal to reduce armaments by the equally simple process of spending one-third less money on them are inadmissible.

We understand them as little as they understand us. Their argument against us is unfortunately strong. If we are going to be anti-imperialist, we had better do something about certain South and Central American states. If we want friendship, we might do something about our tariff. Like all powerful capitalist nations, we have a fund of hypocrisy upon which we can draw at a moment's notice.

And, on the other side, what we do not understand is the realism of the French. They know that peace has been only an interlude in centuries of warfare. They know that wars are costly; but they are justified in thinking that a successful war may not be so bad after all. And, as we see them going into conferences, coming out with agreements, negotiating a new entente with England, we may feel that to the French victory in war seems good, but that even an unsuccessful war is better than no war at all. It seems to us that not only the grand miseries of 1914 to 1918 have been forgotten, but the meaner miseries of 1918 to 1930. We would like to know what the French remember. Whatever it is—Napoleon or the grandeur of Louis XIV or Fashoda—it has no place in our memories. No wonder we fail, at moments, to speak in terms they care to accept and they act in ways we would rather not understand.

FRAUD BLAMED FOR CHELSEA FIRE RATE

A compilation showing that 103 fires of "unknown" origin have caused loss of $112,595 in Chelsea since Jan. 1 has been made public by the city's chamber of commerce, coupled with the charge that state authorities have been negligent in investigation and that collusion between property owners and insurance adjusters has given Chelsea the highest fire insurance rate in the United States.

The figures gathered by the chamber show several owners have had three fires on their property since the first of the year, and that others have had from 21 to 39 fires on the same property since 1914.

Hyman Kaplan, secretary of the chamber of commerce, said he would take his figures to some state authority and ask investigation and prosecution where arson is patent. There has been an average of two fires a day in Chelsea this year.

Kaplan said lack of insurance investigation and collusion between owner and independent adjusters was evident from statistics showing awards of policy claims twice the amount of assessed valuation.

He cited a number of instances of such over-insurance.

DRY AGENTS ARE BEATEN IN HUNT

Two Boston dry agents attacked by three men as they were leaving a Brockton drug store after purchasing a pint of alleged liquor are in Brockton Hospital today.

The agents are John Ferry, 29, of 34 Charme st., Roslindale, and Daniel Gray, 36, of 255 Thatcher st., Milton. They were attacked after they succeeded in getting a "sale" at a drug store at Ames and Intervale st., Brockton, shortly before midnight.

MAY LOSE EYE

Ferry suffered a fracture of the left shoulder and severe lacerations and bruises of the head and body. Gray was kicked in the right eye and received severe bruises and lacerations.

Police today were seeking the three assailants, one of whom is said to be a well-known boxer. They refused to disclose any further details regarding the identity of the trio.

Police said Gray was making the attempt to obtain evidence and asked Ferry, who was on his vacation, to accompany him. They drove to the store in a car operated by Ferry's brother-in-law, Neil Faulkner, of Charme st., Roslindale.

The pair entered the store and after some discussion, Gray succeeded in purchasing a pint of alleged liquor. They left the store and were about to enter the auto when they were attacked.

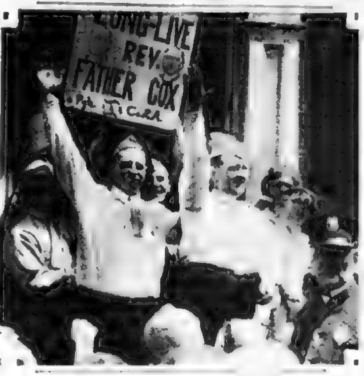
COX SALUTES BLUESHIRTS



LONG LIVE REV. FATHER COX

CAPT. CYPHER FR. COX

Father James R. Cox of Pittsburgh, presidential nominee of the "Jobless Party," shown with one of his aides, Capt. W. J. Cypher as they gave the salute to some of their "Blueshirt" Army. Father Cox was nominated yesterday at Creve Coeur Speedway, St. Louis. (International News Photos.)

FR. COX LEADS JOBLESS HOME

St. Louis, Aug. 18 (AP)—East and West were twain today as the "Blue Shirt" followers of the Rev. James R. Cox, Catholic priest of Pittsburgh, chugged by automobile and motor trucks back to their homes in the East and the supporters of W. H. [illegible] Harvey dispersed to their homes in the South and West.

Plans to unite the followers of both leaders under the common banner of a Jobless-Liberty party for a united nation-wide political campaign this fall ended in failure.

Father Cox, who led about 500 of his Blue Shirt followers here from Pittsburgh, was nominated for President at the Jobless Party meeting and Harvey, veteran of the free silver movement of the '90s, remained the presidential nominee of the Liberty Party.

DOLE PROBE IS PINCHING DESERVING AS IDLE FATTEN ON FEAST

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

PROF. ROGERS

I AM VERY SURE that I shouldn't like to have the responsibility that must be exercised by any member of a town or city welfare board. If ever there was an administrative job where any broad policy of action will inevitably result in some individual injustice, the job of dispensing public aid takes the prize. The pendulum is almost sure to swing too far to the left or right. To dispense even-handed justice is not given to man. Every case is a special case, and in many cases the truth does not appear in the most thorough and well-intentioned investigation.

In the first realization that we were in for very hard times, before the full effects of those hard times had come home to us, there is no doubt that many a community, with perfect confidence in its financial situation, dispensed aid too freely, was without proper investigation, without any follow-up to see what use was being made of the money.

* * *

Emptying Treasuries Brought Probe

A certain kind of neighborhood politician, who believes that his duty is toward his voters rather than to the community as a whole, undoubtedly encouraged people to seek aid who did not really need it. There is no doubt that many people fared better under welfare aid than they had ever fared before.

Then the pendulum swung. Expenses mounted. Treasuries began to empty. The bottom of the money bin began to show. And as the money shrank, the rumors grew. Everywhere you went you heard stories about people using their aid money to buy luxuries, to start paying instalments on furniture, ice-boxes, radios and the like, to buy liquor, to take trips. The rumors became so omnipresent and so circumstantial that they could not be ignored. Investigation, such as the Boston police are now making, became inevitable.

It is perfectly possible that the new policy will work as much injustice as the old one. On the one hand a police official is reported to have said that he believes that before the investigation is completed some 25 per cent of aid-receivers, or 5000 out of 20,000, would be proved to be acting dishonestly and robbing the public funds. On the other hand, an official of the welfare board says he believes many of the cases which seem to be fraudulent will appear, on investigation, to be nothing of the sort.

Of one thing I am convinced. The old system, of giving aid without proper investigation or control, and without requiring a proper return in the way of labor, was a rank injustice to the self-supporting working man and to the property-owning taxpayer. It put a premium on misrepresentation, dishonesty and slickness.

* * *

Dole Is Boon to Shiftless

The new method, it seems to me, is likely to be equally unjust to the citizen who has in the past been hard working and thrifty and who has accumulated a little property. At present the policy of welfare administration seems to be that only the person who has nothing shall get relief. Now everyone knows that many of those who have nothing now are people who had nothing in times of prosperity—the shiftless, the spendthrift, and the lazy.

I know of a washer-woman who had to work very hard because she had an absolutely worthless husband and was fool enough not to divorce him. He worked only for a few weeks in the summer and spent what he earned for liquor. Now he is sitting pretty. He gets from the welfare more money than he ever earned—though he and his wife think that it is a rotten injustice that he should be asked to scrub floors for it—and his wife has given up working out.

But supposing that family had worked and saved and obtained an equity in a little house. Supposing they owned a cheap automobile and a few of the comforts of the modern home. The recent theory seems to be that so long as a family has anything that can be converted into cash—the result of thrift and labor—they must not receive aid. The idle and the spendthrift, however, must be taken care of because he has no reserves and he mustn't be allowed to starve. One is rather inclined to ask, why not?

The working people know their own kind and evaluate them properly. Down here where I live, the honest, hard-working people, who will do anything that comes to hand and are glad to do it, are very bitter about a system of poor relief which they claim does not investigate, does not control expenditure, does not require labor in return, and is rapidly making professional paupers out of large numbers of people. The working people object to the fact that even in the summer months, when the town is full of summer people and there is plenty of work, when there are fish to be caught and vegetables to be grown, the town is paying out large sums for poor relief. And the winter is still to come!

A Feast for the Long-Famished

A clerk in one of the stores here was especially indignant. He told tales of people spending their weekly dole on the more expensive quality of fruit, on fancy groceries, on cartons of cigarettes, and taking the big bundle away in an automobile. Well, I don't object to the automobile. A machine is pretty much of a necessity in the country. But the fancy foods are something else again. The movement that insists that the recipient of the dole shall buy a week's supply of certain authorized provisions is a step in the right direction.

The exact combination hasn't yet been properly worked out, perhaps. My own impression is that the official published menus are badly deficient in meat—which is cheap now—and absurdly plentiful in starches. But certainly people who do not know how to buy food properly—and in this country their name is legion—must have it ordered for them. And I wish I knew how large a proportion of the income of the poor—in a family where there are several children—goes for ice-cream cones, lollypops, penny candies, popsicles, eskimo pies, and that sort of thing. When you see small children with cones and lollypops at 9 o'clock in the morning, you wonder a little.

As I say, there is no job more difficult. But I should hate to think that poor relief will take away from the industrious poor the fruits of their past labor while the slack and worthless fare better than ever before. I say nothing about deliberate fraud. I say nothing about political pull encouraging fraud. Those things are going to be taken care of. But I do believe that any valid system of relief must give the most careful and helpful attention to those who have possessed something through their own efforts.

As to those who have never possessed anything, it probably won't hurt them to possess a little less.

Flim Flam Trio Swindle Woman of $4980

WEDDING PLANS BLASTED BY BOY FRIEND

Hoped to Marry Man Who Led Deal in Which Cash Vanished

Love being what it is and flim-flam artists being what they are, a Peabody woman was out just $4980 today through having trusted her boy friend too well.

Meanwhile Peabody police were searching for the boy friend and a boy friend of the boy friend and a friend of the boy friend's friend—all three of [illegible].

"ENGAGED TO MARRY"

According to the story told by Mrs. Priscilla Sudak, 40, a widow, of Swampscott ave., she has been "going around" for two years with a man from New York and was engaged to be married to him this week.

Yesterday he arrived at Peabody with another man and these two "ran into" another acquaintance who said he had a wonderful opportunity to start a new business but while he had but $[illegible] he needed $50,000.

Eventually the woman, her friend and his friend were persuaded to make up the balance, with the woman putting $5000 into the pot, the man with the business idea putting his $[illegible] and the two men from New York declared themselves in for the rest.

LEAVE HER ONLY $20

The "money" was all put into a strong box and given to the woman for safe-keeping. The men drove her home and said they were going to Lynn to see about the deal but would be back later.

They did not arrive last night, and finally the woman, nervous at the thought of having so much money in the house carried the box to police headquarters. The police became suspicious at once and opened the box.

Inside they found a stack of newspaper clippings, cut to the size of bank notes, and with a $1 bill each on top and bottom, and a large black wallet stuffed with similar clippings, sandwiched in between $18 in $1 bills.

STATE PROBES EVERETT FIRE

The State fire marshal's office today launched a probe of the general alarm fire which destroyed the lumber yard of Segel and Ostrovitz, Everett ave., on the Chelsea-Everett line, causing damage which may reach $200,000.

Apparatus from six cities responded to help fight the blaze, which threatened to engulf both Everett and Chelsea in a conflagration last night. Twenty families were driven from their homes, several firemen were slightly injured and traffic along Revere Beach Parkway was tied up for more than two hours.

Fire officials said the blaze apparently started in a small building on the Chelsea side of the yard and spread to piles of lumber and the main building, destroying it. It is believed the blaze was started when wind fanned the flames of a dump fire toward the lumber yard.

Four alarms were sounded for the blaze in Everett, while in Chelsea two were sounded. Apparatus from Boston, Revere, Malden and Somerville was also rushed to the scene.

RECOVERED CHUM'S BODY IN RIVER

THE BOAT THEY WORKED IN

TONY MELLINO JAMES MAGNA

THE BOYS AND THEIR EQUIPMENT

That never-give-up spirit was never more shown than it was by Tony Mellino and James Magna when, with an improvised dragging iron, they recovered the body of their chum, Wallace Farren, 18-year-old Charlestown high school graduate, who drowned last Friday while reaching for a floating bottle. The flat bottomed boat capsized at Dewey Beach, in the Mystic river. Young Farren was sought by police with dragging irons last Friday and Saturday. They failed to find the body. The boys built their own irons from fish hooks and heavy wire. They borrowed a boat. Yesterday morning they found body of their chum. Mellino and Magna are shown in the boat and with the improvised dragging irons. (Staff Photo.)

Relief Requests Drop in Wakefield

For the first time in more than a year there were no new applicants for welfare aid in Wakefield at the weekly meeting of that board. There has been a gradual decrease in the number of applicants for the last five weeks. The board believes the worst is over.

Medford Unable to Pay Rent for Needy

Following a request from Medford property owners that the city assist families with the payment of their rent, the same as they are assisting in payment for food and water, Mayor Burke said the city was unable to render such assistance.

Wakefield Mills Reopen, Add to Staff

Additional employes are being hired at the Winship, Boit & Co. knitting mills in Wakefield and by the end of the week the force will have been increased to 200. The mills, known as the Harvard Knitting Mills, are re-opening after a long shutdown.

Rendering Plant Permit Is Sought

Application has been filed with the Everett Board of Aldermen for a permit to erect a rendering plant off Beecham st., near the plant of the Beacon Oil Co. The new plant would represent an investment of $200,000.

BIDS FOR ARMY BASE ASKED

The South Boston Army Base, operated for 18 months by the government's Merchant Fleet Corporation, will be leased for private operation. This announcement from Washington is a victory for shipping interests and city and state officials, who have been seeking action for some time.

For more than six months members of the Boston Port Authority, Mayor Curley, Governor Ely and many others have been fighting to have the huge docks returned to private operation, claiming that government operation has proved detrimental to the building up of the port.

The announcement said that the U. S. Shipping Board has voted to authorize the fleet corporation to advertise for bids for leasing the big base, one of the finest in the country and built at a cost of $24,000,000 during the World War. The government took over the base when the former operating company defaulted in payments on the lease.

Shipping men are jubilant and predict that private operation will result in a big boom.

CENTRAL TRUST TO REORGANIZE

Depositors and large stockholders in the closed Central Trust Company of Cambridge met at the Harvard business school and elected a reorganization committee of 175 members.

The reorganization plan includes the starting of a new trust company, the capital stock of which is to be subscribed by the stockholders of the old bank. The new company would take over the sound assets of the closed institution and assume the deposits of all depositors who decide to co-operate.

State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley offered his aid.

A. Oram Fulton, head of Wheelock, Lovejoy & Co., Inc., was elected chairman of the committee, and Edward S. Stimpson of the Stimpson Terminal Company secretary and treasurer.

ROBBERY FROM GIRL CLERK INSIDE JOB

Steel Company's Ruse to Protect Funds Known to Bandit Quartet

Police combed Greater Boston today for three men involved in a daring holdup in which the $1200 payroll of the Northern Steel Company was stolen from Miss J. Margaret Nolan, 21, of 81 Fountain st., Medford, in front of her home.

The trio escaped in an auto, believed to have been stolen, after two of them took an envelope containing the money from the girl. A fourth man, who, the girl said followed her to Sullivan sq. after she took the money from the bank, is also sought.

INSIDE JOB

Police believe the bandits were tipped off by a former employe of the company or by someone familiar with the method of handling the payroll. To avoid holdups, Miss Nolan had been accustomed to drawing the money, taking the Elevated to Sullivan sq., meeting another employe, and being driven to her home. The employe then continued to the plant with the payroll, usually arriving at the closing hour.

Yesterday Miss Nolan withdrew the money from the United States Trust Company. She told police she noticed a man watching her and became suspicious. She attempted to dodge him in the downtown crowds and in the subway, but was unsuccessful.

When she reached Sullivan sq. the man was still on her trail. She told John Manning of Grove st., Milton, the employe assigned to meet her, of her fears, but he reassured her, and they drove to her home.

RUSE FAILED

As he stopped the auto two men stepped up and demanded the money. Miss Nolan dropped the envelope to the floor and handed a package to one of the bandits.

The latter ignored the package and reached down and picked up the envelope. The pair then warned Miss Nolan and Manning not to follow and fled to the corner, where their confederate was waiting in an auto.

Bandits' Victim

LURLINE walked over to the dressing table and started to freshen her makeup. Her eyes caught Blondie's jewel case and she looked around hastily to be sure she was in the room alone. She lifted the lid quickly and gasped in amazement at its contents. Hearing Blondie's approach, she dropped the lid quickly.

In the mirror Lurline saw Blondie enter with a bottle of champagne.

"Come on!"

"Sure," said Lurline.

"Got a date?"

"Not till the theater . . ."

Blondie poured the drinks. As she handed a glass to Lurline she held her wrist out for Lurline's inspection.

"You know where you hold me in the ballet?" she said. " . . . look where your nails have been, every night."

"I know," said Lurline, glancing at the deep scratches. "I've hated you. I couldn't help it, Blondie; I wanted to hurt you."

"You thought I was seeing Larry?"

"Yes—you weren't, were you? . . . On your honor?"

"On what's left of my honor . . ."

Lurline looked relieved.

"You're improved . . . you've developed . . . you talk like a lady." Lurline was eager to change the subject.

"I didn't know you really cared for him," said Blondie, ignoring Lurline's comment.

"Who wouldn't care for him—you do, too. You can tell me . . ."

"You won't slap my face this time?" smiled Blondie, remembering.

COULD MARRY PRATT

"It's just a rotten break . . . there'll never be anyone else—listen, you may not believe me—but do you know—I could marry Pratt!"

"He's done well by you . . ."

"I could marry him," Blondie reiterated.

Blondie quickly produced a letter from the dressing table.

"Read that! . . . And it's signed!"

As Lurline read the letter with little gasps of surprise, the maid entered and called Blondie to the phone. She picked up the extension in her bedroom.

"Hello . . . Oh, hello, Paul . . . sure, come on over . . . sure, we're on a binge . . . bring 'em all . . . Lurline's here now . . . yes, the orchestra, too . . . sure, all of 'em . . . we'll have a real party . . . hurry now . . . goodbye."

"That's the Locke twins . . . they have a gang and they'll be right over," explained Blondie.

"Swell," said Lurline. Then, handing the letter to Blondie, she said: "Why don't you marry him—it's millions."

"How?"

"It just walked out of the door—eh, kid?"

Blondie covered her feelings by going to the dressing table and returning the letter to its drawer. Then she turned quickly and cried out huskily, for her voice was choked with emotion:

BLONDIE WAS SUFFERING

"Lurline, let's go mad! Forget it all! Drown our sorrows!"

"Sure!"

"Mug!" smiled Blondie, filling her glass.

Again they raised the bubbling glasses to each other but this time their eyes were filled with tears.

* * *

In less than an hour Blondie's apartment was filled with people—talking, shouting, singing, dancing, drinking—mostly drinking. Jazz kept things humming in the drawing room. In another room an accordion player pulled torch songs out of his shining box for those who wanted to sing harmony. Corks popped continuously, and champagne flowed abundantly in an everlosing battle against unquenchable thirsts. It was a Blondie McClune cocktail party, and as such it was renowned.

Lurline pulled Blondie away from the piano where she was do-

POLICE VISIT THIRTY BAKESHOPS IN BREAD RACKET PROBE

WARN OWNERS TO REPORT THREATS

Federal Men Also Work on Reported Attempt to Strong-Arm Price Increases

Police and federal agents continued today their investigation of a widely-reported attempt of racketeers to "strong-arm" Italian bakers into an organization which would increase the price of bread.

Lieut. James O'Neil, acting captain, and Special Officers Hazen Chalmers and Joseph Cunningham of the Hanover st. division visited 20 North End bakers and instructed them to report any intimidation methods immediately.

They found the bakers for the most part reluctant to discuss the matter. In most of the shops the price of bread remained at five cents a pound, although some of these same places advertised the price at six.

Herbert F. Callahan, attorney representing Philip Buccola, president of the Italian Bakers Association, who was questioned yesterday, notified Lieut. O'Neil by telephone that he was counsel for the association and asked that if complaints were made against it that he be notified.

Lieut. O'Neil informed him there were no complaints against members of the Italian Bakers Association and that there would be no prosecution of any charge unless police found evidence of intimidation.

Buccola himself told the Boston Evening American his own organization represented a score of bread manufacturers and had nothing to do with "strong-arming" any bakers; that, on the contrary, one of its purposes was the organization of the bakers against the possibility of taxation by racketeers.

15,000 GAIN IN CITY RESIDENTS

Boston's population increased 15,000 last year according to the city directory for 1932, just out.

Conditions during the last year have brought a change of some kind in the listing of two out of every three persons.

Twenty-one per cent if the names were added last year, either as new residents or persons coming of age. Twenty-eight per cent of those listed either changed their occupation or their address.

The Smiths are ahead of the Sullivans with 30½ columns of type to 28½ for the latter. The Murphys have 23 columns, the O'Briens 16, the Whites 13 and the Cohens 12.

Lynn Man Beaten With Hammer

JOB DIRECTOR TO WORK FREE

John J. Shields has volunteered to carry on without his $5000 salary as director of the Municipal Employment Bureau at 25 Church st., which faces closing tonight because the council has refused to provide for its operating expenses.

Whether the other 14 workers at the bureau will stand behind him or join the jobless was a question. They expressed hope that the council would consider its action when it meets again September 12.

But Shields protested that it would be a shame to desert the 25,000 who have registered for work at the bureau and he announced that he would contribute his days to the bureau and his nights to his campaign for sheriff as an antagonist of Councilor John F. Dowd, who led the fight against the bureau and now wants to be sheriff.

Shields said his force had put 2315 men and women to work this year up to Aug. 1.

CAMPAIGN FUND TO AID NEEDY RUNNING LOW

Less Than $100,000 Left With $230,000 Pledges Yet Uncollected

The allocating committee of the United Boston Unemployment Relief Campaign, today reports only $100,000 available for distribution to charitable organizations with approximately $230,000 in pledges and subscriptions uncollected.

Faced with the possibility that the $100,000 now available will be insufficient for needs until Jan. 1, 1933, the committee proposes to meet late in September and use the funds on hand for the most pressing unemployment needs.

$762,230 EXPENDED

The committee had the duty of allocating one-third of the funds collected in the relief campaign to private charitable organizations. According to report of Charles N. Rogerson, secretary of the committee, a total of $762,230 has been distributed.

The report points out that continued unemployment make it problematical whether the committee will receive one-third of the aggregate of unpaid pledges and subscriptions to the campaign. It was estimated they do not expect more than $900,000 of the $1,000,000 assigned to the committee.

AMOUNTS LISTED

In September the committee will use the remaining funds for the most pressing needs in order to keep necessary community work going until opportunity is offered to replenish the funds.

Rogerson's report listed the organizations and amount given to each.

Boston Schools to Open Sept. 12

The Boston and Cambridge public schools will open Sept. 12. Somerville will open Sept. 7.

Other school openings will be as follows: Sept. 7, Wakefield, Milton, Wellesley, Weston, Melrose, Everett, Malden, Chelsea, Winthrop, Quincy; Sept. 12, Reading, North Reading, Newton, Waltham, Revere, Haverhill, Brookline; Sept. 13, Belmont, Watertown, Medford.

Connor to Free Lance With New Broom and Push Cart

Edmund J. (Push 'Em Up) Connor, Sr., who was a professional in the [illegible] to become a free lance candidate.

His friends are taking up a collection to buy him a push cart and broom to replace those seized by the police when Cambridge pensioned him against his wishes and sent him [illegible] into politics determined to become a representative and show the smart city officials a thing or two.

The most modern type of two-wheeled push cart and a broom of mammoth proportions will be presented to him in the near future.

MOANS ABOUT STREETS

"Just look at those streets," said Connor today, pointing to streets in the vicinity of Central sq. "Tin cans, cigarette butts and packages, dirt and everything else. It wasn't like that when Edmund J. Connor was on the job and it won't be like that long because when I get my cart and broom I'm going to push 'em up whether the mayor and the street superintendent like it or not.

"Say," he chuckled, "they might arrest a man for throwing rubbish in the street, but you don't think that pair would have nerve enough to try to stop a man from cleaning it up, do you?"

SUGGEST CONTEST

In his day Connor was undoubtedly one of the most expert street masseurs in Cambridge with a deft right arm that piled 'em up in a neat pile and a swooping motion of the shovel from street to can which was the admiration of the other white wings.

His friends would like to see a contest of street cleaners to give him opportunity of justifying his claim that despite his 65 years he is the same [illegible] campaigner as of old.

"It could be something like the Longwood Bowl in tennis only it could be called the Cambridge Can," one suggested. "Each cleaner would have one side of a certain street, and speed and accuracy in pushing 'em up would be the measure of ability."

Hitching his bagged trousers with an emphatic snap of his suspenders, Connor today spiked the rumor that he intended for a financial consideration to drop out of the race for representative.

REFUSES TO QUIT

"They can't buy me with money and they can't drive me with threats," said he.

He mounted a barrel top outside his Hampshire ct. home and told everybody the same thing.

It became known that he has accepted at least one of the several theatrical offers which have come his way since the police swooped down on his cleaning outfit and left him bereft of his beloved.

"I'm going to be at the Inman sq. theater next Tuesday night," he said. "If they offer me any money I'll donate it to charity."

Woman Held in Auto Fatality

Miss Frances Stone, 22, of Glenarm st., Roslindale, was held by South Boston police on a technical charge of manslaughter last night, following the death in City Hospital of Ferdinand Welbrecht, 65, of East Eighth st., South Boston. It is alleged the man was struck by the woman's car on Aug. 9 near his home.

BEER FOUND IN QUINCY RAID

In the first raid since alleged liquor conditions in the city were exposed, Quincy police visited the home of Gustave Vergelli in Canal st., Quincy, 200 yards from police headquarters.

Vergelli, according to police, is a member of a gang of alleged bootleggers from Bristol, R. I. Police, about a month ago, raided three other places in South Quincy, said to be operated by the same group.

The police, led by Lieut. James H. Whelan, arrested Vergelli and took the names of five other persons found in the establishment. Vergelli is charged with selling and keeping and exposing liquor. Police say that they found 20 gallons of beer and a quart of alcohol.

The Bristol crowd is one of groups of out-of-town bootleggers which Clement V. Horrigan, student youth, is alleged to have mentioned in an asserted exposure of liquor conditions. The entire interview with the acceptance of a few minor statements was later denied by the youthful officer.

THAR SHE BLOWS---BUT WHALE WINS

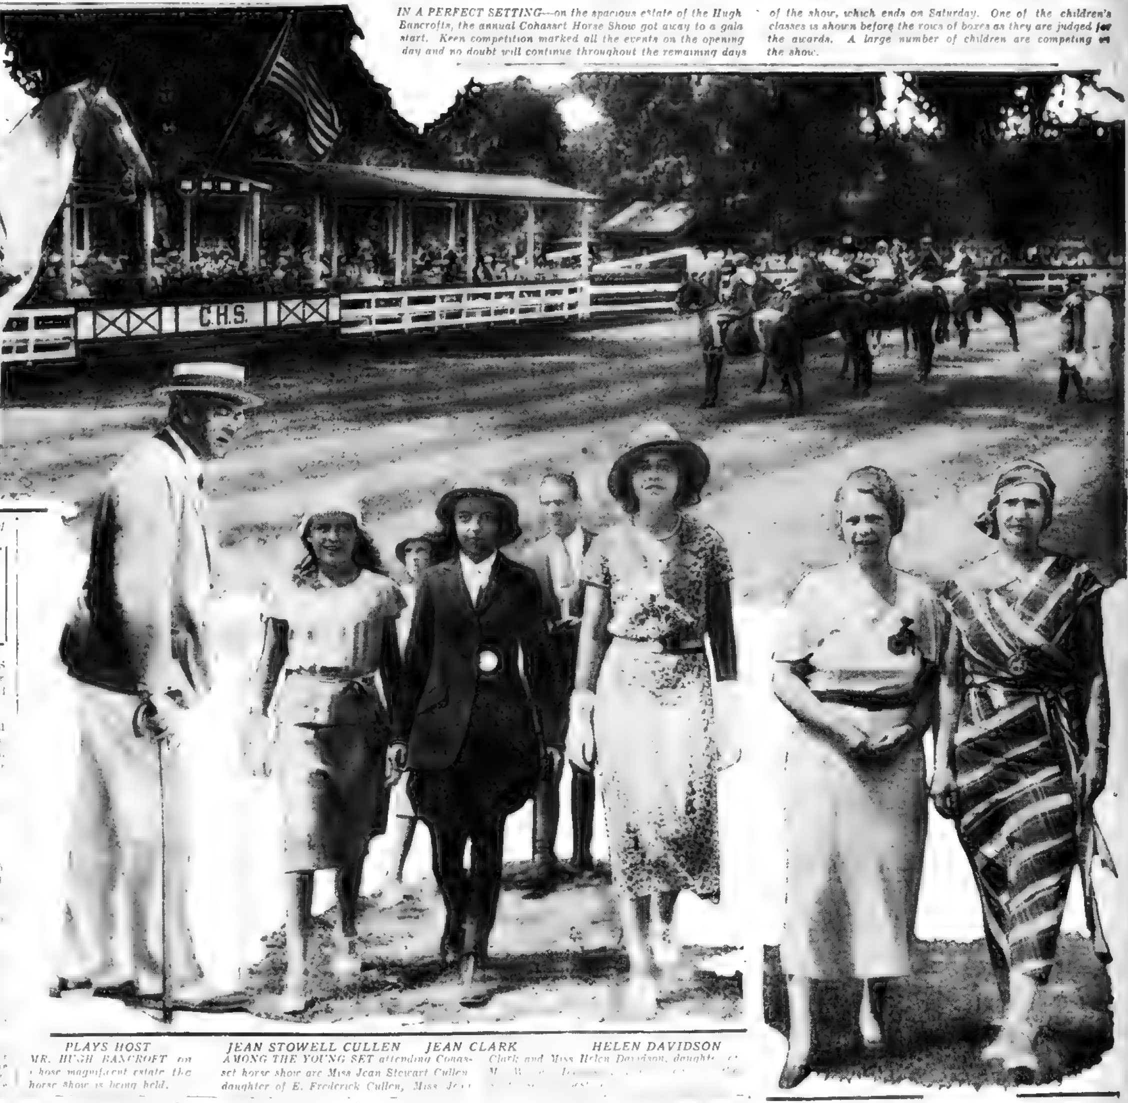
MISS KATHERINE WASHBURN, shown on Topsy, was one of the competitors in the annual Cohasset Horse Show.



IN A PERFECT SETTING—on the spacious estate of the Hugh Bancrofts, the annual Cohasset Horse Show got away to a gala start. Keen competition marked all the events on the opening day and no doubt will continue throughout the remaining days of the show, which ends on Saturday. One of the children's classes is shown before the rows of boxes as they are judged for the awards. A large number of children are competing in the show.

FUNNY HOW GOOD THINGS NOT ONLY COME IN PAIRS but often in "threes." Look at the three Phelan girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Phelan of Manchester [illegible] attractive young ladies! Miss Priscilla, [illegible] is to make a most elaborate debut this season, is a blonde with lovely hair and skin and blue eyes. She has looked very chic and charming in her pre-deb frocks. She wears sport clothes very well and is especially attractive in white. Blondes usually [illegible] she's no exception.

She has appeared this season in a delightful little pink silk frock with a wide cape collar and a darker sash tied at her waist and a jaunty little hat with a tiny brim that droops be[illegible] becomingly and shows [illegible] peeping out from [illegible]

Miss Virginia Phelan [illegible] with an interesting face. She has large hazel eyes and dark brown hair lighted with just a suggestion of gold in the sun. She is quite slender and a very charming and attractive little person.

Blue and White

Have you seen how fetching she looks in her little afternoon silk dress of blue and white print with the modish cape collar with a little pleated ruffle at the border? And a narrow sash about her waist. Stockings are not necessary with nicely-tanned legs and prettily-turned little white shoes that match the white part of the dress. Oh, yes, Miss Virginia looks very lovely. She will not come out for a year or two but when she does it will be "une grande occasion."

Miss Patricia is the younger sister, "kid sister," you know—but have you noticed how often "little sister" really is a charmer and [illegible] great pos[illegible] unfold?" So with Patricia. She is blonde and [illegible] smile [illegible] of personal[illegible] she is grown [illegible]

And Mrs. Richard Greenwood, who spends her summers at the beautiful Greenwood estate at Rocky Point, Manomet, looks very delightful in her blue silk sport dress—a very light lovely blue to match her eyes and a charming little blue hat to match. Mrs. Greenwood has wavy brown hair that she does low in her neck and a very charming manner.

Miss Peggy Floyd of Duxbury looks very delightful in a bright green afternoon frock with dainty little white collar. She is a great little sailor and skippers her boat very successfully. She also is a splendid swimmer. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Floyd.

UNKNOWN AUTHORS ALWAYS HAVE A CHANCE

Towne Tells of Talent Search

By Charles Hanson Towne

The old legend persists and I suppose it always will, that young writers who are unknown have little chance of breaking in at the massive portals of the magazines and publishing houses.

Yet only this season one firm of book publishers, Farrar & Rinehart, have definitely announced that though they may curtail their list, they are always receptive to first writers. Here is a chance for the literary aspirant, but other houses, though they may not say so, are equally hospitable. When Stokes accepted "The Green Bay Tree" they had never heard of Louis Bromfield, and no one had anyone else.

* * *

Mrs. Atherton in her "Adventures of a Novelist" tells of her first acceptance by a San Francisco magazine. Afterward, she confesses, she was forced to gain recognition in England before she was acknowledged in her native land. But those were different times, and a wave of conservatism has set in in America. She did succeed here—there is no doubt of that. Hard work and perseverance did it, but there would be little zest in the shaping of any career unless one had setbacks and even definite failures.

The editors cannot always be blamed. I have told before how the first work of James Branch Cabell appeared in the old Smart Set when I was an enthusiastic young member of its staff, and I still contend that that initial work of his was as good as much of his later product; yet the public failed at that time to see the ripe promise of the author. It was some years before he gained his present eminence. That often happens.

The same could be said of the late Henry Syndor Harrison. We published many of his gay stories and they were full of youth and humor; but he did not "catch on" until the publication of "Queed," which, by the way, was rejected by several publishing houses.

* * *

We were not able to pay high rates in those days, but if one would take the trouble to glance through those old files of the Smart Set one would discover that many writers since famous made their debut in those unillustrated pages, and rival editors watched our columns and wooed and won from us many a literary find.

When Collier's Weekly inaugurated a prize contest and announced that any story failing to win an award would be purchased, if acceptable, at the rate of five cents a word, there was almost a panic among other editors. Such a price had never then been heard of. A penny a word was our top figure, except in certain cases. When I told our publisher that rates were going up all around, and that we should have to send Mrs. Atherton a check for $[illegible] if we wished to run one of her novelettes, he all but fainted in his office. Nowadays many writers receive twice that sum for a short story, and in addition they retain their book rights, movie rights and dramatic rights. The Authors League of America has done valiant work in protecting writers, and it is partly due to such organizations that the business of selling manuscripts has been systematized.

* * *

The truth [illegible] would rather make a d[illegible] than merely to go on printing the work of established [illegible] through the pages of the [illegible] periodicals [illegible] names [illegible] unknown [illegible] Some [illegible] flashed [illegible] the experience [illegible] Jones [illegible] and then d[illegible]

An unsolicited manuscript [illegible] contains even [illegible] the average of [illegible] little sensation [illegible] office, where [illegible] ever on the [illegible] ent. Such a story [illegible] passing attention [illegible] great deal more than [illegible] couragement [illegible] times [illegible]

I recall [illegible] Zona Gale [illegible] the Smart Set [illegible] she wrote [illegible] a short story. We [illegible] in her as a fiction writer [illegible] the story arrived [illegible] ly accepted, and she has kept ever since.

Finally [illegible] Miss Lulu Bett, a [illegible] afterward dramatized and [illegible] was awarded the Pulitzer prize. We did not [illegible] could [illegible] prom[illegible]

There [illegible] Stephen French Wh[illegible] O Henry [illegible] tured a [illegible] Irvin S. Cobb, Booth Tarkington and [illegible] few.

* * *

And too, one can remember [illegible] eminent authors of today whose first work one rejected, but these kept on, despite their early failures.

If Theodore Dreiser had become disheartened after the publication of "Sister Carrie" he might still be plodding away in editorial work instead of having given us his rich and important novels. If there is a rocky road to Dublin it is equally true that no smooth boulevard can lead to success.

And the young author who thinks there is had better close his typewriter at once and get into some other business.

TOO MUCH SWEETNESS SOIRS MARRIAGE, THEY AGREE

FAITH BALDWIN

M. AND MME. SACHA GUITRY

Yvonne Printempts, beautiful French actress, is divorcing Sacha Guitry, noted playwright, and all because of too much sweetness. His constant attention and his attitude of a "perfect lover" made Yvonne feel like a slave, she claims. She contends a "perfect lover" is far from a perfect husband. And Faith Baldwin, novelist, agrees. "Romance, 24 hours a day, would be tiresome, she says. In America, however, she adds wives complain their husband's don't love them enough.

Romance All the Time Is Tiresome

By MARGERY REX

Does a "perfect lover" make a perfect husband?

Alas, no, says Yvonne Printemps, beautiful French actress, who is reported to be divorcing Sacha Guitry, noted actor and playwright, because his unbounded devotion and constant attitude of the "perfect lover" have made Yvonne feel like a slave.

And Faith Baldwin, the novelist, agrees.

"A perfect lover for a husband would be very unhandy to have around," said Miss Baldwin.

"Romance, 24 hours a day would be tiresome and an effort for both parties. If romance intrudes on one's privacy, mentally or physically, it soon loses its glamour."

WOULD BE TOO EXACTING

[illegible]

"Here," she added, "wives complain that their husbands are not devoted enough."

NO ROMANCE IN CURLERS

"I can see where it would be very trying to live with a man who constantly made love to you," Miss Baldwin said. "You can't feel comfortable if someone is gazing rapturously into your eyes when your hair is up in curlers and your nose is shiny for want of make-up," she explained.

[illegible]

"I couldn't associate romance with a man who had just come from the cellar after tending the furnace," she said.

FAITHFUL CHEAT ❧ By Ruby M. Ayers

A FLASH of jealousy crossed Mrs. Merriman's face; she had never liked Sondra and she had never forgiven her for marrying Mark so secretly, as if there was something to be ashamed of, so she told herself.

"Beatrice didn't say anything against her," she protested. "Beatrice merely repeated what apparently everyone knows, that Mr. Anderson has always been in love with her, and would have married her long enough ago if he had been free."

"Is that all?" Mark [illegible] weakly. "Well, are you going to blame Sondra for that? How can she help it if Anderson loves her? It would be more wonderful if he didn't."

He was conscious of an enormous [illegible] he had given his mother credit for more sense than to turn a [illegible] like this into a so-called scandal.

"Is that all?" he asked.

Mrs. Merriman hesitated, then she said offendedly. "Of course I've no more to say if you are going to take it like this. I only spoke for your own good."

"Thank you. I know all there is to know about Sondra, and anyway, Mother, I don't want you to repeat anything to me. She's more to me than anyone in the world, and if all the world came to me with stories against her, I should not believe them." He was silent for a moment, then he argued. "I don't see why you should be so indignant because another man wanted to marry the woman who married me."

There was a [illegible] silence, then Mrs. Merriman said in a bitter voice. "You haven't allowed me to [illegible] you everything."

Mark rose unsteadily to his feet.

"You drive me to say things I wouldn't," he said hoarsely. "You come here insinuating things against the woman I love. It's—it's cruel and unnatural. If you don't like Sondra, Mother, for God's sake let's not speak of her, or if you can't come here without speaking of her, please don't come at all."

PALE AND BREATHLESS

[illegible]

"You need not be afraid," she said in a queer voice. "I shall not come again, but perhaps some day you will regret having turned your own mother away for the sake of a ——"

[illegible]

"How dare you?" he said hoarsely.

[illegible]

"Very well, I'll go," she said. "I'll go and be glad to, but perhaps you'll ask Sondra who has paid for her fine clothes all these years, and if she tells you that, then ask her what she gave in return—ask her why you were sent abroad—ask her why John Anderson is the good friend to you you say he is—ask here whom she was with at the shore just before you came home. Ask her. . . ." She broke off as the door opened and Sondra came into the room.

[illegible]

"Why, Mark . . . Mark——" she put her arms around him, steadying him, and he sank into the chair, his eyes closed, trembling from head to foot.

SONDRA WAS TENDER

"What is it, dear?" Sondra asked tenderly; she looked back at his mother. "What have you been doing to him?" she demanded angrily.

Mark recovered himself with an effort. "It's all right——" he tried to smile. "It's my fault—I got angry [illegible] all about nothing. I'm all right, don't look so frightened, Sondra [illegible] just leave me alone for a moment."

[illegible]

"I didn't mean it, Mark [illegible] it wasn't true [illegible] not one word of it. Oh, my dear boy [illegible]"

"I think you had better fetch the nurse," Sondra said. "And don't go please. [illegible] I want to speak to you."

[illegible]

"What is it, Mark? Oh, what is it?" she asked in distress.

[illegible]

She said patiently, "If you will listen to me for a moment, I will try to explain. I know what you think, of course—I daresay you are not the only one who thinks it, but you are quite wrong—Mr. Anderson has never been anything to me but a good friend. I heard you tell Mark that he had paid for my clothes—that is not true either—he has given me presents, expensive presents, but not since [illegible] not since I married Mark. You wouldn't understand if I tried to explain how differently you and I look at things, we've been brought up so differently, but I hope you will believe me . . . I hope you will believe me when I say that . . . that I mean to do my best—always for Mark, to make him happy."

[illegible]

"I can't ever thank you for all you've done for us, but I'll try to be decent. I'll try to do what you said—to stand by my mistakes and not [illegible] not vent them on someone who is innocent."

WIVES OF CANDIDATES CONTRAST, TYPIFY AMERICAN LIFE

Tense Months Ahead for Four Women as Start of Campaign Draws Near

By BESS FURMAN

Washington, Aug 18—The months of August, September and October will be highlighted and tense for four women of national interest—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Mrs. Franklin [illegible], Mrs. Dolly Gann and Mrs. [illegible] Garner.

[illegible] they are [illegible] four [illegible] whether they typify American life and whether they [illegible] when the campaign comes each will be a factor in presidential and vice-presidential fortunes.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT • MRS. JOHN N. GARNER • MRS. EDWARD E. GANN • MRS. HERBERT HOOVER

A COSMOPOLITAN

Lou Henry Hoover, whose campaign setting probably will be the south portico of the White House and Camp Rapidan, is the cosmopolitan. Born in Iowa to memories of rail fences and fresh-turned furrows, she has lived in China, London, California and Washington, D. C. Into her hospitable home the hundreds daily pour.

Press-shy Mrs. Hoover has provided comparatively little copy to reporters during her regime, but perhaps no other White House mistress has piled up such an individual acquaintance through a staggering "sum total" of guests. Her hostess gift is as distinctive as her shimmering white hair.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, active in the arena in behalf of her husband, is the "born aristocrat" if America has any such to offer. First cousin of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the "princess Alice" of Rooseveltian days in the White House, Mrs. Roosevelt has the same slim, straight grace of bearing, the same social ease.

Being aristocratic, she can also be as democratic as she chooses, gathering women reporters about her in a close little circle for intimate talks about her girls' school and her furniture factory and the traditions she considers worth keeping in the White House.

Mrs. Dolly Gann, gorgeously gowned Kansan, a political campaigner in her own right as well as social hostess for her brother, Vice-President Curtis, is regarded as certain to play a prominent part in the campaign. She might be termed the "success story" type of American, rising to prominence and power side by side with her half brother who was born on an Indian reservation.

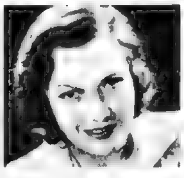
AIDS HER HUSBAND

Speaker Garner says that his wife Ettie probably will stay at home while he goes campaigning—but those who know Mrs. Garner best can not imagine the two that long separated.

Ettie Garner, bobbed-haired and deep-dimpled, typifies for many the simplicity that still survives in American life. Her heart is centered in her husband and in her Uvalde, Texas, home.

For elaborate dresses and social preference she cares not at all, but she says she will even loyally meet the social obligation of the vice-president for that husband of hers.

SHE FOUND THE WAY



REGULARLY—once a month—many a girl decides to do something about it. Surely there must be something to help such pain, such weakness . . . some way to get relief.

Then the period passes. She forgets. But next month she suffers again.

Now today—is the time to do something. Buy a bottle of this Vegetable Compound. Keep it ready. It has been a godsend to thousands. 98 out of 100 women who try it report benefit. Through its tonic action it built them up and relieved the pain. They depend on it. You can depend on it too.

Women's Right to 'Gigolos' Defended; Not Parasites or Dangerous Villains

By MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

EVERY MAN, says the Constitution of the United States is entitled to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Then why not every woman—including every older, unattached woman who wants, a la Kipling, to take her fun where she finds it, and is perfectly willing to pay for her fun?

Sh sh we don't mean anything shocking or rather we insist that what we mean is not shocking. It just happens that today we find ourself defending one of woman's rights which is too frequently [illegible] her right to amuse herself harmlessly and happily with an attractive companion of the opposite sex just as any man however fat and fifty feels that he is entitled to play about with a pretty girl.

If he may [illegible] willing to pay for flowers and candy for theatre tickets and supper checks [illegible]

[illegible]

MISCONCEPTION EXPLODED

[illegible]

[illegible] oos are godsends and [illegible] following story to prove it.

"I was being bored to death one evening in a smart French restaurant with a woman friend when a nice-looking young man came over and asked me to dance," she says. "Of course, I knew what he was but did I turn him down? You bet I didn't. We had not one but three dances and then I tucked into his hand the franc notes which I considered an extremely moderate fee.

REFUSED OVER PAYMENT

"What did he do but inform me, earnestly, that I had overpaid him! When I refused to take back the money he begged me to let him do something else for me. I suggested that he dance with my friend.

"It just happened that she was six feet in height, and my gigolo five feet eight. Regretfully but firmly he explained that if he danced with a lady so much taller he would make himself ridiculous and might lose his job. 'But wait,' he finished mysteriously and disappeared.

"Ten minutes later he returned with a giant who must have stood six feet three in his evening clothes—a gigolo friend whom he had borrowed from another restaurant where the man was dancing.

"The four of us spent a perfectly delightful evening. Both young men explained that—like so many of the gigolos in Paris—they were expatriated Russian aristocrats, who in their own phrase had been 'taught to do perfectly everything useless.'

"What finished our friend warmly, was wrong with the situation? Those boys worked for their money. We were only too glad to pay them for giving us a good time. New York is full of unattached women no longer young who are starved for good times. Why shouldn't they employ gigolos professional partner in play?"

Listen, World! 'New Day'

By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMETIMES it's hard waking up [illegible] facing a new day.

Old memories crowding round you like ghosts that have been waiting for you to wake. Old wounds opening. If only you could turn back to the days that are gone. If only you could hear that lost voice again, see that dear face [illegible]

Elsie Robinson

But you can't. You can't. A [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] IF YOU HAVE THE NERVE TO GO AFTER THEM [illegible]

[illegible]

And [illegible] Just make the gestures.

For there's the whole secret of the human behavior and of successful personalities. We are still very much in the power of our old savage selves. No one is brave clear through. We all want to crawl into holes to nurse our sadness or throw a tantrum to express our badness. But we've had a vision and we've invented some gestures—

We have had a vision of creatures who shall be taller and finer than savages. And we have invented gestures that are more beautiful and brave than savage gestures. Any one even an nitwit can make those gestures, no matter how he or she feels inside. And if he will go on making those gestures long enough HE WILL BECOME THE THING HE SEEMS TO BE.

Hate to wake up to the morning? Dread to face a new day. Gwan—act game—AND YOU'LL BE GAME!

Daily True Story

Alibi Accepted

AVA FACED PAUL on the porch with pale cheeks and flashing eyes. She could scarcely believe that the frowning, angry young man was "her Paul," usually so smiling, debonair, considerate and lovable.

"Alibis," he sneered. "Women's specialty. You needn't bother to offer yours. There was plenty of moonlight. I saw you getting into the speedboat with Dan Van Styke. I'd recognize that yellow gown of yours among a million."

"But if you'd only listen a moment," Ava began. "Be reasonable, Paul."

"I told you," he interrupted, almost brutally, "I don't care to listen to an alibi. You couldn't go to the dance at the Blue Wave Inn—you had a headache." With a curt nod, Ava turned on her heel and went through the open French door, with silent dignity.

[illegible] Ava began to pack [illegible] fever [illegible]

"'Lo," said Margie. "I've brought back your yellow dress, Ava. Thanks for the loan."

"Keep it," cried Ava. "I don't want it. I never want to see a yellow gown again."

Margie gazed at her in amazement. "Why, what's the matter?" she asked wonderingly. "And why are you packing? Anything happened?"

"No," said Ava, "only I'm going on the next train. I can't bear it here."

"Sorry," said Margie, crestfallen. "Thought you were having a spiffy time. If there's anything I can do, dear——"

"There's nothing anybody can do," snapped Ava.

"Alibis," interrupted Ava, tartly. "Men's specialty. Really, it's late and I must be getting in. I don't care to listen, please."

She made a move to avoid him and run to the steps, but Paul seized her around the waist. "Yes, an alibi," he said fiercely, "and a good one, although it doesn't excuse my beastly conduct. I know you weren't in the boat, Ava. It was Margie. And now, you're going to listen to me, whether you want to or not. I love you more than ever. I don't need any alibi for that. Are we going to quit stubborn foolishness and begin over again? Or are you giving me this gate?"

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN.

1. Should the bride or bridegroom buy the candy for the office where the bride is employed? In this particular case, the bridegroom is not acquainted with any of the bride's co-workers.

2. Also if she is leaving town before the ceremony, would it be correct to have candy delivered before the marriage takes place?

G.

1. If this plan to give candy to the bride's co-workers is to be carried out, the bride herself should do it.

2. Yes, if she wishes.

Pronunciation

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I would like to know if there is any difference in the pronunciation of the words, fiance and fiancee?

2. How should I introduce my fiance to my minister?

3. When getting into the back seat of a car or a rumble seat, with a man where does the girl sit?

FIANCEE

1. These words are pronounced practically the same.

2. Doctor (or Mr.) Worthyman, may I present my fiance, Mr. Allen? or more informally, "Doctor Worthyman, this is my fiance, Mr. Allen," or "Doctor Worthyman, my fiance, Mr. Allen."

Foolish Pride to Object to Glasses

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

HOW [illegible]

Dr. Copeland

[illegible]

It may be a mark of age if one must have glasses to find a name or number in the telephone book, but it certainly is not a mark of age for one to need glasses to see distinctly at a distance.

Think of the outlandish hats and shoes the human race wears because it is the style, then wonder why anybody should object to wearing a properly adjusted nose-glass or pair of spectacles.

When I gaze upon the photographs of famous [illegible] at persons I meet every day I often wonder where they ever got such ridiculous looking glasses as they wear. It isn't necessary to have glasses of this type. Modern opticians and manufacturers of optical goods are all the time devising frames and lenses that actually add to the look of distinction or the real beauty of those who wear them. I have seen many a face that would be materially enhanced in its appearance and attractiveness if suitable glasses were provided.

It is absurd indeed for one to reject the benefits of modern science just because of a silly dread of wearing glasses. I am out of patience with this feeling.

I have gone out of my way to say these things because I know that the foolishness of pride has deprived many and many a person, particularly members of the fair sex, from the benefits of much needed correcting lenses. Many a human being is suffering discomfort, if not agony, because of uncorrected eye-strain.

Sit down with yourself and take an inventory of your possessions. Headache eye pain, redness of the lids, lack of concentration, restlessness, unwillingness to work—these are some of the penalties of eye-strain. Is it worth while to permit your pride to keep you from wearing glasses when they can do away with your physical ills?

Hints From the Beauty Box

WHEN FINGER NAILS become thick, brittle and without luster, it is because of diet deficiency. A glass of milk with each meal and a serving of lettuce at luncheon and dinner will supply food elements that are necessary for the health and well-being of finger sheaths. Every night dip the finger ends in hot olive oil, covering each one with a thimble-like compress of absorbent cotton. Keep the hands out of cold water.

HAIR THAT has been in contact with peroxide for any considerable length of time should not be subjected to the permanent waving process unless a test curl is made. This rule holds good for hair that has been dyed or subjected to applications of restoratives. All dyes do not disqualify hair from the bliss of a hard boiled wave.

Zasu Pitts Is Chosen by Universal for Lead in Hilarious Comedy

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Louella O. Parsons

Los Angeles, Aug. 18—Around the luncheon table seven newspaper writers were in session. A dramatic story in which a woman who has followed the easiest way reviews her past in the four minutes allotted her to live was discussed. The drama of the story is unmistakable. The seven scribes cast about for an actress to play the lead and who do you think it was? Not any of our great dramatic actresses, but Zasu Pitts. And let me tell you they were serious in picking her.

In spite of this designation of Miss Pitts as a dramatic actress Universal has just cast her in a hilarious comedy, especially written for her by Tim Whelan. It's called "Niagara Falls" and is the story of a honeymoon. Just the idea is funny [illegible] one of these days you are going to see Zasu Pitts in a great dramatic role.

(Platte City, Mo., Landmark.)

Elmer Ross, who lives two miles east of Platte City, met with a peculiar accident Saturday. He was playing with a 22-calibre pistol when a fly lit on his knee, and not knowing it was loaded Elmer took aim at the fly and fired away, the bullet striking his leg just above the kneecap. The fly escaped. Elmer had trimmed off nearly all the bullet and for this reason the wound is not a serious one.

Financial Market News, Notes and Comment

INSPIRATION IN NEWS FROM TRANSVAAL

By B. C. FORBES

That statement, referring to $7,700,000 of Transvaal gold now on its way to London, possesses interest and inspiration for Americans, especially those pessimistically-minded.

When I spent 18 months in Johannesburg, center of South Africa's gold fields, just after the opening of the 20th century, the conviction was freely voiced that the gold deposits were nearing exhaustion. The Witwatersrand Reef, the original gold bearer, had been rather thoroughly exploited and little was expected from other areas.

That was 30 years ago. Since then production has greatly widened. And today the output is exceeding all earlier records.

A Moral for Americans

I cannot refrain from comparing the mental and material conditions in the Transvaal then with the mental and material conditions which lately have ruled in America. Have we not all been surrounded by doubting Thomases, who have dolefully predicted nothing but disaster for the United States? Have we not been told and re-told in awesome tones that America was swiftly sinking towards total collapse?

Thirty years ago pessimists cocksuredly prophesied that the then flourishing metropolis of the Transvaal would soon shrivel into decay and desolation. The Johannesburg of that day was a one-horse town in contrast with the teeming Johannesburg of today, with its skyscrapers not unworthy of America's foremost cities.

U. S. Should Duplicate Feat

I, for one, cannot for a moment doubt that the United States of 30 years hence will form as impressive a contrast with the United States of today as do the two Johannesburgs.

True, the intervening development of the gold fields has called for the application of scientific, chemical, metallurgical, engineering and other knowledge not born a generation ago. Gold is now being brought from depths then considered utterly unattainable.

Similarly, further progress in our own land doubtless will depend upon the energetic application of knowledge now unborn, on the invention of new appliances, on the creation of vigorous marketing of new products, on scientific and chemical and mechanical discoveries today not even dreamed.

When one mentally pictures the bleak, inhospitable African veldt, and then pictures the already revealed wonders of our own amazingly rich, fertile, diversified continent, the imagination becomes fired with faith which no temporary economic eddy can undermine.

General Price Level Improving

Happily, signs multiply that we are at last overcoming our blue funk, our childish hysteria, our shameful surrender to utter hopelessness.

Stocks have rebounded fully 80 per cent from their low levels of last month. Many bonds are up 50 to 75 per cent. Many agricultural and other commodities have recovered impressively. The general price level has done better in recent months than at any other time in the last three years.

Present Prices Big Bargains Soon

Amazement is expressed over the suddenness and extent of the transformation in security markets—the rise has reached a percentage never before equalled.

As I see it, the extent of the revival is much more logical than was the extent of the debacle.

The upswing may be temporarily overdone, since this youthful country rarely does anything by halves; but let business catch the new spirit of optimism, and present day prices will by and by be looked back on as incredible bargains.

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

Shields & Co.—New bullish influence will be necessary to carry the market through and while it probably will be forthcoming when needed there is nothing immediately ahead to change the irregular character of the list. Short selling remains very dangerous but quick trading opportunities will be available whenever the list quiets after such drives as experienced in recent sessions.

Theodore Prince & Co.—Dullness after each sell-off leads us to believe that there is not a great deal of stocks pressing for sale and that while the market should provide ample opportunity for trading turns, we would allow it more time to consolidate its gains before attempting any accumulations.

E. A. Pierce & Co.—A fair assumption would be, we think, the establishment of a relatively narrow trading range for the present somewhat under recovery tops with the possibility that buying interest may remain active in the utilities.

E. B. Smith & Co.—The action of the market at the close confirms our ideas of a continuation of the reaction. We see no reason to anticipate any material support developing at very nearby levels and would therefore be inclined to wait before making any new long commitments.

Paine, Webber & Co.—In our judgment, stocks generally, and particularly the rails, can be bought for profitable trades on all setbacks so long as these figures are not broken through: Atchison, 40½; New York Central, 19⅛; Union Pacific, 58; Northern Pacific, 15; Great Northern, 12½; Southern Pacific, 16½; New Haven, 18; Baltimore & Ohio, 10½ and Pennsylvania, 12½.

NEW ACTION BY RAILROADS IS IMPORTANT

By FRANK H. MELOON

Latest construction action by the major railroads is important from many angles. It looks toward the elimination of competitive wastes by co-operation among the carriers. President L. F. Loree of the Delaware & Hudson, to whose system the initial proposals of the Interstate Commerce Commission sought to link Boston & Maine, is heading the movement. Very successful outcome of the movement might have the salutary effect of averting or reducing further carrier wage-cutting among other benefits.

President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio, able Vermonter, sought to bring the major benefits of reducing competition nearer by a plan to knit managements closer without a preliminary acquisition of rail shares in the open market, but latest reports were that I. C. C. leaders were frowning on the idea.

Bank of Nova Scotia, which maintains a branch in Boston, this month joins the exclusive class of savings institutions a century old. Founded in Halifax in 1832, the Bank of Nova Scotia has risen from a local maritime institution (one of the first of its kind in Canada) to front rank among Canadian chartered banks. International in scope, it now ranks fourth in point of assets among all Canadian banks. Its 330 branches stretch from coast to coast in the Dominion and include Newfoundland, England, the West Indies and the United States.

The bank first opened its doors to the public in a little room in Roman's building, on Hollis Street, Halifax, in August, 1832. Halifax itself at that time was but a small British naval port of 15,000 inhabitants, whose muddy streets converged at the waterfront where seafaring commerce was carried on.

* * *

Its sole banking facilities were a private banking partnership started seven years previously and known as the Halifax Banking Co., which wielded a political and financial monopoly over the province. It was in part to break this monopoly that the Bank of Nova Scotia was organized by a coterie of local business men headed by William Lawson, who held their first organization meeting at the Merchants Exchange Coffee House in Halifax in December, 1831.

Is the stock market swinging the wheat market or the wheat market swinging the stock market? It is left for you to decide. A Chicago writer says wheat declined on stock market reactions. A Wall St. writer says the stock market declined on the sagging of the wheat market.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale University, well-known economist, today was elected a director of United Endowment Foundation, Inc., sponsors of the Foundation Plan and of Foundation Trust Shares. He has joined the board of the organization, it was stated, because of his interest in its program to meet the investment needs of the man of moderate means.

Fisher has won wide recognition for his writings on economic subjects, particularly his studies on the stabilization of the dollar and the making of index numbers to gauge the trend of business.

Dividends

Waldorf System, Inc., declared regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share, payable October 1 to stock of record September 20.

Electric Bond & Share Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent in common stock on the common, payable October 15 to stock of record September 6.

Vortex Cup Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common, placing the issue on a $1 annual basis, against $1.50 previously. Dividend is payable October 1 to stock of record September 15.

U. S. Gold Stock Mounts $5,434,100

New York, Aug. 18—Gold reserves of the United States were increased $5,434,100 by an additional release from foreign earmark of $767,100 for Tuesday and a new reduction in that item of $9,007,300, besides imports totaling $1,663,400.

There was an offsetting withdrawal for export to France of $6,003,700, which was provided for by a previous release from earmark of a corresponding amount.

STATE ST. Hears:

That the next few sessions should be the most interesting seen in a long time. It may be fairly said that they will represent the crucial moments in the comparatively young life of bullish pools. The constructive forces can be expected to marshall their fullest strength in order to do battle with the liquidators who made their appearance on Wednesday.

The Pool Problem

In analyzing the pool problem it is necessary to go back a couple of weeks to the time when the pools instead of attracting a public following discovered that the outside had been fighting the rise. They took the stock offered and put prices up on the improved technical position.

This situation was duly noted here at that time with the remark that pools would have to carry stock prices to much higher levels in order to commence liquidating. They did not that but had to extinguish the short account while greatly increasing their own holdings.

As the time for their distribution arrived they were met with the surprising selling of yesterday. Some of this was for domestic account but a good part supposedly originated in Europe. Pools must absorb this additional stock and attempt to regain the high levels of last week.

Odds and Ends

No great amount of intelligence is required to see the danger to the average trader who steps into this market, no matter with which side he decides to play. The best policy is to let the tape declare itself and speedily move in the indicated direction.

What is likely to happen on the tape in the next few days provided the bull pool's fight as expected, can be summed up in this way. Quick rallies and reactions, designed to rebuild the short account, resulting in a market confined to an irregular trading range for a while.

After that the normal, to be expected reaction could set in, owing both constructive operators and the public a chance to start again from safer levels. Incidentally the utilities are likely to assume a more important place in the next day or so if pools again try for higher levels.

Boardroom Briefs

Plenty of talk these days about this and that railroad buying the equities of other carriers . . . Only one trouble with such gossip and that is the majority of roads lack the cash to buy equipment, to say nothing of making heavy investments.

Despite the flashy tape performance of Radio it is said the crowd interested is not very happy . . . It seems that some holders, who might be called unwilling investors, are so pleased with the sudden boom that they are taking this opportunity to get out.

A lot of talk about good news to come in regard to silver . . . The companies concerned have seen their equities double in value since they were recommended here in mid-July . . . Profits are profits and cannot be spent if they remain on paper. H. E. B.

Pay Amalgamated Laundries Initial

A first dividend of 12½ per cent is being paid on the bonds of Amalgamated Laundries, Inc., and to other creditors by the Irving Trust Company receivers. It is expected that additional dividends will be paid which will bring the total up to approximately 20 per cent. Irving Trust Company was appointed receiver in February and negotiations by the receivers and their attorneys, Burnstine, Geist, Netter & Hirst, resulted in the sale of all the assets.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

U. S. STEEL'S wildest opening this week was explained today as having resulted from buying traced back to a prominent house known to be actively engaged on the bull side of the market. The stock opened up 4⅛ points that morning. Now it is stated that the wild opening was utilized as a cover for selling elsewhere in the market. The fact is that after days of activity Steel common closed at a price cancelling virtually the entire spectacular Tuesday opening gain.

United Corporation Asset Value Rises

Revived speculative demand for United Corporation shares reflects knowledge of the sharp appreciation in the market value of the company's assets. Officially it is stated the rise in United's utility stock investments has boosted the liquidating value of the common to approximately $9.50 a share as of Tuesday's closing prices.

Around $3 a Share At End of June

At the end of June the figure was around $3 a share. Similarly the collateral behind the preferred stock is now worth correspondingly more than at mid year and figures about double the senior stock issue. As far as can be learned, United has not added much to its last known large security holdings.

August Freight Statistics Better

Enthusiasm for railway stocks has been enlivened by improved freight loadings statements covering the second week of August now at hand. Atchison, first of the major systems to report for the period ended last Saturday, handled 24,610 cars in that week, up approximately 2200 cars from the previous week. Corresponding increase last year was less than 1000 cars. If Atchison's improvement is indicative of other leading carriers, the aggregate freight total for the country as a whole will probably register a substantial increase in the report due next Saturday.

Bull Campaign Enters New Phase

Shift of market leadership on the advance into the utility stocks appeared to be in line with a widely circulated report that the campaign of sponsors for the current upswing was entering a phase of bringing laggards into greater prominence. Apparently this is for the obvious purpose of sustaining interest on the upside while previous leaders are allowed to rest. It is understood the plans call for greater aggressiveness in the copper section when the utilities begin to show signs of fatigue.

Cnotinental Insurance Activity Inspired

Activity in Continental Insurance finds inspiration in the company's reputed large ownership of New York & Harlem Railroad stock, which has risen approximately 20 points this week.

Mathieson Alkali Pool Ambitious

Mathieson Alkali as the newest specialty to invite the ambitions of a group previously identified with similar operations in other parts of the list. Activities of its sponsors are being accompanied by statements that recent revival in the New England textile industry is being extended to Southern States and should prove a stimulus to various chemical concerns supplying the trade with bleaching agents and dyes. The point is also being stressed that Mathieson's earnings have held up better than the averages of the chemicals thus far this year.

STOCKS LOWER IN BOSTON

Leaders were worked lower in today's dull dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange with moderate price changes ruling. Boston Elevated was soft and sold nearly 2 points below last night's closing level.

Rails were easier with Atchison and Pennsylvania each showing fractional recessions, Boston & Albany dropped a point to 94. New England Telephone sold down a point from last night's close at 95 and American Telephone was off a minor fraction to 109⅞.

Mergenthaler sold at 25 at which price it was down a point from the previous closing price. American Woolen preferred eased slightly while Gillette slipped back a major fraction. United Fruit was firm and showed slight improvement in price.

Market Street Ry. Net Income Lower

Market Street Railway for the 12 months ended July 31 reports a net income of $1,043,776 after ordinary taxes, but before depreciation, interest and federal taxes, as against $1,348,905 in the 12 months ended July 31, 1931.

Up-to-Date Analysis

(By Standard Statistics Co.)

DEVOE & REYNOLDS, INC.

While the trend of activities in all paint consuming outlets continues downward, Devoe & Reynolds' ability to keep expense reduction in line with probable volume decline should obviate the incurrence of a heavy loss. Moreover its strong position in the trade remains unimpaired and resumption of the former upward earnings trend would quickly follow upon any material improvement in general business.

Net income for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1931, was equal, after preferred dividends, to $1.12 a class A share, compared with a deficit of 22 cents in 1930, and a profit of $4.52 in 1929. For the six months ended May 31, 1932, however, a loss of 45 cents a share was experienced against earnings of 56 cents in the like period a year earlier, and it is questionable that this deficit can be little more than wiped out before the year-end. The dividend due July 1, 1932, on class A stock was omitted, and resumption is not an early prospect.

This company is the second largest factor in the paint industry owning and operating seven plants in the eastern and central sections of the country. It manufactures a complete line of paints, varnishes, lacquers and brushes and distributes through a large number of its own outlets. Financial position is strong, current ratio as of May 31, having stood at approximately 10 to 1, and capitalization is conservative.

N. W. Power Bonds' Deposit Is Asked

J. B. Woodyatt, chairman of the bondholders protective committee for Northwestern Power Company Ltd., 6 per cent first mortgage sinking fund convertible gold bonds Series A, has called for deposit of the bonds on or before Sept. 15, either with The Royal Trust Company, Montreal, or the Agency Bank of Montreal, 64 Wall st., New York city. Formal notice of the formation of the committee was made on July 21, when it was announced that a deposit agreement was in course of preparation.

As members of the committee have agreed to act without compensation, it was announced that should depositing bondholders not approve of the proposed plan they can withdraw their deposited bonds without expense within a period of 30 days after the committee has filed with the depositary its approval of the plan.

N. A. Aviation Is Half-Year Loser

North American Aviation, Inc., and wholly owned subsidiaries for six months ended June 30, show net loss of $106,888 after depreciation, interest, taxes, etc., but exclusive of $50,734 losses in security transactions during the period, based on Dec. 31, 1931, market values, which were charged against earned surplus account.

SPECTATOR Says:

The stock market has grown a little stale and apparently needs a few shakeouts to put it in shape again. Most of the important buying of stocks seems to have been completed for the time being, and those that have missed won't reach for them.

Trend Is Up

The trend still is up, but what may develop at this time is one of those whipswing markets where only the nimblest of traders can come out right side out.

The market boom paid that accumulated dividend on General American Investors preferred. This was one trust that got in heavily on the ground floor and made a cleanup.

Europe Big Buyer

Europe is still a buyer of stocks on balance. The favorites continue to be the rails and the high grade dividend payers.

Interests identified with Lorillard continue bullish on the stock and reports are current that a strong pool is being formed . . . The way earnings have been going so far predictions are that Lorillard's net for the year will be $2.05 as are, the best since 1926.

The rise in the amusement shares and reports that movie companies are in the black is attracting attention to Eastman Kodak . . . The company is still the principal source of films . . . Pittsburgh's partiality to the market, reflected in the way Steel and Westinghouse have been going, should work out to the benefit of Pullman. The stock has been well bought and 40,000 shares are understood to have been taken out of the market in the last few days.

CURB MARKET TONE STEADY

New York, Aug. 18 (INS)—The curb market showed a steady tone in dull trading today. There was further profit taking and scattered professional selling reflecting yesterday's reaction, but this was taken without important price changes.

Pressure dried up in the first hour and a mild rally developed but there was none of the recent snap to the trading.

Specialties showed traces of buoyancy. Aluminum of America recovered a point of yesterday's 3-point slump. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea spurted 3 points to 143 and Singer Manufacturing jumped a couple of points to 120. A. O. Smith gained fractionally and Cord Manufacturing A moved steady.

Utilities showed a firm undertone and edged forward after early selling. Electric Bond & Shares gained a fraction after slipping in initial trading. American Gas & Electric followed the parent company forward while American Light & Traction was easy. American Superpower and Cities Service were steady.

Oils were dull and inclined to sag while Newmont Mining holding company for oil and mining securities, was lower. Ford and Canada and Swift dipped fractionally.

IMPROVEMENT IN SENTIMENT EMPHASIZED

New York, Aug. 18 (AP). Editors of trade and industrial magazines, usually hard to convince, are beginning to report that there are indications of a slight, if not substantial, betterment in the lines of business represented by their publications.

The trade paper journalists, in outlining conditions to the Associated Business Papers, Inc., of New York, especially stress the improvement in sentiment which, they say, has been most noticeable during the first half of this month.

AGGRESSIVE ADVERTISING

Retail advertising was said to have made the best showing during July, holding at 70.4 per cent of its four-year average. This was believed to have reflected the aggressive advertising of special sales in various cities, sales which in many cases were termed "highly successful."

Those editors interested in the steel industry stated that, while production continues at an abnormally low rate, scrap prices usually looked upon as reliable guides to pending changes have increased some 3½ per cent in two weeks.

A definite upward trend was found in the textile end, sales exceeding production and basic material prices, especially of cotton, have been advancing. More than a seasonal rise was seen in shoe manufacturing with leather prices showing signs of further strengthening.

Prices in the food industries were reported to be improving, it appears, and it was noted that the country's storage stocks were somewhat below average.

PRIVATE BUILDING UP

The editorial observers further found that in building construction, the volume of private projects was rising, sales of oil and motor fuel were improving, being barely 4.41 per cent under the 1931 period, coal operations both in the anthracite and bituminous fields were on the increase with labor problems rapidly nearing solution.

Cement manufacturers were feeling better as prices tended to harden, wood goods manufacturers were encouraged by the widening use of their goods, paper and pulp mine market [illegible] were receiving increased orders.

Optical goods manufacturers were predicting a fall pick up and the hotel and bakery business was, at least, "not sagging."

While automobile sales were not expected to reach the totals hoped for on the basis of the June showing the publishers found there were growing hopes business would undergo a decided change in the near future.

Lake Superior Coal Is Recalling Help

Lake Superior Coal Co. has recalled 100 miners at its Welch, West Virginia, Superior mine, which has been closed for three months. Mine will operate three or four days a week indefinitely.

PRICE CHANGES VERY NARROW IN WALL ST.

New York, Aug. 18—Price changes in most of the active issues on the New York Stock Exchange today were very narrow. Fractional variations from Wednesday's finish were the rule, and trading proceeded at a quiet pace.

SLIDES OFF EASILY

The market slid off easily in early dealings under light selling pressure. A few fractional advances in the first half hour proved short-live. In the first hour transactions setbacks of one to 2 points came for American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco B, Atchison, Union Pacific, Loew's, American Smelting, National Biscuit, California Standard and North America.

In the second period fractional losses were seen in American Telephone, Westinghouse Electric, U. S. Steel, Union Carbide, International Harvester, General Motors and DuPont.

At the same time American Can was down a point and fractional advances showed for Atchison, Auburn and General Electric. Consolidated Gas was up over a point and Public Service of New Jersey, which issued a favorable report yesterday, lifted a point.

DECLINES ARE RAPID.

Chairman Lessing J. Rosenwald said declines in prices of manufactured goods and finished products had been "far more rapid" than at any time in the past two years although commodity prices had declined at about the same rate during the depression.

The setback of the previous session took Wall Street somewhat by surprise and traders were inclined to be a little wary, pending clearer indication of the trend. This week and last, the market has made a 'double top' on the advance.

The rails have actually broken through last week's top and a similar penetration of new highs by the industrials would be regarded by chart readers as a bullish sign.

With the American Telephone dividend out of the way, the market appeared to be without important news in immediate prospect, although an early announcement on the Commodities Credit Corp. was expected and considerable interest was manifested in the meeting of railway executives in Chicago to discuss wages.

U. S. Distributing's Net Is 13c Share

U. S. Distributing Corp. and subsidiaries for the quarter ended June 30 last report a consolidated net profit of $228,552 after depreciation, depletion, interest, taxes, reserves and after preferred dividends of Pattison & Bowns, Inc. This was equal after dividend requirements on 101,432 shares of 7 per cent preferred of U. S. Distributing outstanding at the close of the period to 13 cents a share on 195,458 shares of common.

This compares with a net profit in the June quarter of 1931 of $100,177, or 97 cents a share on 102,147 shares of 7 percent preferred.

"Penosy" Loadings Increase in Week

Philadelphia, Aug. 18—Total loaded cars handled by the Pennsylvania System in the week ended August 13 amounted to 74,768. Of these, 48,562 represented cars loaded on the company's lines and 26,206 received from connections. Total compares with 73,985 handled in the preceding week and 114,179 in the same period last year.

Changes Are Small in Chicago Grains

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—Grain prices averaged lower today, influenced by estimates that the 1932 northern hemisphere wheat crop would be only 2,400,000 bushels under last year. Liverpool reported the market there was influenced by larg receipt of spring wheat.

Opening unchanged at ¼ lower, wheat afterward rallied somewhat. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off, and subsequently hardened.

Worthington Pump Reports Net Loss

Worthington Pump & Machinery Corp. and subsidiaries for the six months ended June 30 last report a net loss of $1,098,011 after taxes, depreciation, etc., as against a net income o g$209856, equal to $1.32 a share on the combined 55,928 shares at 7 per cent preferred class A and 103,218 shares of 6 per cent preferred class B stocks in the first half of 1931.

Foundation Co. Is Operated in Red

Foundation Co. reports for six months ended June 30 total income of $79,829 and net loss after general expenses of $68,997. This compares with net loss of $235,022 in first half of 1931.

For quarter ended June 30 net loss was $20,709 after expenses, etc., against net loss of $48,288 in the preceding quarter and net loss of $82,693 in the June quarter of 1931.

Westinghouse Given Large Navy Order

U. S. Reflation Scheme Widening in Scope

New York, Aug. 18 (INS)—The American "reflation" scheme to bring back commodity prices may now become international in scope.

England for some time has been urging a world movement of this nature, but the stumbling block right along has been France. Now this seems to have been removed.

France, according to private advices from Paris and Washington, has been won over to the cause, and has notified the American capital of its wholehearted acceptance of the present credit manipulation program.

In addition, Paris is understood to have gone so far as to indicate a willingness to join an international conference or agreement to do nothing to imperil the "American experiment."

The crux of this whole campaign emanating from Washington is easy money. It is being promoted in an artificial atmosphere of speculation and ballyhoo.

Endorsement of "reflation" means a right about face for France. For as recently as last January, the Bank of France—the country's central bank—came out vigorously against artificial credit policies and easy money, as a remedy for the crisis.

The bank's views as stated in its annual report, were elaborated on by its chief executive—Governor Moret. News dispatches at that time revealed his stand as follows:

> "Discusing the different viewpoints of British and American banking policy on the one hand and French policy on the other, with respect to money rates, Governor Moret declared that the cheap credit policies of foreign banks simply tends to accentuate the differences in rates of interest on short term and long term loans."

CARRIER BOND GROUP HIGHER

New York, Aug. 18 (INS)—Some irregularity was apparent in the course of bond prices in the early trading today. While railroad bonds continued to move into new high ground for the recovery, motion picture issues which had been enjoying a substantial upswing turned lower.

In the railroad group the bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad continued in active demand with the 4½s of 1933 rising to 69-1 for an overnight gain of ¼ of a point. Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific 5s of 2000 were unchanged at 8½, and the Missouri Pacific issues were mixed to slightly higher. The mop 5s of 1975 held unchanged at 22¼, the 5s of 1977 were also unchanged, the 5s of 1980 were up ¼ at 37-1, and the 5s of 1981 lost ⅛ at 36¾.

Paramount bonds bore the brunt of the selling in the amusement group with the 6s dropping to 36, off 1 point. The selling was attributed to the suit of A. C. Blumenthal against the issuance of the bonds.

Raybestos Shows Quarter Net Loss

Sales Tax Success Is Arresting Attention

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

New York, Aug 18 (US)—The new and successful initial experience of the State of Mississippi with the consumers' sales tax has arrested the attention of the country, which at this time is unusually tax conscious.

West Virginia has derived substantial revenues from a sales tax—a gross sales tax—ever since 1921. The law was amended in 1925 by changing the rates on different classes and by exempting professions and sales not carried on for profit.

Though fluctuating in proceeds with general business conditions, the yield has not been as adversely affected by the depression as taxes based on profits, rather than on sales. Net collection of West Virginia's gross sales tax decreased from $3,065,010 during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1931 to $2,327,710 in the fiscal year ended June 30 last. General economic conditions accounted for the decreases, according to T. C. Townsend, State tax commissioner.

By switching in 1921 from a tax based on net income to one based on gross sales, the State greatly increased its income from that source. Collections from this new tax during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924, totaled $3,055,976, more than three times the $912,689 received from the excise tax on corporations during the tax year 1919-20.

The rates per $100 under the existing law are extremely moderate, as revealed by the subjoined samples:

Coal, 42c.; wholesalers, 5c.; banks, 30c.; steam railroads and pipe lines, $1; telephone, telegraph, express, electric light and power companies, 60c.; street railroads and other public utilities, 40c.; contracting business, 30c.; amusement business, $1, and all other businesses, 30c.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

NORTHEASTERN TO TAKE UP FOOTBALL

Northeastern University faces its 35th academic year with the prospect of again enrolling about 5000 men and women in its Boston schools. The foundations have been laid for another successful year. The policies and ideals which have brought Northeastern to the forefront in the educational field will be continued, it was announced.

The popularity of the co-operative plan, whereby day students "earn as they learn," and the opportunities available to employed men and women for advancement through evening study loom greater than ever, Northeastern's announcement pointed out.

Outside the scholastic field, Northeastern makes an interesting announcement concerning its athletic program. After several years of student demand, the faculty has approved for the first time a freshman intercollegiate football team this fall.

Next year varsity football will be inaugurated, with the opposition including the traditional colleges Northeastern has faced so creditably in baseball, track, basketball, hockey, tennis and soccer, the last named sport now being discontinued. Sports and other supervised activities are an important part of Northeastern student life.

Four degree-granting schools, served by a large faculty of capable instructors, offer a wide range of both day and evening courses of a practical nature. The co-operative plan, wherein Northeastern is unique, embraces scholastic and professional opportunities for combining classroom knowledge and practical employment in the School of Engineeering and the School of Business Administration.

MECHANICAL TRAINING AT WENTWORTH

Two-year day courses now are offered by Wentworth institute for young men who wish an intensive but thorough technical and mechanical training.

The courses not only include instruction in the fundamentals of shop-work, such as machine-work, oxy-acetylene and arc-welding, foundry-work and pattern-making, but also include such subjects as mechanical drawing and machine design, applied mechanics and testing materials, applied physics, general chemistry, mathematics and business correspondence. These courses are designed to give a young man who is mathematically inclined a substantial foundation for a wide field of mechanical work.

In order that the institute may also be of equal service to young men who are not mathematically inclined, but whose aptitude is more for tools and machinery, and less for the technical or scientific side of industry, two-year day courses are offered in which 50 per cent or more of the time is spent in one shop gaining proficiency in the trade in which they are most interested.

Instruction in mechanical drawing, mathematics and applied science is also included in these courses, but the instruction is arranged in a simpler way and the mathematical requirements are less severe.

Students who desire to terminate their instruction in this second group of courses may do so at the end of the first year and will receive a one-year certificate, if their work is satisfactory.

There are besides the day courses, 22 evening courses. These courses are patterned after the day courses, so far as the time permits.

Mass. Radio School Begins 32d Year on Sept. 12

The radio industry is as yet not finished with its expansion, assert officials of the Massachusetts Radio School.

For those with vision, the industry holds interesting possibilities and the United States laws require the employment of licensed radio operators at all transmitting stations regardless of their nature, they point out.

Established 31 years as the Boston School of Telegraphy, the Massachusetts Radio School has advanced to its leading position in the field. Last year it supplied 10 per cent of the new commercial radio operators although there are more than 40 radio schools recognized by the government.

The school starts its new term for beginners September 12, both day and evening classes.

SCHOOL HOLDS ART EXHIBIT

The school is limited as to the number of students, the day branch having 60 pupils, the evening branch 50 pupils, and the Saturday class 25.

Responding to demand for a department in modeling and sculpture, the management announce that Hugh Cairns is a member of the faculty and will supervise these courses.

STAMMERERS' EMOTIONS STUDIED

The Boston Stammerers' Institute, now completing its 65th year of activity, is one of the best-known schools of speech correction in the country.

Samuel D. Robbins, director, has made an exhaustive study of speech disorders and most advanced methods of the day. He said:

"During the past few years, it has been definitely learned that stammering results from an over-emotionalized condition which occurs just prior to or during the attempt to talk with other people. When this condition is not present the stammerer can frequently talk as fluently as any other person.

"Therefore, the abnormal emotional reactions to speech situations must be corrected before treatment becomes effective. Any attempt to reduce the symptoms without the removal of their causes will result in failure.

"On the other hand, it is a well established fact that the correction of the emotional disorder eliminates the symptoms and brings about a permanent recovery. This is what we strive for in our classroom, to teach the maladjusted emotional sufferer normal emotional control.

"We endeavor to teach modern mental hygiene methods through private individual conferences, thus removing the cause of stammering as well as the impediment itself."

An invitation is extended to all sufferers from speech disorders to arrange for a free consultation with Director Robbins.

RADIO SCHOOL'S '32 FACULTY ANNOUNCED

Old Eastern Radio Institute, founded in 1913, operated from 1929 to July, 1932 as the Boston school of the RCA Institutes, has resumed its former name and will operate as Eastern Radio Institute, Inc., occupying the same quarters as formerly, which consists of the entire third floor of 899 Boylston st.

The staff is headed by Theodore J. Moore (Yale), formerly educational counselor and district superintendent of RCA Institutes, Inc.; E. L. Elfman, (Penn State) formerly with Atwater Kent, Western Electric, Philco, RCA Photophone, RCA Institutes, Inc.; Jack Tierney, holder of a first class commercial licence, formerly superintendent of the U. S. Marine Corps at Washington, and instructor with RCA Institutes, Inc.; M. A. Farrell (Bates College), graduate of RCA Institutes, Inc., now engaged in service work; Arthur W. Curran, holder of a first class commercial license, formerly instructor with RCA Institutes, Inc.; Lawrence H. Poston (Worcester Tech), graduate of RCA Institutes, Inc.; Kathryn M. Blake, registrar, formerly with National Broadcasting Co. in New York and RCA Institutes, Inc.

The school maintains complete equipment as formerly with a few additions, it was announced.

The fall term for both day and evening classes opens Monday, Sept. 12, and courses are offered in radio service, advanced service, television, marine operating, broadcasting, aviation radio and sound.

Mme. Andre Morize Joins Conservatory Faculty

The New England Conservatory of Music, which has enjoyed 65 years of growth, this fall adds to its faculty and facilities.

The conservatory has numbered many bright names in music in its alumni, among them Mme Nordica, Chadwick, Maier and Pattison, Edith Mason, and later such brilliant musicians as Sanroma, the pianist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and now a member of the conservatory faculty.

Additions to the faculty been made, bringing it up to about 100 teachers, and departments are being developed and expanded to meet changing conditions.

IN CHURCH MUSIC

In the church music department, Rev. Benjamin I. Harrison of the clergy of the Church of the Advent, Boston, is joining the faculty as lecturer in church history and liturgy. This course is prescribed for all candidates for the diploma in church music, and is open to other students.

The children's department for children at school with free Saturdays is under the direction of Mme. Andre Morize, wife of Prof. Andre Morize of Harvard University. Mme. Morize will conduct a Saturday morning class for children in French songs, following a plan which she initiated in New York and which was successful. Mme. Morize also will conduct a course in French 3, designed to bring adult students of music and drama into contact with the essentials of French history, literature, and civilization.

ENGLISH ACTOR JOINS

Another addition to the Conservatory faculty is Lucille Monaghan, '28, winner of pianoforte prize. Miss Monaghan since graduation has played with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and at many concerts and recitals.

Gladys Childs Miller, who graduated from the Conservatory of Music in 1932 with a degree of Bachelor of Music, will be a member of the voice faculty. Miss Miller has had several years' experience in New York as a concert and operatic singer before returning to the Conservatory to take her degree. She is contralto soloist at the First Congregational Church in Melrose.

Gilbert Byron, an experienced English actor whose forte is lyric and operatic dancing, joins the dramatic department as a faculty member after several years' association with Clayton D. Gilbert in the dramatic department.

Wallace Goodrich, who succeeded the late Geo. W. Chadwick, is well known in musical circles as a musician of note and an experienced teacher and conductor, and is director of the Conservatory.

Two new scholarship foundations from which income will be awarded to deserving students at Commencement in June, 1933, are the Clara Kathleen Rogers and Fanny Elizabeth French scholarships. The beneficiaries of these scholarships will be students of voice who show promise of success as public singers, and graduates of the Conservatory pursuing post-graduate courses, and for students in the upper classes of the collegiate department.

ITALIAN ART IDEA REVIVED

Advance and beginners' classes at the Impel School of Art, 200 Dartmouth st., will begin on Sept. 26, and will continue until May. Instruction will be given in all branches of art.

The director of the school is returning to the ideals of the early Italian artists who believed that the pupil must work at the side of the master. With this in view, the Impel School of Art departs from the modern tradition of impersonal lecturing and criticism and bases its teaching methods upon the definite working together of instructors and students, it was stated.

With the revival of this tradition and its modern interpretations, Mr. Impellizzeri is attracting the attention of those interested in art.

VARIED STUDY AT FRANKLIN UNION

Franklin Union emphasizes the qualities of integrity, accuracy, neatness, salesmanship and breadth of training necessary in the enlarging field occupied by the modern pharmacist; and, in addition, provides training which will open the door to larger business opportunities, the annual announcement declared.

In the first year of the day pharmacy course at Franklin Union, instruction is given in elements of Latin, mathematics, physics, and microscopy; and thorough instruction in general chemistry, chemical arithmetic, qualitative analysis, galenical pharmacy, pharmaceutical arithmetic, elements of quantitative analysis, organic chemistry, botany, physiology and bacteriology.

The second year embraces instruction in quantitative analysis, pharmaceutical assaying, organic chemistry, advanced pharmacy, toxicology, posology, incompatibilities, prescription reading and compounding, and materia medica; and the elements of pharmacy law and store management.

The other two-year day technical course in industrial electricity is designed to prepare for positions in industry where a technical knowledge of electrical apparatus is essential, such as in power houses, railways and in the manufacture of electrical appliances.

The course provides a strong foundation in mechanical principles, and offers preparation for varied lines of industrial activity. For those who are capable of hard work and willing to devote two seasons to it, this is a well-balanced intensive course of training planned to develop personality, initiative and responsibility, Franklin Union officials said.

A two-year technical course in industrial chemistry offered by Franklin Union meets the growing needs and increasing demands of modern living. The immediate future is certain to see many new developments and many trained men will be required. In the past, the ablest men of their times produced glass from salt and limestone, soap from fat and ashes, vinegar from waste molasses, artificial silk from wood fiber, dye-stuffs from coal tar, glue and gelatin from animal waste, paper from wood; and have developed such industries as the photographic, rubber, ink, paint, and cement.

The two year industrial chemistry course fits men to understand chemical principles and methods such as are used in the above mentioned industries, and to enable them to carry out the analysis necessary in controlling and improving such successes.

The one year trade course in automobile repair is planned to thoroughly train men in the repair of automobiles, including front and rear ends, engines, transmissions, grinding and turning of valves.

Suffolk School of Law to Increase Lecture Hours

Beginning next month Suffolk Law School puts into operation a new lecture schedule, under which the regular hours of instruction will be increased from one and one-half hours to two hours a day or evening.

In order to accomplish this increase in lecture time it was necessary to change from four divisions to three. The moring division will be held from 10 a. m. to noon; the early evening division from 5:30 to 7:25 p. m., and the late evening division from 7:30 to 9:25 p. m.

This change is therefore equivalent to adding an extra evening of instruction each week, thus rendering possible more thorough instruction in every major subject, school heads declared. This change is accomplished without additional tuition charge.

The two-hour period will be fairly evenly divided between explanatory lecture work and the new type of recitation that has produced such satisfactory results during the past year.

CIVIL SERVICE JOBS SEEN BY HERRICK

"I will study and prepare and perhaps my chance will come."

These words of Abraham Lincoln today take on a new significance, in the opinion of Prof. Herrick of the Institute for Civil Service. Prof. Herrick said:

"We are in for a period of renewed prosperity and there will be a demand for workers, including civil service workers, and the prudent man will prepare now for post-depression opportunities which are bound to come. True enough, as far as the federal appointments go—during the wave of economy—vacancies will temporarily be fewer and examination dates not so frequent.

"Yet a prominent civil service commissioner in Washington was quoted in July as saying, 'Young folks at this time should be training themselves and looking forward to government service as a career. As we approach normal there will be a demand for more employes.'

"In ordinary times, about 50,000 are appointed annually to federal government positions. This does not take into consideration city and state civil service positions, which in Massachusetts and nine other states are filled on a competitive basis.

OPPORTUNITIES TO COME

"The depression is on the wane, our country still is growing fast and civil service opportunities, city, state and federal, are bound to increase. They will increase not only in proportion to the growth of the country, but because of the well defined trend of government, as a necessary economic regulator.

"Government business and private business become more closely interwoven every day. The terrific specialization of the industrial and machine age and the era of mass production has created gigantic business units that require aid supervision and salutary regulation in one form or another. In hundreds of activities, the government, city, state and federal, lends a helping hand to its citizens.

"Reliance on these services is growing every day. To consider the service rendered by government bureaus as sheer expense is a popular but a shallow misconception of the true facts. For example, who can consider the cost of the 11,000,000 pamphlets sent out by the Children's Bureaus of the Department of Labor on 'Pre-Natal Care,' 'Child Management,' etc. as anything but a splendid investment?

"It is interesting to know, too, that the Bureau of Standards has saved the people of the country $15,000,000 on just one experiment alone in improving the wearing qualities of brake linings.

GOVERNMENT FUNCTIONS

"Without question there are certain functions of the government which are practically indispensable, such as the regulation of hours, minimum wages, work of women and children in factories, codes of safety, sanitation and occupational diseases, all of which require a personnel to carry out. This personnel more often than not is chosen by civil service by competitive examinations.

"Other activities, more or less economic in their function, are carried on by the various governments, city, state and federal. For example, the personnel required for the maintenance of public schools, public libraries, museums, public highways, bridges, ferries, airways, the operation of national and state parks, oil reserves, forests, public hospitals, clinics and sanitariums, swells the lists of civil service opportunities for both men and women. Such supervisory and rule-making bodies as the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Commerce, the Federal Trade Commission and other necessary bureaus and departments require civil service employes in one capacity or another."

At the present time, there are more than 45 classifications listed at the Herrick Institute, in which openings occur from time to time because of retirements, deaths, old age pension features and also because of rapid growth of the country as a whole. Women are eligible to 23 of them. Age limits vary from 16 to 50 and a grammar school education is usually sufficient.

BURDETT'S TO BEGIN TERM SEPT. 6

The fall term at Burdett College will open on Sept. 6, when students in the executive secretarial, stenographic secretarial and business courses will begin their work.

The term for business administration and higher accounting students will open Sept. 19.

The evening school also will open on Sept. 19.

This will be the 54th year for Burdett College as a school of business training, during which time it has been continuously under the direction of its co-founder, President Fred H. Burdett.

Three faculty changes are announced in the business administration department for the coming year. First year English and correspondence will be taught by A. G. Stedman, for 20 years head of the correspondence training department of Dennison Manufacturing Co. and a leading authority in the field of English as applied to business.

Business finance and money and banking will be given by Malcolm C. Davis, a university graduate and for several years an executive of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Davis also is a member of the faculty of Northeastern University. Economic geography, business forms, first year business mathematics and first year accounting will be taught by Douglas A. Chandler of the busines administration department, now doing graduate work at Northeastern University.

C. P. A. preparation and higher accounting subjects will again be under the personal direction of Arthur H. Doyle, practicing certified public accountant and a graduate of Harvard University. To the course in higher accounting has been added the subjects of marketing and management problems, that accounting graduates may receive a somewhat broader training than is provided in the ordinary type of accounting course, college officials said.

Typewriting also is to be included in the accounting course, as a graduate of accounting often finds it helpful to be able to use the typewriter with facility in the conduct of his professional work. These advantages are provided in addition to all the higher accounting subjects, thereby making the course unique, it was stated. Instruction is intensive and only men high school and college graduates are admitted.

Watch the Eclipse

You Won't Have Another Chance Until 2017

Glance at the sky on Wednesday, August 31, at 3:23 P. M. daylight saving time. You will see the beginning of a total eclipse of the sun—the last total eclipse that will be visible under favorable conditions in the United States until August 21, 2017.

From Boston you will not be able to observe the eclipse in full. You will have to travel to Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, or the tip of Cape Cod for that. But Bostonians can stay home and witness most of it by merely looking out of the window.

Unless it is unusually cloudy, you will observe the moon's shadow biting into the sun's upper right edge. By 4:34 o'clock the sun will have shrunk to a slender crescent, the horns of which will point upward. Only 5 per cent of its disk will be visible. Then the surface will clear rapidly and by 5:39 the show will be over.

Smoked glass will be useful if you want to see the eclipse from beginning to end. Or, better still, take an old camera film that has been exposed until it is almost black, and look through that. You will get better visibility.

With reasonably clear weather, the city will not be cast into darkness, but buildings and streets will take on a peculiar pale yellowish hue. If clouds are heavy, offices will have to turn their lights on during the height of the phenomenon.

Incidentally, as you watch the eclipse, reflect on how much more you know than your Mayflower ancestors did when they landed at Plymouth Rock. If you were living in 1620 instead of 1932, you would be much upset by the sun's action, and consider it a Divine warning against the sins of mankind. But being an enlightened citizen of an enlightened country, you can take your eclipses or leave them alone, without worry.

That is progress.

When Taxpayers Cry

Their Load Is Too Heavy

Perhaps you read the captions in the news columns:

"Medford Protests Tax Rate Increase.
"Shouts of 'We Won't Pay' Fill the Hall.'
"Tax rate in Gardner reduced to $27.50.
"Adams tax rate increased $6, to $36.
"Tax rate in Revere reduced $2.
"Leominster tax rate increased $4.
"West Bridgewater tax rate $27.80, a decrease of $2.20."

Newspapers give prominence to municipal tax rates at this time BECAUSE THE PEOPLE ARE VITALLY INTERESTED IN THEM. When you touch the pocketbook, you touch the live nerve of public interest in government. It might be said that the hard times were worth while if they got the public interested in how their public money is being expended and often wasted by their public officials.

And this is important—the protest meeting of the 1000 Medford taxpayers was COMPOSED LARGELY OF WOMEN. They fired more questions at Mayor Burke than he probably had heard in his years of public service. "What was THIS spent for? Was IT NECESSARY?" There you get the root of the problem. Cities, like people, must cut their cloth to their income.

Sam Adams, if he was looking down this way, must have smiled with satisfaction. He, and the people of his day, knew how to protest with indignation against the riotous expenditure of money derived in taxes from the people.

Garner 'Worth Hearing'

Mr. John N. Garner has made his first visit to the East since he was nominated for Vice-President with Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for President.

The New York Times said of him and his visit:

"There are regions, such as California, where Mr. Garner is especially strong and where his aid may be not only useful but necessary; and nowhere will he not be heard with interest.

"In the East he is still largely a name, a reputation. The qualities in him so appreciated in the Southwest might be even more appreciated in the East, which, whether correctly or not, looks to him as the exemplar of a certain vivacity, salience, homeliness and directness of speech more ardent, more picturesque than the Eastern provinces are used to.

"And they (the East) want to hear him. They will find Mr. Garner worth hearing."

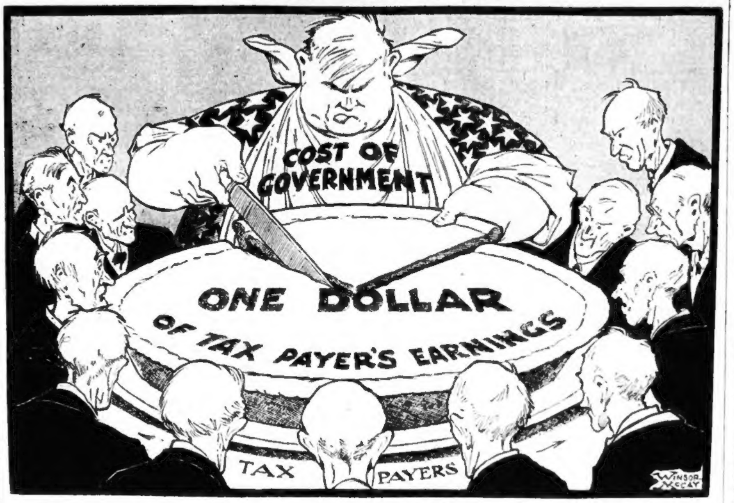
For thirty years Mr. John N. Garner has been in the public service of his country. And in all that time it never has been said that he has failed to speak his views with candor and clarity that all might understand. Ask the men who know him—the men who have served in Congress with him.

A Good Man Retires

Ainsley C. Armstrong retires as Deputy Superintendent after a lifetime of service in the Boston Police Department. He was a skilful examiner of criminals. He was a master of criminal records and, as everybody now knows, the records of the past are of vital value in detecting the authorship of current crime. By his public addresses he did much to acquaint the people with the problems of the police. The public ought to wish him well in his retirement. He has been of good service to them.

LISTEN, WORLD!—On Magazine Page Today

He Who Eats First!



The Government sits
With a knife in his mitts
Dissecting the national pie.
The Taxpayers wait
At the edge of the plate
With a longing in every eye.

He whittles a slab
With a stab and a grab
In a manner exceedingly deft.
"One quarter for me,"
He remarks in his glee,

It Never Fails!!!

But Uncle, spotting the shining, bald pate of the barber, is, naturally, a bit incredulous about the merits of the proffered restorative.

"If it is as good as he says," thinks Uncle, "why doesn't he use some on his own bare head?"

Do you, dear reader, remember the G. O. P. shouting at that time—"two chickens for every pot"—"two cars in every garage"—"poverty to be wiped out"—etc.?

What do you suppose the ten million unemployed in the nation would say to Uncle if THEIR opinions were asked now?

November will tell the answer.

Job Hunting

NEW YORK, Aug. 18—A culling of help-wanted ads. in various metropolitan journals reveals desperate sidelights in the business of job hunting. There is a commendable humility about those once on high plateaus of life seeking a place in the lowlands.

This, for instance, from a staid morning paper: "I went from $25 a week to $26,000 a year. I lost my position because my corporation failed. I don't ask or expect $26,000 yearly now. I am glad to start at $25 a week again and give my employer my very best."

Another from a woman: "I have had no experience whatever in earning a living. My $9000 income has shrunk to $750 annually. I have had results in social welfare charity work. I need a home and will work for my keep. If I cannot make myself useful in three weeks I'll step out."

Still another: "I am an honor graduate of a large eastern college, and have driven an automobile more than 100,000 miles here and abroad. I will take a chauffeur job at $30 a week with no limit to hours, and I promise to be self-effacing and courteous at all times."

* * *

Perhaps the most unusual mixup in magazine shops occurred recently. Through a secretarial mistake, a famous writer sold the same story to two magazines—a weekly and a monthly. It appeared in the weekly while the monthly was on the press. The presses stopped and the story was removed at a $10,000 expense which the writer has naturally agreed to pay.

* * *

My admiration for John N. Garner is keen, for I know, first hand, something of his fine early history. Yet I wish he would not smile in news pictures. It recalls my first experience with an unripe persimmon.

* * *

We used to try to make the novitiate, with green persimmons, in the throes of a devastating pucker, say: "I'm sitting pretty." It would come out: "I'm prittin sitty."

Few native New Yorkers know the delicious taste of the ripened pawpaw. Back home, it was "the poor man's banana." Scorched black by the sun, the skin outside held the thick yellow custard with a zippy tang unlike any fruit I ever tasted. I have only come across the pawpaw once in the metropolis. This was in a rich and elderly bachelor's home—a nautilus, chambered with spiraling marble stairways, Gobelin tapestries and Corots. His dessert, after a Lucullan feast, was pawpaws on black plates flanged in gold. He explained it was a jungle delicacy from the Uganda, and the fibber got away with it.

* * *

Another succulent fruit, we used to find in forest glades of the creek hollows, was the mulberry. An elongated blackberry, it had a sweetish purple ooze that was heavenly. For hours afterward, one's tongue was like a Chow's. During carefully chaperoned picnics with the girls we picked mulberries, and it is about as much fun as anybody can have. On one of these innocent fiestas, I came home with a "measuring worm" acrawl on my coat collar, a superstition that a new suit was being made, grandma explained. Several weeks later, one came from a mail order house in Cincinnati as a birthday surprise. I always suspected it was grandma's trick. Since, I've had a secret respect for worms.

In 5th avenue's promenade today, I saw a hatless fop tricked out not only in spats, monocle and white-knobbed cane, but his hair had a platinum rinse. Awk!

From Every Standpoint Income Tax Is Failure

Day by day the gap widens between our growing national expenditure and our diminishing national income. Substantial and courageous retrenchment seems beyond the capacity of democracy.

At the same time we are basing the hope of maintaining our solvency and uninterrupted spending by the Government upon a scheme of taxation which has broken down.

It is a demonstrated fact that it cannot achieve its calculated yield.

The income tax, which is the sole survivor of the major sources of our national revenue, cannot long maintain even the semblance of adequacy to our needs.

It has a competitor in the tax-exempt securities issued by the States and municipalities which outstrips and nullifies every increase of the income rates voted by Congress.

To add to the surtaxes, as is done in the recently enacted tax bill, merely increases the flight of the nation's wealth to the secure retreat of tax-exempt bonds of the States and municipalities. Morever, such jacking-up of the income tax rates results not only in a diminished yield of revenue, but in an increased withdrawal of the nation's capital from creative and productive enterprise.

While it thus hides under a complete exemption from taxation, it contributes nothing to the support of the Government or to the maintenance and revival of business.

The amount of wealth now immune from taxation, by resort to this expedient, is estimated to EXCEED TWENTY THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS. The onerous duty of meeting the present crisis is put upon the earners of income—as distinguished from the mere recipients of unearned income. Thus we curb and penalize the most deserving and least protected elements in our population, upon which our recovery depends.

To describe SUCH A SITUATION as ludicrous or incongruous is not strong enough. IT IS MONSTROUS. And yet there is no way of coping with it.

Prior to the adoption of the so-called income tax amendment—the Sixteenth Amendment—to the Constitution, it was established by the Supreme Court of the United States that income from State and municipal bonds was exempt from taxation by the Federal Government.

Since the adoption of the Sixteenth Amendment the Supreme Court has held that the amendment does not extend the taxing power of Congress to new or excepted subjects.

It has been thought that the situation could be cured by an amendment to the Constitution. A joint resolution proposing such an amendment was passed by the House of Representatives in 1923, but failed of passage in the Senate.

It was reintroduced in the succeeding Congress, but failed to pass in the House of Representatives. Since then no effort has been made to restrict, by Constitutional amendment, further issues of tax-exempt securities.

But even this method is not free from legal doubt as to its sufficiency, and concededly it would not affect the $20,000,000,000 of such securities already issued and outstanding.

Lower surtaxes would mitigate the evil, but it would not go to its heart. Such reduction would reduce the pressure to escape taxable income, but it would not eliminate the evil, which would continue to undermine the national revenue and put an outrageously unfair burden upon the earners of income and the men of enterprise and industry who create the nation's wealth.

We are evidently riding for a change in our tax system. Some other form of tax will have to be substituted for the barren and futile surtaxes of the present tax bill. It is impossible for us to persist in a scheme of taxation which exempts wealth and gives to so large a proportion of the nation's rich investors complete immunity from the common burdens of taxation.

As pointed out by a former Treasury official, we seem clearly headed for a TAX ON SALES OR EXPENDITURES, accompanied by a greatly broadened base of liability and contribution to taxation.

THE PRESENT INCOME TAX IS A FAILURE FROM EVERY POINT OF VIEW.

By Edgar A. Guest

Just Folks

The Fighter

And if the fight I lose, what then?
The world is filled with stronger men
Than I, whose blows I cannot meet.
There's no disgrace in such defeat
Unless, perchance, afraid to fall,
I will not face my foe at all.

Lord, spare me that! The stronger man
May down me, since he knows he can.
The odds are with him. At a blow
He has the power to lay me low,
But till I cannot raise a fist
His every onslaught I'd resist.

I would not crawl upon the dust
Until I'm helpless and I must.
Outmatched I may be, but I'd fight
With all my courage and my might,
That he who puts me on my back

Some say 'tis wisdom oft to flee.
But judge of that each man must be,
And sometimes for his self-respect
A man must stand with head erect
And take the cruel blows which fall,
